CROWD WATCHES LINDY ATTACK AIR MAIL BILL

Lines Denied Fair Trial, He Says.

BY JOHN HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Pictures on Back Page.)

Washington, D. C., March 16.—[Special.]—Two of America's noted flyers, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and Clarence Chamberlin, agreed today in demanding just treatment for the country's commercial air lines.

Lindbergh, the Atlantic solo flight pioneer, who yesterday flatly refused the post of aviation counsel to the administration, came to Washington to get one thing written into the official records of the air mail controversy. He got it in, not once, but many times, as he sat in the witness chair before the senate postoffice committee, which is considering the administration bill to restore carriage of the mail to commercial lines. Over and over he demanded the right of the air mail companies to a fair trial of the charges of fraud and collusion on the strength of which their contracts were canceled last February.

Speaks for Investors.

Chamberlin, the trans-Atlantic pilot who accepted the administration offer, insisted that out of fairness to innocent investors and employés the former contract holding companies be at least allowed to come in and bid when future contracts are to be awarded.

Col. Lindbergh declared, as he began his testimony: "I believe this bill leaves untouched the most fundamental question, and that is whether the commercial lines shall have the right to a trial before their guilt is established."

He insisted, as he answered question after question by the committee members: "The only point I am making is that these commercial companies—or any other American organization—have the right to be tried before being condemned; they have been convicted without having been found guilty."

Demands Trial of Charges.

Col. Lindbergh repeated as he prepared to leave the stand: "Whatever action is taken should include a just trial of any charges that have been made."

His attention was called to a clause in the bill put in to help disqualify as future bidders for air mail contracts any of the companies whose contracts were canceled. The clause states that no company with a claim pending against the government shall be eligible to bid.

"As far as that paragraph is concerned," Col. Lindbergh said, "it is one of the most unjust acts ever seen in American legislation."

He was pressed with questions by Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney [Dem., Wyo.], until lately first assistant postmaster general. The Democratic senator inquired whether the witness did not know that one party to a contract could always cancel it if fraud were shown to have been committed by the other party.

Believes Tradition Broken.

"That may be technically true as to individuals, but I don't believe in the history of this country that the government has ever acted on implication without trial," the witness answered. "It is so obvious that these organizations have a right to a trial and hearing that it's not a legal question."

Later Senator M. M. Logan [Dem., Ky.] was doing the questioning.

"It is true," he remarked, "that one party to a contract may cancel it for cause, but if he does he must stand ready to answer a suit for damages. And this bill seeks to deny that right to these companies, isn't that so?"

"I think that provision is as contrary to American tradition as any act I've ever seen," replied Col. Lindbergh.

Says Old Lines Should Bid.

Succeeding the man who beat him across the Atlantic by two weeks back in 1927, Chamberlin testified:

"If the commercial lines that held mail contracts are able to meet the conditions of reorganization then they should be allowed to bid out of consideration to the investors in them."

It was that same clause concerning claims, objected to by Col. Lindbergh, he explained, that he believed should be stricken out.

"A majority of the people in the old air lines—the stockholders, the mechanics, and the pilots—had nothing to do with the way those contracts were awarded," he declared.

In his subsequent testimony Chamberlin was not so kind to certain commercial companies. He charged that operating companies owned by two of the four big holding corporations in the aviation industry had bought inferior and comparatively unsafe planes

Port Huron, Mich., March 16.—[Special.]—The first murder checked against the escape of John Dillinger, national desperado, from the county jail at Crown Point, Ind., two weeks ago, occurred here tonight with the death of Charles Cavanaugh, undersherif.

Cavanaugh was shot early today in a pistol battle with Herbert Youngblood, who later died of his wounds. Youngblood was the Gary Negro whom Dillinger armed with a machine gun and liberated from the Indiana jail.

The two traveled together in their escape, and, according to Youngblood's own deathbed statements, they were still together in this vicinity last night.

The death of Cavanaugh, although evened by the earlier death of Youngblood, gave impetus to the police search in this section for the fugitive Dillinger.

Reported in Canada.

The Negro's statement that the terrorist visited this region is accepted at face value, and tonight Michigan state police were watching every road leading to the Canadian boundary, while Canadian police were keeping an intent watch on their side.

Every hour brought fresh reports of Dillinger, but none could be tracked down. One of the newest rumors was that he had been seen crossing the St. Clair river into Canada, near Sarnia, Ont., and had sped away in an automobile which had been waiting on the Ontario side.

The gun battle which cost both Undersherif Cavanaugh and Youngblood their lives took place when Cavanaugh, Sherif William Van Antwerp and Deputy Howard Lohr trapped him.

Youngblood revealed himself a fit companion for his escape sponsor and erstwhile companion, Dillinger, by blazing away at the three officers with a gun.

Boasting Brings Downfall.

Bullets struck all three and also hit a Negro bystander. Cavanaugh and Lohr were critically wounded.

Youngblood, flashing a bank roll and boasting in Negro saloons that he was a "bad man," came to Port Huron Wednesday night. During a moment of drunken ebullience last night he boasted that he was Dillinger's companion in the jailbreak and Sherif Van Antwerp was notified.

Accompanied by Deputies Cavanaugh and Lohr, the sherif went to a small store this morning where Youngblood was loitering. Cavanaugh grabbed the Negro and took an automatic pistol from him. Youngblood stepped back, drew another weapon and opened fire.

Conceals Chief's Whereabouts.

One bullet struck Cavanaugh, piercing his lungs. Another struck Lohr in the chest. Sherif Van Antwerp was wounded in the left arm. Then bullets from all three of the officers' guns struck Youngblood and he fell. A stray bullet struck Eugene Field, Negro, who was also in the store.

Youngblood lived for four hours. He said he came to Port Huron with Dillinger and that he had seen Dillinger last night. The outlaw was driving an automobile, the dying Negro said, but he refused to tell, if he knew, where Dillinger was going.

Capt. Matt Leach of the Indiana state police, who was in Detroit on a tip that Dillinger had been seen there, identified Youngblood. He said he was sure that Dillinger was in this district. Tonight Leach wired Gov. McNutt of Indiana that the "Dillinger trail was hot."

NEW JAIL ESCAPE STORY

Sensational disclosures in the investigation of the escape of John Dillinger, killer and bank robber, from the Crown Point jail appeared imminent last night as Ernest Blunk, prison official, who is charged with aiding the outlaw to escape, was taken to Indianapolis and questioned there by Philip Lutz Jr., attorney general of Indiana.

Reports were published that Blunk had given a new story of Dillinger's departure which exploded the version that the convict bluffed his way to freedom with a toy wooden pistol which he had carved in his cell and blackened with shoe polish.

According to these reports, Dillinger was actually armed with a .45 caliber automatic pistol when he sub-

Druggan Asks Release from Prison Today

Atlanta, Ga., March 16.—[Special.]—An attempt to free Terrence [Terry] Druggan, notorious Chicago beer baron, on a writ of habeas corpus will be made here tomorrow in federal court of the northern district of Georgia.

Judge E. Marvin Underwood has signed an order requiring Warden Aderhold of the Atlanta federal penitentiary to produce Druggan tomorrow for a hearing on the writ. The legal questions involved are considered of such far-reaching consequence that members of the attorney general's staf in Washington are expected to be here to resist the writ.

Asserts Term Completed.

Druggan's petition asks his immediate release on the ground that he has served all of the time which could legally be required of him under the indictments to which he pleaded guilty in the United States court of the northern district of Illinois at Chicago, when he was sentenced in February, 1932.

His total sentence was two and a half years' imprisonment, together with a fine of $5,000. There were four indictments. Two of these indictments were based on alleged misstatements of fact in connection with an offer submitted to the collector of internal revenue in compromise of his income tax liability for 1922-'25, each count charging the same offense in different languages.

The other two indictments deal with alleged failure to file income tax returns for 1924-'25 and charged that failure to file the returns was evading the tax.

In his petition Druggan also recites payments to the government upon assessed tax and penalties which aggregate more than $50,000. It also asserts that the government seized $2,300 which he had deposited in registry of the Atlanta penitentiary for the purchase of various articles prisoners are permitted to buy during the prison terms, and that the government has applied this upon the large tax claim held against him.

Home Sold for $44,000.

The petition recites the sale of Druggan's home at Miami Beach, Fla., for $44,000 under restraint proceedings, which Druggan said is worth $125,000, and that various other property has been seized and sold, resulting in his being subjected to heavy penalties in addition to the tax.

Druggan's attorney, Hal Lindsay, contends that the government cannot exact such penalties and collect them and at the same time punish by fine and imprisonment.

Lindsay also asserts that the statute under which two of the indictments are drawn was not enacted until two months after the alleged defense of statements made in connection with the offer in compromise.

Druggan has only five months more to serve.

DENIES TERRY'S CLAIMS.

United States Attorney Dwight H. Green yesterday forwarded the record of the Druggan investigation and trial to the federal attorney at Atlanta. Mr. Green said in refutation of the beer baron's claims that his property had been confiscated to satisfy the fine assessed and to cover the income tax delinquency that the fine had not been paid and no property taken to cover it. The property confiscated was for the tax deficiency. Federal officials here understand that the government will oppose Druggan's attempt to win his freedom, pointing out that his record in Leavenworth prison was not such as to give him any time off for good behavior.

GREECE HALTS FLIGHT, BUT U. S. MAY LOSE HIM

BULLETIN.

ATHENS, Greece, March 17.—(Saturday.)—(AP)—Samuel Insull, Chicago fugitive, was reported today to have gone on a "hunger strike" aboard the little Greek freighter upon which he was discovered attempting to flee from Greece.

BY EUGENE SPECK.

ATHENS, March 16.—The long reach of the wireless today caught Samuel Insull, fugitive utilities promoter, in full flight 60 miles southeast of the island of Crete. He was aboard the little Greek freighter, Maiotis, bound for Kosseir, Egypt, on the Red sea.

Tonight, however, the exact status of Insull was still uncertain. The government insists that the captain of the Maiotis has obeyed its order to turn the ship around and return immediately to Piraeus, seaport of Athens. The vessel will reach Piraeus tomorrow afternoon, according to this version.

New Escape Rumored.

Other reports, however, say the captain refused to put about and demanded to know what the penalty would be if he did not. The response was "loss of papers." This report says that thereupon the captain continued on his course.

Still another report says Insull managed somehow to get off the Maiotis and onto another craft.

The mystery will be cleared up tomorrow. Greek officials tonight appeared confident of the fugitive's arrival, and a conference was held to determine what will be done with him when he does arrive.

The government wirelessed the ship's captain to take all precautions against any attempt by Insull to commit suicide.

Next Step Uncertain.

Assuming that the government's version that Insull will be back in Greece tomorrow is correct, several courses are open. He might be left aboard the ship and sail away again if he offers himself to the police and declares that he only tried to carry out the government's wishes that he leave.

Another possibility is that he will be taken off the ship and placed on the first vessel bound direct for the United States.

Meanwhile Mrs. Insull has been ordered deported as a public danger. The date of her deportation, however, was not mentioned.

Mrs. Insull was taken to her home at 8 a. m. today after remaining at the police station nearly 17 hours. She is under constant surveillance at the flat with her maid.

How Insull Was Traced.

His whereabouts became known to the authorities this morning when Andrew Synodinos, one of two brothers who own the ship aboard which Insull fled, read in the papers that the flight had created a world-wide sensation.

Synodinos went straight to the authorities and told the story of Insull's arrangements. The shipping line had been approached, he said, with the assertion that Insull was anxious to avoid publicity and that he was also being protected against publicity by the Greek government. Insull's agent said to have been an Englishman, produced travel papers, offered a good price, and the deal was completed. Synodinos protested that he acted in the best of faith.

Insull left his apartment early Wednesday morning, departing by means of a blind passageway running alongside the building. He slid down some planking while police guarded the front door, drove to Piraeus, boarded the vessel, and was under way for the African coast a few hours later.

As soon as Synodinos had told his story Admiral Hadjikyriakos began attempts to reach the 1,700 ton ship by means of the Athens wireless station. There was no response from the ves-

Film Honors to Miss Hepburn, C. Laughton

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., March 16.—[Special.]—Katharine Hepburn, youthful Bryn Mawr graduate who came to Hollywood following a brief stage appearance in New York, and Charles Laughton, the English actor, tonight won the highest honors the screen world can bestow. They received the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences awards for the best performance by an actress and actor for a period of 18 months.

Miss Hepburn was selected for her work in "Morning Glory" and Laughton for his performance in "The Private Life of Henry VIII." Neither of the winners was present at the annual dinner of the members of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences. Laughton is making a picture in England and Miss Hepburn is in New York. The trophies were golden statuettes.

May Robson Is Second.

"Cavalcade" was voted the best production, "Farewell to Arms" second, and "Little Women" third.

Runners-up to Miss Hepburn were May Robson for her performance in "Lady for a Day" and Diana Wynward, English actress, for her work in "Cavalcade." Runners-up to Laughton were Paul Muni for his performance in "I Am a Fugitive from a Chain Gang" and Leslie Howard, British actor, but who has appeared in America for ten years, for his acting in "Berkeley Square."

Robert Lord was adjudged the writer of the best original story, "One Way Passage." The prize for the best adaptation went to Sarah Y. Mason and Victor Heerman, who collaborated on "Little Women."

Walt Disney Gets Certificate.

Frank Lloyd, who directed "Cavalcade," was voted the outstanding director. The certificate for the best cartoon was awarded to Walt Disney for his "Three Little Pigs."

Nearly a thousand persons, among them the most important figures in the screen industry, stars, writers, directors, and executives, came to the academy dinner dance to pay tribute to those chosen as outstanding.

MILWAUKEE AVE. SECTION PERILED BY $150,000 FIRE

A spectacular fire for which a 5-11 and numerous special alarms were sounded early today destroyed the three story manufacturing building on Mautene court, which extends south a half block from 1266 Milwaukee avenue. A half hour after the fire was discovered Fire Marshal M. J. Corrigan said the loss already was not less than $150,000 and the flames were still raging.

The first alarm was sent in by a pedestrian who saw a watchman leaning from a second story window and yelling that he was trapped by flames, preventing him from going down the stairway. The watchman was rescued by the first firemen that arrived.

A high wind was blowing and a large part of the apparatus that arrived in response to the many alarms was used in preventing the spread of the flames to adjoining buildings on Milwaukee avenue.

Early it had not been determined how many establishments were housed in the building. Among those known to be there were the Premier Fabric company, manufacturers of upholstery, the Progress Case and Bag company, makers of purses, grips and traveling bags, and the John Holmes, Inc., radio manufacturers. Because of the rapid spread of the flames Marshal Corrigan said he would launch an investigation to determine whether it was of incendiary origin.

RECEIPTS ROCKET OVER ESTIMATES ON INCOME TAX

Washington, D. C., March 16.—(AP)—Secretary Morgenthau reported today to President Roosevelt that income tax receipts for the first quarter of the year were well above estimates and far more than a year ago.

Payments to the close of business March 15, the day when all returns were due, were $147,794,000. In announcing this figure on the basis of telegraphic reports from collectors, the treasury said corresponding collections last year were $99,847,000.

In 1933, however, the date for filing returns was extended from March 15 to March 31, after the bank holiday.

Treasury estimates of income tax payments for March are 250 millions as compared with 174 millions last March.

370,000 New Yorkers Report.

New York, March 16.—[Special.]—Income tax returns of 370,000 Manhattan taxpayers included 160,000 downtown who paid 20 million dollars, a check today indicated. On Thursday, the last day for filing, 100,000 returns came in by mail and yesterday brought 60,000 more.

Teachers Will Get a Month's Pay in Cash

Chicago's 17,000 teachers and other school employés will receive a month's pay totaling $4,040,000 next week. The money is for salary in May, 1933, and is the first cash pay since the board of education on Dec. 21 paid the teachers and other employés for the last two weeks of April, 1933.

James B. McCahey, president of the board, announced the new pay roll yesterday after he and Mayor Kelly had spent two days conferring with loop bankers, who agreed to purchase $3,000,000 worth of 1933 tax anticipation warants.

Checks Await Council Vote.

The remainder of the $4,040,000 will come from $700,000 cash on hand in the board's treasury, $290,000 received yesterday from the state distributive fund, and a $100,000 payment for a school site at Racine avenue and 90th street, which was sold to the Ridge Park district.

Checks for the teachers are ready and will be issued soon after the city council passes a supplemental tax levy ordinance revising the 1933 school educational fund levy to meet the $43,000,000 limit fixed by the state legislature's "pegged levy" measure. The council is expected to act next Wednesday after receiving a resolution asking such action which is to be drawn at the school board's regular Wednesday meeting.

Action for teachers' pay started immediately after the passage of the "pegged levy" bill, which increased the board's borrowing power by $3,000,000. Mayor Kelly and Mr. McCahey presented the financial plight of the schools in a conference with representatives of five banks, who agreed to purchase the new issue of warrants made possible by the "levy pegging" bill.

Reduces Back Salary Total.

Pay will be ready for the employés as soon as cash can be transferred to the school accounts following the aldermanic vote, probably in two days. The $4,040,000 pay roll will reduce the board's back salary obligations to $24,460,000.

The special budget committee of the school board yesterday studied tentative 1934 building fund appropriations of $13,696,500, but failed to approve a total figure after recommending minor changes. The proposed 1934 figure calls for an increase of $4,773,500 over 1933, accountable to apportionment of additional funds for completion of five new high schools now under construction. An increase of $275,000 in the maintenance fund was approved, and reductions of $150,000 in the building recommissioning fund and $117,436 in the portable school fund were recommended.

sel. The wireless station at Crete was then ordered to reach the Maiotis. Finally the ship answered.

The captain, John Mousouris, admitted that Insull was a passenger. It was then revealed that he had escaped a full day before the police had become aware that he was gone.

Evidence that the police were unaware of his flight was presented today when it was made known that they finally had persuaded Rumania to grant him a visa on his American travel document. The date of the visa is March 15 ,one day after Insull had already gone.

Ultimate Destination Uncertain.

Whether Insull meant to make Kosseir, on the northwestern shore of the Red sea, his permanent refuge is not known, but that was his first destination, according to clearance papers unearthed by the police.

One report is that he intended to make his refuge Ethiopia, which is ruled by the dark skinned Emperor Haile Selassie I., who calls himself "King of Kings of Ethiopia, Conquering Lion of the Tribe of Judah, Elect of God, Light of the World." He claims to be a descendant of King Solomon and the queen of Sheba.

Haile Selassie's right to the throne has frequently been under fire on the grounds that he lacks sufficient royal blood to give him a clear right to the throne and all its titles. It is pointed out that the United States has no extradition treaty with Ethiopia.

Persia Seen as Goal.

It is considered probable, however, that he meant to circle Arabia and enter Persia through the Persian gulf. Kosseir is under strong British influence and it is doubtful that he could have remained there long. The cost of his passage also indicates a longer voyage, for Insull is known to have paid at least $7,500 for his accommodation, and some reports say $10,000.

The curious twist to the whole case is that Insull's women folk ruined his plans. But for them he would still be on his way. Greek officials secretly would have been pleased last night if they could have washed their hands of the whole case when they took Mrs. Insull to the police station with Mme. Helene Kouryoumdjoglou, Insull's professed hostess. At that time the police were in a hysteria of rumors, not knowing whether their quarry had left or was hiding in Greece. Mme. Kouryoumdjoglou was confronted by an officer, who demanded:

"Tell us whether Insull has left Greece. If you do so and you will name his destination we will release you immediately. If he has compiled with our order and we have proof from you of that fact by a statement where he is we are satisfied."

Women Refuse to Tell.

Instead both women stuck to the story that they did not know where Insull could be found. The fear that he was hiding, perhaps in Athens, thereby threatening a national scandal, drove the police to extend their hunt through southeastern Europe and eventually caused the cabinet to order the Maiotis to come back.

Now the Greek government is in the position of having compelled the return of the fugitive whom they have been trying to expel for three months. Greece was shaken by the police upheaval when it was known Insull had slipped out unobserved. It had not recovered from that shock before there were special editions announcing that Insull was being ordered back.

The government is in a difficult position, for it was forced to sacrifice either the reputation of the police or the actual accomplishment of the cabinet's avowed purpose in getting Insull outside the country.

Greece Angered by Incident.

Now, however, the authorities no longer are in a temper to dally with the case. Insull's surprisingly agile flight when all Greece thought him an invalid—an action which led Greeks to believe he had betrayed his best friends—and fears that the Greek police system has become a laughing stock through Insull, and finally the emphatic determination of the strongest personalities in the cabinet to bury the affair as quickly as possibly, point to a rapid termination.

Foreign Minister Demetrios Maximos was disgusted when he heard the news. Minister of Interior Moundjourides, who was responsible for keeping tab on Insull, was scheduled to leave the cabinet eventually anyhow, but it is learned that when Maximos was informed of Insull's escape he told Moundjourides, "Either you resign or I do." Moundjourides resigned immediately.

WHERE INSULL'S FLIGHT WAS HALTED

Cross indicates where the Greek freighter, on board of which Samuel Insull was fleeing, was halted. The ship is now sailing back to Athens to turn the fugitive over to the Greek authorities. Whether Greece will then start the fugitive back to Chicago or permit him to sail again to Egypt, and go from there to Abyssinia, was a question which Athens officials refused last night to answer.

Five Indictments Await Insulls' Return

Five separate indictments await the return of the fugitive Insull brothers, Samuel Sr. and Martin J., from Greece and Canada respectively. Two of the indictments were voted by the federal grand jury and and three by the Cook county grand jury.

Both brothers are charged in the federal court with violating the national bankruptcy statutes and with using the mails in a scheme to defraud in connection with the collapse of the $150,000,000 Corporation Securities company.

In the state court both brothers are charged jointly in two indictments, one alleging that they abstracted $66,000 of Middle West Utilities funds to protect brokerage accounts carried in the name of Washington Flexner, president of the Lincoln Printing company. The other charges the brothers with abstracting $104,222 from the treasury of the Mississippi Valley Utilities company, an Insull subsidiary, for the same purpose.

Third Accuses Martin Alone.

The third state indictment charges Martin alone with embezzling $377,720 from Middle West Utilities company to protect his personal brokerage accounts. All three state indictments were voted on Oct. 4, 1932.

Efforts of Illinois to extradite Samuel Insull from Athens, Greece, where he took refuge after a flight from Paris when the indictments were voted, were unsuccessful, the Greek court holding that he committed no crime. Yesterday the appeal court of Ontario ordered Martin Insull extradited.

The United States government failed in its attempts to extradite both the brothers. The Greek court set Samuel Insull free on the bankruptcy fraud charge and the Canadian court dismissed an appeal for the extradition of Martin because the consulate was not represented by Ontario counsel.

The government cannot try Martin on the bankruptcy or mail fraud charges because he was extradited by Illinois, but will try Samuel, when he returns to the United States, together with 18 other former officers or directors of Corporation Securities company, on the charge of using the mails to defraud.

To Press Mail Charge.

The government sought to extradite Samuel Insull on the bankruptcy indictment because the extradition treaty with Greece does not cover the crime of using the mails to defraud. But now that he is being sent back by Greece of its own volition the United States attorney's office will press the mail fraud charge first.

The mail fraud indictment is based upon allegedly "false pretenses, representations, and promises" made to prospective investors in Corporation Securities common stock. The true bill charges that during October, 1929, the defendants engaged in a nation-wide selling campaign, and 700,000 units of stock, one share each of common and preferred, together with great blocks of common stock were sold to the public at greatly excessive prices.

Company Operating at Loss.

The investors were told, according to the indictment, that the stock would yield 6 per cent when as a matter of fact the company had no income and was operating at a loss.

One of the alleged misrepresentations was "That the common stock was a sound investment and 'the best buy on the market' when the stock in reality was worthless."

The 'bankruptcy fraud indictment charges the Insull brothers and eight others with transferring funds aggregating some 2 million dollars from the treasury of Corporation Securities company in contemplation of bankruptcy.

The maximum penalty for either of the federal charges is five years' imprisonment and a $10,000 fine on each count.

Canada Requests Britain to Send Air Fleet Across Sea

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., March 16.—The Canadian government is endeavoring to have a British airplane squadron emulate Gen. Italo Balbo's mass flight to Chicago last year. The British government has been requested to send a squadron across the Atlantic to participate in the celebration this summer of Toronto's 100th anniversary. Minister of Defense Donald Sutherland told parliament today the government is awaiting an answer from London.

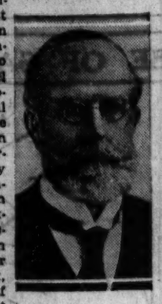
ALLEGED KIDNAPERS FREED.

Edward Stodolny, 30 years old, and Joseph Surovich, 25 years old, charged with kidnaping, were released by Judge James J. Fardy yesterday when their alleged victim, John J. Bazdonas, 2506 West 63d street, failed to identify them sufficiently.

CANADA JAILS MARTIN INSULL FOR EXTRADITION

Utility Operator Loses Court Fight.

Martin Insull, brother of Samuel and former head of the Middle West Utilities company, last night was locked up in the jail at Toronto, Ontario, to await the arrival of a Chicago policeman, who will escort him here for trial on charges of larceny, larceny by bailee, and embezzlement. An order for his extradition was issued yesterday in Toronto by Sir William Mulock, chief justice of the High Court of Justice of Ontario.



CHIEF JUSTICE MULOCK.

State's Attorney Courtney announced last night that he would send a representative to accompany Insull here when official notification of the Canadian court action is received. Lieut. Frank Johnson, it was indicated, will be given the task.

Final Proceedings Brief.

Insull, who had been at liberty on bonds while his seventeen month fight to escape extradition went on, left a luxurious hotel suite to go to court. The final proceedings occupied only three minutes, Sir William giving the order upholding the recommendation for extradition previously made by Justice A. C. Kingstone, and immediately afterward the white haired fugitive was seized by Canadian policemen.

At the jail Insull went through the usual routine inspection and examination and was assigned to a cell. His pipe and tobacco were taken from him, as Canadian rules permit of no smoking in prison. A little later he lay down on a hard prison cot and drew a coarse gray blanket over him. The one time head of a billion dollar corporation did without sheets.

Sends Message to Wife.

To his wife, shortly before the doors closed on him, he sent a message:

"Tell her I'm feeling fine," he said.

All the talking in his behalf in court was done by his counsel, J. C. McRuer. That was only a little. After Sir William had read his opinion he asked Mr. McRuer if his client was under bond.

"He is, my lord," replied the attorney.

"Is he here?"

"Yes, my lord."

"Then I presume he will surrender," remarked Sir William.

"Yes, my lord."

That was all. A bailif took the arm of the prisoner and marched him jailwards.

Expects Order Today.

State's Attorney Courtney said he expected the official order of extradition to reach him today. The Canadian authorities will notify the state department in Washington, which will communicate with Gov. Horner, and the government forwards the notification here. Lieut. Johnson will be ready to depart for Toronto tonight.

The state's attorney assigned Assistant State's Attorney John O'Hora to prosecute Insull, and announced that the state would be ready for trial immediately upon his return. O'Hora, who was an assistant prosecutor under former State's Attorney John A. Swanson, presented the Insull evidence to the grand jury and is familiar with the case.

Martin Insull's only recourse, according to dispatches from Canada, is an appeal to the privy council of England, but by the time such an appeal could be perfected he would be extradited anyway. Such an appeal does not provide a stay of proceedings.

Opinion Is Brief.

The opinion of Chief Justice Muloch was based on the previous ruling of Justice Kingstone that the state of Illinois had established a prima facie case in at least two of its three charges involving the abstraction of $547,942 from the Middle West Utilities company, of which Martin Insull was president, and from the Mississippi Valley Utilities company, an Insull holding subsidiary.

"In this matter the United States government has instituted an appeal for the extradition of one Martin Insull," says the opinion, "who was indicted in the state of Illinois on three charges:

"First, in respect to the alleged theft of $377,720; second, in respect to the alleged theft of $66,000; and third, in respect to the alleged theft of $104,222.

No Support for Second Charge.

"We are of the opinion that no evidence was given to support the theft charge involving $66,000. In respect to the alleged theft of $104,222—this was divided into three parts—we are of the opinion that there was no evidence presented in support of any but the $20,000 theft involved.

"Our opinion is that a prima facie case is established in regard to the alleged theft of $347,700 and $20,000."

Insull was indicted with his brother Samuel by the Cook county grand jury on Oct. 4, 1932, and his subsequent arrest at Orillia precipitated his fight to defeat extradition. Pending the outcome of his extradition appeal, the government made a second application for his extradition, this time based on a federal indictment charging violation of the bankruptcy statutes in connection with the collapse of Corporation Securities, an Insull investment trust.

Faces Only State Charge.

The attempt to extradite Martin Insull on the federal charge collapsed when the court ruled that the American consulate should have been represented by Ontario counsel. Under the law Insull cannot be tried on the federal charge after the state is through with him. He can be tried only on the charge for which he is extradited.

It now appears that Samuel Insull, who is to be returned to this country by Greece, will be tried by the government and Martin by the state, but that neither authority will try them together.

GREEN ANNOUNCES GOVERNMENT PLANS FOR INSULL TRIAL

United States Attorney Dwight H. Green last night announced the program of the federal government for the return and trial of Samuel Insull, whom the Greek government plans to place aboard the next America bound ship.

Mr. Green said the captain of the vessel would be requested by wireless to keep Insull under surveillance to preclude any possible attempt to escape. Upon his arrival in an American port Insull will be arrested, Mr. Green said, and taken before a United States commissioner for a removal hearing. If he wishes a hearing the government will ask that bail of $100,000 be fixed. If Insull waives a hearing he will be started immediately for Chicago, Mr. Green added.

Once here, Insull will be arraigned before a federal judge and bail will be set, as well as a date for his trial on charges of using the mails to defraud. Several weeks at least will be required for the preliminary pleadings, but Mr. Green said the government would seek the earliest possible trial date.

BROTHERS-IN-LAW TAKEN BY DEATH IN SAME NIGHT

Two brothers-in-law who were restaurant partners died three hours apart last night. They were Peter X. Pour, 46 years old, 5258 Drexel avenue, and Verley A. Sanders, 52, of 6527 Kimbark avenue. They operated restaurants at 128 East Adams street, 324 East 61st street, and 1332 East 63d street.

Pour died first, and an inquest will be held today to determine whether his death was due to a natural cause or poisoning. Pour visited his restaurant at 1332 East 63d street, rummaged around a safe, and then went into a washroom. He was found dead there by Fred Tingley, a chef. Police found an empty vial, which had contained poison, on the floor of the washroom.

Sanders was notified at the restaurant at 324 East 61st street of Pour's death, and he left immediately for the 63d street cafe. At 61st street and Cottage Grove avenue Sanders collapsed from a heart attack. He died soon afterward in his home.

THRONGS GREET GEN. HALLER, WAR HERO OF POLAND

Here in Interest of Fund for Veterans.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

Gen. Josef Haller, Poland's wartime military hero, was welcomed to the city last night by Chicagoans of Polish descent. As retired leader of the Polish armies the general is touring the United States in furtherance of the campaign started in 1925 by Ignace Paderewski, Polish diplomat and president, to raise funds for medical care and the maintenance of more than 4,000 disabled ex-soldiers in this country who enlisted in the Polish service during the war.

Gets Colorful Greeting.

A band composed of veterans who had fought under him struck up the American national anthem while Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts, American Legionnaires, and a small boys' drum and bugle corps stood at attention. Children in costume spoke their greetings, presented flowers, and the brief ceremony was over.

Later in the Drake hotel Gen. Haller met reporters and discussed European conditions, Hitler's principles, and his own belief in preparedness.

"I see no probability of war in Europe at this time," Gen. Haller said. "The armies of Europe are not ready for war. No army is in a position to wage aggressive warfare. The big thing now is the existence of schools of preparation for war where our knowledge of warfare and scientific developments are utilized."

Backs Preparedness.

Preparedness is important, Gen. Haller said, adding that "a nation will have to be prepared for war in order to maintain its safety."

Gen. Haller will spend a week here in the interests of the ex-service men's fund. This morning he will visit Cardinal Mundelein and later will visit Consul General Titus Zbyszewski at the Polish consulate. Afterward he will go to the city hall where he will be greeted by Mayor Kelly. The consul general will entertain Gen. Haller at luncheon. This afternoon the visitor will meet Rufus C. Dawes at A Century of Progress.

Guest at Banquet.

Tomorrow night Gen. Haller will be the guest at a banquet at the Drake hotel. Speakers will be Chauncey McCormick, Charles S. Dewey, former financial adviser to Poland; Maj. Gen. Preston Brown, Admiral Wat T. Cluverius, and Dr. Zbyszewski. On Monday afternoon he will receive guests and in the evening will be the guest of American and Polish veterans at the Polish Roman Catholic union.

FOREMOST FILM STARS OF 1932-1933 RECEIVE TROPHIES

Katharine Hepburn and Charles Laughton were honored in Hollwood last night for having given the best film performances in the 17 months ended last Jan. 1. Miss Hepburn's award was for her playingin "Morning Glory" and Laughton's for his performance in "The Private Life of Henry VIII." Miss Hepburn is shown as Juliet, Shakespeare's hetoine, in one of the sequences of "Morning Glory," and Laughton is shown as Henry VIII. (Story on page 1.)

15 GAMBLING PLACES RAIDED; FOUR IN LOOP

Police raided fifteen alleged gambling places in the loop and outlying districts yesterday in compliance with a recent order of Commissioner James Allman to stop all gambling.

Four raids were made in the loop, ten on the west side and one on the northwest side. The places raided downtown were at 25 West Adams street; 73 West Randolph street; 123 North Clark street; and 173 West Madison street. These raids were led by Sergt. Martin Mullen. Those on the west side were led by Capt. Patrick Collins, Des Plaines street station commander.

Mrs. Florence Fink, 25 years old, 3842 Wilcox street, and Miss Esther Mack, 26, of 1809 North Park avenue, were fined $100 each yesterday by Judge Harold P. O'Connell in the Women's court, on charges of operating a handbook at 30 North Dearborn street. In another court, before Judge Frederick W. Elliott, 61 men seized as inmates in a number of raids on loop gambling spots were freed because they were arrested without warrants.

SANITARY BOARD PROFITS BRING TAX CONVICTION

Ex-Contractor Is Now CWA Worker.

Walter W. McKeown, former partner in a contracting concern that did work for the sanitary district during the district's whoopee days, was sentenced yesterday to serve four months in the county jail for violation of the income tax law by Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan.

At the same time it was disclosed that McKeown is receiving pay from the government as a truck driver for the Civil Works administration. He was granted a stay of execution until March 30, the day before the CWA workers are to be demobilized.

Fails to File Returns.

A gross income of $103,269.39 was received by McKeown for 1927 and 1828, on which he failed to file any tax returns. He was found guilty on two misdemeanor counts, but won a finding of not guilty on two felony counts based on the same evidence. His principal defense was that he believed income derived from a taxing body such as the sanitary district was not taxable.

A similar tax indictment against William McKeown, brother of Walter, who died a year ago, and who was a partner in the contracting company, was dismissed yesterday on the motion of Assistant District Attorney E. Riley Campbell.

Investigators said they believed Walter McKeown may not have been permitted to keep all of the profits made from the "whoopee" contracts, and Judge Sullivan also indicated that he had this possibility in mind.

Wants to Restore Defendant.

"It is the feeling of this court that a heavy sentence should be imposed in a sanitary district case of this type," said Judge Sullivan. "However, in view of the age of the defendant, his good reputation, and the fact that it is the first time he has been in trouble, I want to impose a sentence that will not destroy the defendant, but restore him."

McKeown, who is 38 years old and lives at 601 Hawthorne place, was once a prohibition agent. He is the first defendant convicted of wilful failure to pay income tax who has escaped a penitentiary sentence, according to District Attorney Dwight H. Green.

SPONSORS BILL TO LET RFC LEND TO PAY TEACHERS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 16.—[Special.]—A special report urging legislation to enable the RFC to make school district loans not only on tax warrants but on other eligible security will be presented to the house banking and currency subcommittee in charge of teachers' legislation tomorrow by Representative James Simpson [Rep., Ill.].

At the request of the subcommittee, of which he is a member, Mr. Simpson compiled the report in an effort to ascertain what total amount will be involved should congress enact legislation authorizing federal loans to pay school teachers.

While he declined to reveal the exact total which his report will name, Mr. Simpson said that it would be considerably less than had been anticipated. It is understood the figure will be lower than 100 million dollars.

The Simpson report will direct specific attention to the Chicago situation, it was learned today, attributing blame for the serious predicament in which the city's school system now finds itself to a "local brain trust" and a "prominent political attorney."

School Orators Will Help to Publicize 1934 Fair

Student orators of the Chicago public schools will help publicize the 1934 Century of Progress, Supt. William J. Bogan said yesterday. A boy and girl student will be selected from each school and trained for platform talks on the Enchanted Island feature of the Fair. They will then appear before assemblies of their own schools to describe A Century of Progress attraction and will be guests of Fair officials in May. The Junior league of Chicago is coöperating in the plan.

HOTELS EXPECT RECORD CROWDS FOR 1934 FAIR

Railroads Optimistic Over Outlook.

With A Century of Progress Exposition for 1934 scheduled to open 10 weeks from today, Chicago's leading hotel operators yesterday peered optimistically into the future. Mindful of the capacity business conducted during the Exposition last year, they announced that they will again look to the World's Fair to continue its leadership of the march out of the depression.

The number of reservations booked in advance has already dispelled whatever doubts the hotel managements may have held concerning the success of the Exposition from their point of view. The railroads and other travel agencies are equally enthusiastic over the probabilities the Fair again holds.

Otto K. Eitel, general manager of the Stevens hotel and an active Exposition enthusiast, declared that reservations at the Stevens up to date are double what they were a year ago. Not only have the number of reservations increased, he said, but the size of the parties booked is larger.

Advance Bookings Double.

An official of the Palmer house said that hotel's advance bookings are double those of a year ago. Last year's business, this official said, was about 80 per cent conventions and about 20 per cent transient and tourist. This year, he predicted, the ratios will be reversed. He was taking into consideration the fact that during 1933 Chicago was host to nearly 1,500 national conventions while the indications for this year, according to the convention bureau of the Chicago Association of Commerce, are that Chicago will get about 500 conventions, 250 of them during the Fair.

Heads of other downtown hotels announced reservations from 10 to 50 per cent greater than a year ago. These include the Morrison, Sherman, Congress, Bismarck, La Salle, Blackstone, Auditorium, and some of the smaller hotels with a total capacity of 16,000 rooms.

Large Foreign Parties.

"Our advance domestic bookings," said B. E. White, travel manager of the American Express company, an active agency in arranging transportation for World's Fair visitors, "are 30 per cent greater now than a year ago. Our foreign bookings are 70 per cent larger. The company's foreign agents have already booked 23 groups with from 100 to 300 in each party."

The railroads, according to an official of the Central Passenger association, will bring in from 5,000 to 10,000 persons a day. Added to this will be other thousands who will come to the city by bus and automobile. Chicago hotel men again stress the fact that regardless of the number of visitors Chicago will have ample accomodations.

Takes Fewer Baths, Gives Goldfish Water; Fined

BRISTOL, England, March 16.—(AP)—A resident of this city was fined $2.50 today on a charge that he used water for his goldfish bowl during the recent water shortage. The accused admitted the charge, but said he reduced his own baths during the period, taking only two a week instead of the usual four, so his prized fish could have fresh water.

PLEDGE $50,000 MORE IN BOOST CHICAGO DRIVE

Schaeffer Tells Plan to Attract Fair Visitors.

Fifty thousand dollars more was pledged yesterday by Chicago business men to help carry out the $500,000 campaign to attract visitors and conventions to Chicago in 1934 in conjunction with A Century of Progress.

The campaign—whose motto is: "Keep Chicago Ahead"—was formally launched Thursday by Mayor Kelly and a committee of business and civic leaders. At that time it was formally announced that $100,000 toward the required funds had already been raised. Yesterday's subscriptions boosted the total to $150,000. The promotion drive, which is entirely independent of the World's Fair, was organized to help Chicago retain the prestige and advantages given the city by the 1933 exposition.

Schaeffer Heads Group.

Headquarters for the campaign have been established in suite 348 Conway building. G. R. Schaeffer of Marshall Field & Co. heads the committee of 30 prominent Chicagoans handling the drive. Brooks Beitler is general secretary. Extensive plans for the drive have already been made, and the actual work will soon be started in full swing. Some of the methods designed for the campaign as outlined yesterday by Mr. Schaeffer follow:

1. Creation of a speakers' bureau of at least 200 men who will be enrolled to speak before all types of organizations and over the radio in nation-wide hookups. If sufficient funds are raised some of them will be sent throughout the country to address large groups in various cities.

Business Help Asked.

2. The coöperation of all business concerns will be solicited to enclose in their letters being sent all over the United States folders which will tell of the wonders of the city and the Fair as a vacation center. Anywhere from 50 to 100 millions of these folders, depending upon the money available from the campaign funds, will be printed and given to the coöperating businesses by the campaign committee.

3. Organization of a "legion of honor" of all citizens in Chicagoland who will participate in the drive by writing letters urging their friends and relatives to come to Chicago for a visit and a vacation. If possible, the advertising folders to be printed for the business concerns will also be supplied to citizens wishing to enclose them in such letters.

"We do not intend to confine our campaign to selling only the Fair," said Mr. Schaeffer. "We are going to sell the whole town. We are going to make everybody know of the wonderful things to be done and to be seen in our city.

"We are going to tell them of our parks and boulevards and museums, of the places of amusement, of our stores and the forest preserves, and the inviting countryside. We are going to tell them of our miles and miles of seashore and bathing beaches, and of our attractive suburbs. Chicago will be known as it has never been known before."

HANGS HIMSELF IN SHED.

FIVE STONE CO. OFFICERS GUILTY OF MAIL FRAUD

Second Fraud Trial Ends in a Conviction.

Arguments on a motion for a new trial will be heard on March 22, in behalf of five former officials of H. O. Stone & Co., defunct investment house, who were found guilty yesterday by a jury in Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan's court of using the mails in a scheme to defraud. The date for the hearing was set after Judge Sullivan had denied a motion of Assistant United States Attorney Joseph A. Struett for the immediate arrest of the defendants and an increase in their bonds.

The defendants, who were found guilty on all 32 counts of the indictment, are: Henry F. Norcott, former president of H. O. Stone & Co.; Harold D. Bennett, former vice president; Leslie A. Needham, general counsel; W. Scott Carroll, controler, and Charles P. Packer Jr., treasurer. The five were allowed to remain at liberty on their present bonds of $5,000 each.

Maximum Sentence for Fraud.

Each count on which the five were convicted carried a maximum sentence of five years in the penitentiary and a fine of $10,000. No date was set by Judge Sullivan for passing sentence, pending disposition of the new trial motions.

The jury returned its verdict at 10:30 o'clock yesterday morning, although jurors said the final vote had been taken in their hotel rooms at 12:50 a. m. The jurors began their deliberations at 6 o'clock Thursday evening, and were locked up at midnight after the court had been informed that a decision was still to be reached on one defendant.

The trial just completed was longer than the first trial by actual days in court. The previous trial consumed three months, but was lengthened by numerous continuances. Selection of the jury was started on Jan. 15 and completed in two days. Following opening arguments evidence was heard every week day, with several night sessions.

The government presented 127 witnesses, including more than a hundred persons whose savings were wiped out in the crash of the investment house, which failed in 1930 with total losses of $14,000,000. A total of 1,500 documents and 97 book ledgers were introduced in evidence. The government showed that the investemnt house issued bonds and debentures at a time when the company was virtually bankrupt and that the mails were used in an attempt to sell the worthless securities to the public.

Blame Depression for Failure.

Defense Attorneys Elwood Godman, Alvin G. Hubbard, and David K. Tone argued that the company failed as a result of the depression and real estate slump. The officials, they argued, sold their securities in good faith and could not be held responsible for the loss.

Following the return of the verdict Prosecutor Struett, who with Assistant United States Attorney Warren Canaday, presented the evidence, praised the work of Postoffice Inspector Robert E. Lewis, and Albert Johnson, special agent for the department of justice, in gathering evidence on which the conviction was based. All of the defendants were in court when the verdict was returned, but gave no indication of surprise or shock.

The verdict yesterday marked the second time the five defendants have been found guilty of mail fraud in the three years the case has been in the courts. A previous trial before Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward resulted in a sentence of 20 years in the penitentiary and a $15,000 fine for each defendant. This case was reversed and remanded for a new trial by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

MURIEL TO RENEW FIGHT ON KRENN'S CLAIM TO TRUST

Reports from New York yesterday indicated that Mrs. Muriel McCormick Hubbard of Middletown, Conn., will renew her legal fight next week to prevent Edwin Krenn, architect, from sharing in a trust established by John D. Rockefeller in 1918 for his daughter, the late Edith Rockefeller McCormick.

Mrs. Hubbard, daughter of Mrs. McCormick, filed suit last October in the Supreme court at New York, charging that her mother could deed proceeds of the trust only to her children. Krenn, who was bequeathed five-twelfths of the McCormick estate in Mrs. McCormick's will, was not entitled to any share in the Rockefeller Sr. trust, the daughter declared. A fine legal point is involved in Krenn's possible claim to a share in this trust, Chicago lawyers said last night.

The trust set up by Rockefeller is worth, at present prices, approximately $13,500,000, it was said. It consists of more than 350,000 shares of the capital stock of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana.

Next week's action by Mrs. Hubbard will be in the nature of a motion to clarify the terms of the trust agreement, attorneys said.

BURGLARY SUSPECT SEIZED.

James Pritschard, 25 years old, said to have a police record for burglary, was arrested early yesterday as he was trying to remove a lock on the door of the Jewel Food store at 7728 South Halsted street.

GETS YEAR TERM AND $500 FINE IN INSURANCE FRAUD

Patrick Dodd, alias Parker, 43 years old, was sentenced to serve one year in the Bridewell and was fined $500 on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses, by Judge Frank M. Padden in the Felony court yesterday. According to investigators, Dodd sold 80 insurance policies in the name of THE TRIBUNE, and 175 while posing as representative of other newspapers. He was convicted on a complaint signed by Mrs. Mary Kelsper, 2648 North Sawyer avenue, who testified she gave him $1.25 for an insurance policy and a subscription to a morning newspaper but failed to receive either.

Farm Boy, 17, Saddened by Father's Death, Hangs Self

William Sluegge, 17 years old, hanged himself yesterday in the barn on a farm on River road a quarter of a mile south of Higgins road. The youth, who resided on the farm, had been despondent over the death of his father a year ago and the straightened financial circumstances of the family.

EXPLAIN DELAY IN SENDING JANITOR TO STATE ASYLUM

A charge of disorderly conduct against Adolph Paulson, 44 years old, a janitor at 1620 East 55th street, was continued yesterday by Judge Jay A. Schiller in the Wabash avenue court and his bond was raised from $500 to $5,000. Poulson shot and wounded Dr. Otto J. Rabe, 50 years old, 6727 Merrill avenue, on Feb. 17, when the physician made a professional call at Paulson's home.

Judge Schiller explained that he had continued the case so that Paulson could be kept in custody until a charge of assault with intent to kill, growing out of the Rabe shooting, could be heard in Felony court Tuesday. Paulson has been examined by the Psychopathic hospital and pronounced dangerously insane but he cannot be turned over to the County court for commitment to an asylum until the assault charge has been disposed of. Meanwhile, he is being held at the Hyde Park police station.

Before Paulson's insanity became known he accused Dr. Rabe of improper relations with his wife, Mrs. Gerda Paulson. Both the wife and the physician denied the accusation. Dr. Rabe was called to Paulson's home to attend a sick child.

GIRL, 17, LEARNS BROTHER IS ILL; TAKES HER LIFE

On Thursday Margaret Emmons, 17 years old, 434 East 71st street, was visiting at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Charles J. Nihles, 323 Simms street, Aurora. Anxious for news from home, she opened a letter addressed to her aunt by her mother.

In the note she read that her brother, Jack, 15 years old, was seriously ill in a hospital. Tearing the letter to bits, she went into the kitchen of the Nihles home, turned on the gas and died of asphyxiation. A coroner's jury yesterday heard the story from the aunt and from Miss Emmons' parents. A verdict of suicide while despondent was returned.

WITNESS GRILLED ON RACKET TRIAL PERJURY CHARGE

Ex-Cleaner Is Quizzed on Confession Delay.

BY JOSEPH ATOR.

James Cox, a witness in the racket conspiracy trial, who previously had admitted that he committed perjury in the case because of threats by two union business agents who are defendants on trial in the Criminal court of Chief Justice Philip J. Finnegan, was subjected to a severe cross-examination yesterday by defense attorneys.

Attorney Joseph Harrington won from Cox the admission that he had not confessed his perjury nor reported the threats to the state's attorney's office for more than three weeks after he first testified, and then only after union officials had refused him a favor.

Owner of Cleaning Plant.

Cox was the owner of a suburban cleaning and dyeing plant. One of the retail tailor shops for which he did cleaning had been visited by Robert Rado, a business agent of local 712 of the Laundry and Dye House Drivers' union. Rado and other officials of that union are defendants, charged with a racketeering conspiracy with the Cleaners and Dyers Institute of which Dr. Benjamin M. Squires, another defendant, was dictator.

Cox originally testified on Jan. 29 that Rado had told Harry Nieditch, owner of the tailor shop, that Cox should not do his cleaning work, and that Rado had told him [Cox] that Niedetch's work should go back to the Central Cleaners and Dyers, of which George [Bugs] Moran, gangster, was an official.

Change in Story Cited.

Shortly after the conversations described by Cox, acid throwing vandals raided Nieditch's shop. On cross-examination Cox said that Nieditch had told him, however, that he blamed the Central Cleaners and not the union agents who were defendants in the case, for the vandalism.

Cox returned to the courtroom on Feb. 23 and testified that he had perjured himself regarding the alleged conversation with Nieditch. He told the story, he asserted, because of threats made to him by Rado in the presence of Jean Franks, another business agent of the union, who also is a defendant, in the Criminal Courts building as Cox was on his way to testify.

That story was told outside the presence of the jury. Cox repeated it to the jury on Thursday, and added that Rado had threatened him once before, previous to the trial opening, when he was called to the headquarters of the union for questioning by defense investigators.

Admits Confession Delay.

On cross-examination Cox admitted that a three weeks' period elapsed between his first testimony and his confession of perjury. Shortly before he made the charges against Rado, he admitted, Ben Abrams, another defendant, who heads the Inside Cleaning and Dyeing Workers' union, had refused to give him a permit to go to work in a cleaning plant. Abrams had charged, outside of court, that Cox wanted to replace a regular member of the union and was refused for that reason.

Attorney Harrington questioned Cox at length concerning a divorce suit filed by Cox's wife. Objections by Special Prosecutor Edwin J. Raber prevented his establishing what he had charged to Judge Finnegan outside the presence of the jury—that Cox also had perjured himself in the divorce hearings. He was able, however, to mention in the jury's presence that Cox had been arrested for passing bad checks several years ago, and more recently on a charge of larceny by bailee, which was dismissed.

Links Humphreys and Kaplan.

Association of Murray Humphreys, gangster defendant who is a fugitive, with Morris I. Kaplan, who was active in all four of the industries in which the indictment charges a racket conspiracy—cleaning and dying, linen supply, laundry, and carbonated beverages—was described by Clay C. Davis, 1447 North Austin boulevard.

Davis until Saturday was president of the Meadowmoor Dairy company, pioneer in the cut price milk field in Chicago. Kaplan was attorney for the dairy for a short period. Davis testified that he once saw Humphreys in Kaplan's office, and also in the dairy plant. Humphreys is alleged to have been a stockholder in the milk company, and Davis testified that at a meeting in Kaplan's office in May, 1932, he got $3,000 for the operation of the company from Abe Oslan, Humphreys' partner in a cleaning and dyeing business.

MRS. ROOSEVELT HOPS BACK FROM CARIBBEAN; TAKES TRAIN AT MIAMI

Miami, Fla., March 16.—[Special.]—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt arrived by plane in Miami today from Porto Rico and departed by special train 37 minutes later for Washington.

Her sojourn on the island the first lady termed "a most delightful visit," but when asked her views she said, "I never make recommendations. Miss Hickock was doing the investigating there. I merely went to see the place."

Gov. Dave Sholtz of Florida welcomed Mrs. Roosevelt as she stepped from the plane and escorted her directly to the train. The party lunched aboard.

Though Mrs. Roosevelt's arrival was not generally known the seaplane base was jammed with hundreds of people. Questioned on weather conditions, Mrs. Roosevelt said, "I am never afraid of the air, especially in such a big ship."

CLIMAX NEARS OVER NEGROES IN HOUSE CAFE

De Priest Pushes Petition —Two More Ejected.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 16.—[Special.]—The congressional race controversy over the ejection of Negroes from the house restaurant rapidly approached a showdown today.

Acting under instructions from Representative Lindsay Warren, the North Carolina Democrat who heads the house accounts committee, P. H. Johnson, manager of the restaurant, refused service to two more Negroes and discharged a Negro waiter for attempting to serve one of them.

In addition Mr. Johnson posted large signs reading "For Members Only" at the entrances of the public portion of the eating place in an attempt to bar Negroes from entering.

Representative Oscar De Priest, Chicago Republican and only Negro member of congress, declined today to make any active protest against the actions of the house restaurant authorities. Quietly, however, he was securing signatures on his petition to force a house vote on the question of Mr. Warren's authority to prescribe rules for the restaurant.

Names Pile Up.

In ten days, he pointed out, eighty names have been added to the petition, and within a week the Chicagoan expects to have sufficient backers to force his resolution challenging Mr. Warren's authority to the floor of the house.

"There is no use getting excited about this situation," Mr. De Priest declared. "I am proceeding in an orderly way and I am confident that the house will back me in my efforts to stop this wholly un-American conduct on the part of Mr. Warren and restaurant attachés."

One of the Negroes ejected from the restaurant today was Florence Collins, reporter for the Afro-American, a Negro newspaper published in Washington. She was accompanied by two white friends, Mrs. Dorothy Alden of Fort Wayne, Ind., and W. Carson Ryan, director of education in the federal bureau of Indian affairs.

Ousted Waiter to Protest.

Later another reporter for the Afro-American was escorted from the erstwhile public dining rooms, and Harold Covington of Michigan, a Negro waiter, who had served him a bowl of soup, was summarily discharged.

Covington, who is a student at Howard university, federal college for Negroes here, declared that he will lodge a protest with Representative John C. Lehr [Dem., Mich.], and with Representative De Priest.

The repeated efforts on the part of Negroes to obtain service in the house eating place were regarded as a deliberate attempt to force the issue regarding race rights on Capitol hill. Yesterday a prominent Negro educator, a graduate of Yale and Harvard, was ejected from the restaurant.

Thus far none of the Negroes has resisted when asked to leave. Capitol police, however, are on guard for a student demonstration tomorrow.

ONE CONVICTED, ONE CLEARED IN POLICE SHOOTING

John Curry, 29 years old, was found guilty of assault to murder a policeman by a jury in the Criminal court of Judge George Fred Rush late last night. Hubert O'Donnell, 30 years old, another defendant, was acquitted.

The conviction carries a penalty of one to 14 years. Judge Rush will hear Defense Attorney Harold Levy's motion for a new trial for Curry March 23.

Curry's conviction was based on the shooting of Policeman Daniel Donovan, 6830 Ridgeland avenue. Donovan was shot near the heart, and crippled for life, when he engaged in a gun fight with bandits in the Frog Leg inn, 4233 Lake Park avenue, last Oct. 14. O'Donnell was slightly wounded. Curry, O'Donnell, and a third man, Morris Musick, were subsequently charged with shooting Donovan. Musick was freed during the trial because of lack of evidence. O'Donnell's defense was that he was an innocent bystander.

SENTENCES 5 FOR CONTEMPT IN POLL FRAUD

Five election officials, three of them women, were found guilty yesterday on charges of contempt of court in making a false canvass of votes cast in the election of Nov. 8, 1932. They were sentenced by Judge Win G. Knoch of Wheaton, sitting in the County court, to serve sentences varying from thirty to sixty days in the county jail. Judge Knoch, however, deferred entering judgment until March 28 to allow the defendants to prepare appeals.

Those convicted are Mrs. Betty Fabish, 5125 Ingleside avenue, Democratic judge; Mrs. Elizabeth Heller, 941 Hyde Park boulevard, Democratic judge; Mrs. Fannie J. Hochstadter, 1117 Hyde Park boulevard, Republican judge; Harold N. Cohn, 5143 Greenwood avenue, Democratic clerk, and Bertram H. Kohn, 1018 East 52d street, Republican clerk.

DOLE'S EXPENSE GROWS LARGER, HOPKINS ADMITS

As Auto Cities Face Strike Hazards.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 16.—[Special.]—The American army on the dole increased its number by 4 per cent last month, and the public dollars which went to support that army increased by 8 per cent.

This lugubrious news was contained in a report issued today by Relief Administrator Hopkins. A study of the report shows worse conditions of poverty and unemployment in most cities, and especially in the industrial cities which were to have been succored by the codes of the NRA.

Auto Cities Fare Best.

Cities in which the automobile industry provides the chief sources of employment showed improvement, due to the booming rise in automobile production, but these cities, according to William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, face the hazard of a general strike in that industry.

Chicago was one of the few large cities outside the automobile industry which showed fewer families on the dole and less money expended. In Chicago the number of families on relief was reduced from 109,647 in January to 108,180 in February and the sums expended by public agencies were lowered from $3,242,606 to $3,100,000.

Plight of New York.

New York City put 11 per cent more families on the dole, the number increasing from 115,865 to 128,632, and the expenditures in that city rose 15 per cent, from $4,713,763 to $5,437,413.

The total number of families on relief in 139 principal cities was reported by Mr. Hopkins to be 1,197,729 in February, as compared with $1,153,534 in January. The expenditures of public funds in the same months were $25,009,034 in January and $27,008,953 in February.

Intensifying the plight of New York City and New York state, Gov. Herbert H. Lehman, with legislative and relief leaders of the city and state, called in Washington today with cup in hand for more federal millions.

Pleading an inability to finance the relief needs of the state, Gov. Lehman asked President Roosevelt and Relief Administrator Hopkins for federal aid. Mr. Lehman after the conferences issued a statement ending in this wise:

"We are assured by the federal administration that the balance required to carry out this program will be met with federal funds."

President Less Sanguine.

The President, meeting newspaper men later, was not inclined, publicly at least, to verify this reported promise.

The New York governor's statement of the case was that the proposed cessation of the CWA work on May 1 will require the adoption of a substitute work relief program to give work to the heads of 240,000 families. He estimated an aditional 260,000 families will be on the dole, a total of 500,000 families affecting 1,750,000 people in New York state.

Mr. Lehman said the state treasury had left some $48,000,000 out of the $60,000,000 bond issue of last November, and would contribute that to the load. He would not give any estimate as to how much additional would be granted.

Say Money Falls Short.

President Roosevelt, however, said that New York state was faced with a necessity of raising from 60 to 70 million dollars above what is known to be available. The President said Gov. Lehman had notified Administrator Hopkins how much the state could raise. Mr. Hopkins had told Lehman how much the federal government would add to it, and they were still from 60 to 70 millions short.

The President said that New York, on a population basis, would be entitled to 60 million dollars from the federal government, or 10 per cent of the 600 million dollars to be appropriated.

Asked if the treasury of New York state was in such shape that it could not borrow the necessary money, President Roosevelt said the state could ask for additional bond moneys from the voters, but that this could not be done until next November unless a special election were to be called. Some officials believe the voters of that state, already heavily loaded down with taxation, would not approve another bond issue.

Avers Lehman Seeks Economy.

The President added that Gov. Lehman was seeking a means of saving certain sums. Asked if he had discussed the La Guardia economy bill for New York City with the visitors from his home state, Mr. Roosevelt nodded somewhat grimly that he had.

The President said that he had advised the legislative leaders and the governor that the sooner the city of New York is put on a sounder financial status the quicker they would get federal funds. He added that he warned that he couldn't wait all year for such action, and that some other city might balance its budget and get the money if New York wasn't quick about it.

Increase in Dole Getters.

Among the industrial cities which, despite the ministrations of the NRA have shown a percentage of increase in the number of families on the dole in February are:

South Also Affected.

Some cities in the south were also badly hit, especially in Tennessee, where the percentage of increase in various cities was: Chattanooga, 33; Knoxville, 60; Memphis, 25, and Nashville, 8. On the other hand, New Orleans showed a decrease of 29 per cent, Birmingham dropped 11 per cent from the dole, and Mobile 12 per cent. Baltimore had an increase of 14, but Bridgeport, Conn., had 22, showing New England trend.

The capital city of Washington, where many thousands have been put on government pay rolls in the New Deal activities, the number of families on relief was boosted by 55 per cent, from 9,362 to 14,521.

Auto Making Cities Better.

In the automobile centers the decreases in the numbers on the dole were: Detroit, 38 per cent; Flint, 33 per cent; Akron, 31 per cent.

The relief administrator, Mr. Hopkins, pointed out that in past years the increase in charity expenditures during February has been heavier than this year. In 1932 the increase was 22 per cent, and in 1933 1 per cent, compared with 8 per cent this year. But in 1930 the increase was 6 per cent and in 1931 only 2 per cent.

"Exceptionally cold weather in February, causing an increase in demand for fuel and clothing," said Mr. Hopkins, "was a large factor in the increase of relief cases and expenditures. Declining civil works employment and the shorter hours of work on civil works jobs were other factors causing this increase."

STRIKES OF CWA MEN SPREAD THROUGHOUT STATE OF NEW YORK

Syracuse, N. Y., March 16.—(AP)—Strikes of CWA laborers spread through New York state today, taking 4,500 men at Syracuse, 400 at Solvay, 350 at Rome, 200 at Batavia, 40 at Glens Falls, and 2,000 at Buffalo, but before the day closed the strikes at Buffalo and Rome had been settled.

At Buffalo, where the 2,000 dropped their tools at a stone quarry this morning, the men agreed to go back to work after an order spreading their 24 hours over five days was withdrawn in favor of three eight hour days. Wages were not in question.

At Rome, after a conference with William A. Wolff, city CWA administrator, and an address by Police Chief J. T. Owens, the men, representing all but a hundred of the laborers on the rolls, agreed to return to their jobs tomorrow pending negotiations looking to readjustment of their wage rate or number of hours.

In all other cases the strikes were in protest against pay cuts.

Meanwhile Gov. Lehman conferred with President Roosevelt in Washington about "the whole relief situation" and emerged from the White House saying he was "very hopeful we will work something out." He went there prepared to paint the "serious situation" likely to result from demobilization of CWA in his state, scheduled for April 1.

In Syracuse the strike halted progress on all the 30 outdoor projects after failure of truce efforts. One of these jobs included building a baseball park for the newly acquired club in the International league.

The Solvay movement was looked upon as a "sympathy strike" inspired by that at Syracuse.

At Batavia the men asked 30 hours and 50 cents, against the present 24 hours and 40 cents.

NAMES L. M. LYONS AS DIRECTOR OF COOK CO. RELIEF

Robert J. Dunham, chairman of the Illinois relief commission, yesterday announced the appointment of Leo M. Lyons of Rockford as director of relief for Cook county. Mr. Lyons will take over the work handled by Wilfred S. Reynolds, who had charge of relief disbursements while serving as executive secretary of the state relief commission.

Mr. Lyons has been manager of the Rockford welfare fund for the last four years and served since 1932 as field representative in northern Illinois for the relief commission. He will assume his new duties April 2.

Mr. Dunham explained that demobilization of the CWA and the inauguration of the new relief program made it necessary for Mr. Reynolds to devote all of his time to his work as secretary.

FACE GRAND JURY FOR FORGING RELIEF ORDERS

Two former employes of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, who confessed to receiving $40 a month for a year for forging relief orders, were held to the grand jury in bonds of $1,000 each when they were arraigned yesterday before Judge Frank Padden in the Felony court. They are Paul Flower, 5036 Sheridan road, former budget clerk in the Wicker Park relief station, and Daniel W. O'Brien, 4039 Parker avenue, a checking clerk in the same station. They admitted selling the forged orders to grocers who cashed them.

LONE VOTE SAVES PRESIDENT FROM ANOTHER REBUFF

Tammanyite Switches Over to Beat Vets' Bill.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 16.—[Special.]—One slim vote—switched at the last minute by a Tammany congressman—was all that saved President Roosevelt from a new rebuff at the hands of a bolting house of representatives.

At the end of a tumultuous session, while anti-administration forces were already congratulating themselves, Representative Martin J. Kennedy [Dem., N. Y.] announced an eleventh hour change of vote that spelled the difference between failure and success for administration efforts to halt the addition of new millions to the budget in veterans' benefits.

Rainey Orders Recount.

By a vote of 190 to 189 the house had reversed the approval it gave two days ago to the Taber compromise amendment adding 90 millions in veterans' funds to the independent offices appropriation bill. The reversal was tantamount to insistence on the much more drastic veterans' program approved by the senate, which involves upwards of 118 millions.

The closeness of the vote caused Speaker Rainey to order a recapitulation. While the membership sat almost breathless the clerk droned through the roll call again. But the recount at the finish showed not a single altered ballot and the vote still stood 190 to 189 for the senate amendment—an apparent serious upset for the administration.

Cheers Greet His Action.

Suddenly, however, Congressman Kennedy leaped to his feet and inquired above the din how he was recorded. The uproar ceased as the speaker answered:

"The gentleman voted aye."

"Then," said Mr. Kennedy, "I desire to change my vote from aye to no."

Cheers and applause burst from the supporters of the administration. Anti-administration forces protested loudly on technical parliamentary grounds, but the speaker declined to sustain them. Mr. Rainey announced the vote:

"On this vote the ayes are 189, the nays 190, and the motion is not agreed to."

Stands Pat on Pay Cuts.

Had it not been for Mr. Kennedy's change of heart the count would have been the same, but the result exactly opposite—another upset for the administration, which has already lost two house fights and one in the senate this week.

Earlier the house voted 161 to 225 to stand pat on the action it took two days ago with respect to restoration of the 15 per cent federal pay cut. The vote served to reiterate the insistence of the house on a program calling for the return of 5 per cent of the cut retroactively, as of Feb. 1 last, and an additional 5 per cent on July 1. It likewise served to reject again the senate proposal to restore the full 15 per cent wage reduction to federal workers on the latter date. The house plan calls for 66 million dollars less than the senate restoration proposal.

Although the amendments of the house are described as "compromise" proposals and are considerably less costly than those adopted in the senate, they represent, nevertheless, a considerable departure from the wishes of President Roosevelt, who recommended a pay restoration of only 5 per cent and only a relatively few millions for veterans.

There was still no indication from the White House today as to whether or not Mr. Roosevelt will accept the compromise amendments even if they are agreed to by the senate. Instead of the 343 millions involved in the senate amendments, the house proposals will add only some 200 millions to the independent offices bill, but there was considerable doubt that the President is willing to agree even to the lower amount. One thing appeared certain, however, in view of the house's action today—neither branch of congress will consent to a reduction below the amounts carried in the house amendments.

Owes Rescue to Tammany.

There was some irony in the fact that the President owes his rescue today to a Tammanyite. Since the beginning of his administration Mr. Roosevelt has evidenced every sign of unfriendliness for the Tiger.

The action of the house today sends the independent offices bill to conference where representatives for the lower body and for the senate will try to iron out the serious differences.

The senate's refusal yesterday to accept the compromise suggested by the house on Monday and insisted upon today, gave promise of a long controversy before the issue is finally settled. Either the house or senate will have to back down if the deadlock is to be broken and neither appeared willing to give an inch today.

SEE NEW DEAL EXTENDING RULE TO CHIEF CROPS

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 16.—[Special.]—Gen. Johnson's slang apothegm, "You ain't seen nothin' yet," appears to apply not only to the NRA, but the AAA.

The house is about to pass the bill providing for the compulsory control of cotton production, a regimentation of industry so extreme that even Secretary of Agriculture Wallace and the brain trust have hesitated to indorse it.

The next step on the program, it transpires, is to apply the same sort of compulsory control to the production of tobacco. And there is much talk of extending it to wheat and corn.

Already the measure to substitute compulsory control for voluntary restriction in tobacco growing has been introduced by Representative John H. Kerr [Dem., N. C.], one of the greatest tobacco growing areas in the country.

Representative Kerr's bill proposes an ad valorem tax of 25 per cent—which he probably will change to 30 per cent—on all tobacco offered at the first point of sale. This tax would be rebated to growers complying with AAA acreage restriction requirements.

Under Banners of Alabama.

The other, the Bankhead cotton bill, proposes to put a 50 per cent confiscatory tax on all cotton taken to the gin in excess of the amount allotted to individual farmers under AAA.

The Bankhead brothers of Alabama, one in the house and one in the senate, rallied so much sentiment from cotton farmers that President Roosevelt decided to try it out, and Secretary Wallace went along solely on the theory that if an overwhelming majority of cotton growers wanted it, the experiment might as well be tried.

Wallace originally wanted to confine AAA to wheat and cotton, two basic commodities. But congress, under political pressure, added five other crops, including rice and tobacco. The other day the senate added cattle, peanuts, rye, flax, barley, and even grain sorghum to the list of legally declared basic commodities.

Holds Rule Necessary.

Voluntary restriction of cotton production is credited with doubling the price of the staple but the southerners think it won't avail to maintain the high price this year. There are too many cheaters and chiselers and growers who refuse to join in acreage reduction. Also by using more fertilizer planters are growing as much cotton on the restricted acreage as before.

Representative Fred C. Gilchrist [Rep., Ia.] championed the compulsory cotton bill in the house.

"If there is some regimentation in it," he asserted, "it is no more than now exists with regard to other things we are doing in this country."

"My friend from Minnesota said something about socialism. Why, bless your heart, is not the Reconstruction Finance corporation socialistic in stepping into the channels of trade and extending government credit to banks and insurance companies and railroads? I am not here finding fault with it. But it is a socialistic measure, and I say to you that something of this kind has been shown to be necessary in this country."

Warns of Dangerous Turn.

"If this bill should pass," replied Representative Charles W. Tobey [Rep., N. H.], "it would follow very naturally that similar control will be asked for all agricultural commodities, and as a corollary there would be suggested or attempted limitation of production of output of all our industries with applied control of production of agriculture and industry. We would become very nearly a sovietized United States.

"This legislation is so far reaching, such a transition from the order under which the nation has grown from an infant in swaddling clothes to its present leadership, that we should hesitate to give it our approval.

"It will be a sad day for the people of the United States when a centralized government, a burocracy, is empowered to tell you and me as individual farmers or manufacturers the amount which we can produce. If that day comes it will sound the death knell of the initiative, the energy, and the enterprise which have been our outstanding characteristics."

Representative Tom D. McKeown [Dem., Okla.] said that unless the bill be passed "you will have the little fellows all signed up and the large planters will ruin the market."

Predicts Day of Experts.

"There is no reason to stop one man from using certain acreage if you are going to turn around and put that acreage in something that is produced in another part of the country and in this way destroy the equilibrium in the production of that product," he added.

"If you take it out of cotton, you should not put it in wheat to destroy the wheat man. You should not put it in dairying to destroy the great dairying industry.

"The time will come in the United States when we will have sense enough to get plenty of farm experts and economists to go out in every county every year and lay down a crop program for every farmer, so that we will have balanced control in this country."

Representative Hamilton Fish Jr. [Rep., N. Y.] thought the southerners are a particularly gullible lot. For example, they were all for the recognition of Russia because they thought they could sell a lot of cotton to the soviets.

"It took a Democratic administration," he said, "to recognize soviet Russia, and it is now proposing to lend them money when our own people are in need and want.

On China and Russia.

"The RFC authorized an expediture of $40,000,000 for the sale of cotton to China and $10,000,000 for the sale of wheat. They were going to take care of the south and the cotton producers.

"What happened? Of the $40,000,000 that they told the country they were going to buy cotton with to send to China they have used just $4,621,000, because China did not want our cotton for some reason or other.

"Of the $4,621,000 advanced on cotton, China has been good enough to pay us only $404,000 so far. Of the $3,500,000 that the RFC advanced to export cotton to Russia, we have not received anything on account. This is due on the first of July, and we can tell better when that date is reached."

"It is absolutely impossible," said Representative Joe H. Eagle [Dem., Texas] "to begin experiments of regulation and prohibitions and financial benefits to any class and then end it at will. Last year the cotton farmers bought 11,000,000 pounds of fertilizer. Already this year they have contracted for 175,000,000.

"It is clear that multitudes are going to plant and intensively cultivate more cotton, in which event cotton will not bring 5 cents a pound or be worth picking down south if we do not meet the situation in a practical manner.

"Then they will come to congress and the administration again and say, 'We cannot pay our bills. We cannot pay our taxes and interest, and we cannot run our schools. Help us or we perish!'"

TRIBUTE TO ST. PATRICK

Many Fetes Today

Last minute plans were being made yesterday for today's St. Patrick's day celebrations. In many parts of the city special parties and gatherings will be held in honor of the patron saint of Ireland.

Among the ceremonies will be the ground breaking for the Irish village at A Century of Progress at 2:30 this afternoon. Mayor Kelly will turn the first spade of earth. A group of colleens in native costume, Irish pipers and fiddlers, and other native atmosphere will form the background for the ceremony. The Irish Fair exhibit will delineate Irish history, folklore, music, art, and literature for visitors to A Century of Progress.

A St. Patrick's day dance and party will be staged tonight at Liberty hall, 92d street and Cottage Grove avenue, by the 8th ward regular Democratic organization. Chicago ticket agents of railroad, steamship, and air lines who compose the Chicago Passengers' club will hold a St. Patrick's day frolic tonight at the Medinah Michigan Avenue club. Members of the E. A. Lawrence Highway post of the American Legion and their guests will toast President and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt tonight in commemoration of their wedding anniversary at a dance in the Morrison hotel.

Among the parties held yesterday was the one given by the Notre Dame club of Chicago in honor of Judge John P. McGoorty in the ivory room at Mandel Brothers. James F. McNicholas, president of the club, presided.

IRELAND INJECTS POLITICS INTO ST. PATRICK'S DAY

De Valera's Blueshirt Foes to Parade.

BY HUGH CURRAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, March 16.—Preparations for the celebration tomorrow of St. Patrick's day, the Irish national festival, are being made in an atmosphere of political differences. No serious trouble is feared, however.

Essentially a church festival, politics will inevitably obtrude. President Eamon de Valera and his cabinet will attend mass in the procathedral at noon. Troops will parade the city from Collins barracks to College Green, where Minister of Defense Frank Aiken will take a salute. De Valera will broadcast a message to America at 6 p. m. Irish time [noon, Chicago time], and later will hold a reception at Dublin castle.

Blueshirts to Parade.

The opposition party of Gen. Owen O'Duffy will hold meetings in Cavan and elsewhere. Blueshirt units will parade. Blueshirt headquarters today said recruiting is steady at 1,000 a week and the total membership of the party is now well over the 100,000 mark.

Information has reached Gen. O'Duffy of the formation of a small unit in New York, where 20 members display the blueshirt regularly.

Gen. O'Duffy, when asked for a St. Patrick's day message to Irish readers of THE TRIBUNE, said:

"Tell them ours is the greatest national movement since the Sinn Fein. Its national policy is supported by all that is best in all sections of the people. It will go forward to final achievement of its aims, despite attempts to crush and intimidate it."

Shamrocks Are Scarce.

DUBLIN, March 16.—(AP)—There will be fewer shamrocks and no whisky for St. Patrick's day tomorrow, and Irishmen will be forced to "drown" the famous "green" in a cup of tea.

Shamrocks are scarce because the weather has been abnormally dry, but supplies of the leaf were being gathered today and there may be about enough to go around.

The traditional toast to the patron saint will have to be made differently. The Free State legislature ordered all public houses closed from today to Sunday and decreed that no liquor be available.

In Ulster the day will be different. There, there will be no "dry" laws and the shamrock can be soaked in real "crathur," as whisky is popularly called on St. Patrick's day. Many a Free State thirst, Belfast people believe, will be quenched across the border in Ulster.

Dinner to Mark T. H. Jones' 50 Years with Hair Firm

Thomas H. Jones, manager of the hair division of the American Hair and Felt company, will be honored by fellow executives at a dinner in the Hotel Sherman tonight in celebration of his fiftieth anniversary with the company. Mr. Jones is 68 years old and lives with his family at 221 South Scoville avenue, Oak Park. He has lived in the suburb for twenty-five years.

ADMINISTRATION FACES CONGRESS SILVER REVOLT

Rainey Breaks Publicly with Morgenthau.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 16.—[Special.]—The administration today faced a new congressional revolt on the silver question as its own house leadership bolted to the support of legislation aimed at rehabilitating the white metal.

Speaker of the House Henry Rainey broke publicly with Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, announcing that he will attempt to pass silver legislation this session despite the opposition of the treasury head. At the same time the strong house silver bloc, incensed at Mr. Morgenthau's statement yesterday to the effect that some silver advocates were "not disinterested" in the silver market, demanded that the secretary come before a house committee and explain exactly what he meant.

Martin Introduces Resolution.

Although Mr. Morgenthau emphasized that the "silver advocates" interested speculatively in silver did not include congressmen who are urging legislation to remonetize the white metal, members of the house silver group took his remarks as an insinuation that their motives in pressing the legislation are not genuine. Late today Representative John A. Martin [Dem., Colo.] introduced the following resolution:

"Whereas, The secretary of the treasury is quoted in the public press as having stated that the treasury department has been making an investigation into the silver holdings of advocates of silver legislation, and has found them not entirely disinterested and has given expressions to other views indicating his belief that advocates of silver legislation are speculatively interested in silver stocks and the silver market; and,

Take Exceptions to Remarks.

"Whereas, The expression of those views by the secretary of the treasury is prejudicial to silver legislation now pending in congress, and is calculated, although not intended, to reflect upon members of congress who have identified themselves with such legislation; therefore, be it

"Resolved, by the house of representatives, That the secretary of the treasury be and he is hereby requested to appear before the committee of the house on coinage, weights, and measures in executive session and impart to said committee any information in his possession or in the possession of the treasury department supporting or tending to support his said statement and including the names of any persons who are interested both in the silver legislation and silver speculation, together with the nature and extent of their activities."

Rainey Indicates Break.

Mr. Rainey told newspaper men that he conferred early today with thirty or forty members of the house silver group and found no justification for Mr. Morgenthau's remark.

"I don't think much of the secretary's statement," the speaker asserted. "I am going to recognize the coinage committee next Monday to bring up the Dies and Fiesinger silver bills under suspension of the rules, and if we don't get through with them Monday I'll call them up on the next suspension day."

Mr. Rainey declared he believed the Dies bill, providing for the exchange of farm surpluses for foreign silver, will be passed in the house, but doubted that the Fiesinger measure for the outright treasury purchase of 1,500,000,000 ounces of silver will be approved.

CCC WORKER SENT TO JAIL.

John B. Selman, 18 years old, colored, a member of the Civilian Conservation corps at Glenview, was sentenced yesterday to four months in the county jail for snatching the purse of a colored woman near the Asbury avenue elevated station in Evanston.

BEG YOUR PARDON.

It was erroneously stated on Thursday that a letter from Municipal Judge Robert J. Dunne, which was read to the city council, said the judge would accept a 52 days' reduction in his $10,000 annual salary for 1934. Judge Dunne said yesterday that it is a deduction, rather than a reduction, which he is authorizing, since he believes the latter is impossible under the law. His offer is for a 48, not a 52 day deduction.

ROPER ARRIVES FOR ST. PATRICK DAY ADDRESS

Secretary of Commerce Daniel C. Roper arrived in Chicago last night from St. Louis. He is to address the annual St. Patrick's day dinner of the Irish Fellowship club at the Palmer house today.

"Business conditions are excellent," said Mr. Roper, "and we are well pleased. The progress is normal.

"It is better that the recovery be normal—not too rapid. If it were too rapid it might not be permanent. We want a safe and sane prosperity, and reports from everywhere are optimistic and point to that trend."

Urges National Institute.

St. Louis, Mo., March 16.—(AP)—A national institute of public affairs, in which men may be trained for statesmanship, was urged here today by Daniel C. Roper, secretary of commerce, in an address before the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce.

The institute would be to the government what West Point and Annapolis are to the army and navy, he said.

"We are attempting to create such an institution through cooperation of the civil service department and the bureau of education of the interior department," he said.

"Courses in citizenship and political science would be made a part of the curriculum in our colleges and the names of those who excel in these classes would provide an unassembled civil service university.

"Outstanding students would receive scholarships at the national institute of public affairs which would offer specialized courses to qualify its graduates for statesmanship, just as West Point and Annapolis provide us with leaders for national defense.

"The internal defense from a recurrence of an economic depression is quite as important as defense against an invader. A reserve force of capable and competent men thus would be available to government and to industry."

although it's exclusive with us, isn't our idea of the type of fabric that will contribute to our well entrenched reputation for outstanding style. We are not presenting it here with that in mind, but, as for wear, there are few fabrics that can hold a candle to Wear-Weev or match its reputation for distinctive appearance. To bear this out, we have, for instance, put "Wear-Weev" in with suits of imported tweeds and homespuns and, more often than not, found it difficult to tell one from another.

You know that this is no way to hang up a coat, but it won't hurt a "Wear-Weev" suit.

dued his guards and locked them in a cell. Dillinger also had a wooden gun, but did not use it, according to the story reported to have been told by Blunk. The report that the outlaw used a wooden gun was concocted to cover up the fact that a pistol had been smuggled in to him, it was said.

Blunk, who with Herbert Youngblood, a colored prisoner held for murder, was taken along by Dillinger in a car stolen from the woman sheriff of Lake county, Mrs. Lillian Holley, and released at Peotone, Ill., was quoted as saying that Dillinger showed him a wooden gun on the trip.

"But it did not look like the gun he had in the jail and I do not believe it was the same one," Blunk was quoted as saying.

Blunk was reported to have said that three other witnesses could testify that Dillinger had a real pistol in the jail.

Indianapolis papers also reported that two "higher-ups" were involved in the escape of Dillinger, but stated that their identity will not be made known until the Lake county grand jury completes its investigation.

Blunk was taken from his Crown Point home late Thursday night and spirited to the state barracks at Chesterton, Ind. Yesterday he was hurried to Indianapolis and the questioning by Attorney General Lutz was reported to have taken place, although all officials in the case united in denials that they knew of Blunk's whereabouts.

Wife Hysterical.

Blunk's wife in Crown Point was reported to be hysterical over her husband's disappearance. Her pleas to local officials that they inform her of her husband's whereabouts were unanswered. Blunk has been free on a $2,000 bond on the charges of abetting Dillinger's escape. His attorney, Arthur Twyman, asserted that the police action in rearresting him without further charges was illegal. Blunk was reported to be held incommunicado at the city prison in Indianapolis.

The grand jury at Crown Point, under the direction of Special Prosecutor Martin J. Smith, continued its unhurried inquiry into the circumstances of the escape. Five jail trusties were questioned briefly. They were Benjamin Spivak, Frank Brojkovich, Arthur Guthmiller, Michael Sibik, and Ernest Walker. Their testimony was not made public.

Attorney in Chicago.

Assistant Attorney General Edward Barce was in Chicago yesterday, reported to be investigating another phase of the escape. State's Attorney Robert G. Estill refused to divulge the purpose of Barce's mission.

Indiana politicians continued to make capital of the investigation. One of the widely circulated rumors was that the wife of Gov. Paul V. McNutt was a first cousin of Dillinger. This brought emphatic denials both from Gov. McNutt and John W. Dillinger, father of the desperado. Gov. McNutt and Dillinger are both natives of Morgan county and that fact was emphasized by Hoosier Republicans in their comments upon Dillinger's parole in May, 1933, by the governor.

Robert Sevey Appointed to U. S. Trade Post in City

Robert Sevey yesterday was named in Washington as the Chicago manager of the division of foreign and domestic commerce under the federal department of commerce. Sevey, a native Chicagoan, was formerly an assistant in this office. He is successor to Frederic L. Roberts who held the post for ten years prior to last Feb. 15, when he was transferred to the NRA administration as assistant director for the Chicago area.

U. S. COURT UPHOLDS NEW YORK'S LOWEST PRICES FOR MILK

New York, March 16.—(AP)—Fixing of minimum prices by the New York state milk board was upheld as constitutional today by a special federal statutory court in a decision ruling "the more vital interest in the end may demand that there be less goods sold at higher prices rather than that all existing manufacturers should remain in business."

The Hegeman Farms corporation, producers and distributors, brought the action against the milk board, complaining that payment of the minimum prices would deprive it of its profits and that it faced the loss of its permit, if it failed to conform to the regulations.

Constitutionality of the milk board's minimum prices was attacked on the ground that the Hegeman firm would be deprived of its property rights.

Judge Learned Hand of the Circuit Court of Appeals wrote the opinion dismissing the action. Judges William Bondy and Robert P. Patterson of the Federal District court concurred.

Unidentified Man Beaten to Death; Slayer Flees

Beaten over the head with an iron pipe, a young man about 28 years old was found dead this morning on the rear porch of a second story flat at 1459 Cleaver street. Police are searching for Peter Pasko, 60 years old, tenant of the flat, as the slayer. About 1 o'clock this morning Pasko ran down the stairs, told neighbors he had just killed a man, and then disappeared. Police found the door and several windows in his flat broken and believe that Pasko killed the man in self-defense.

Ohio Trial Jury Ponders Fate of Charles Makley

BANGHART NOW IN JOLIET AS CONVICT 8874

Basil [The Owl] Banghart, Toughy gangster, was locked up in the state prison at Joliet last night to start serving a sentence of 99 years imposed upon him for his part in the kidnaping of John Factor, wealthy speculator.

Within a few hours of his arrival Banghart became convict 8874, and was placed in the detention division, where he will remain for several days before being assigned to a permanent section. Three of Banghart's old friends and fellow kidnapers are already in prison under 99 year sentences. They are Roger Touhy, Al Kator, and Gus Schaefer.

Banghart was convicted of the Factor kidnaping by a jury several days ago. Yesterday a motion for a new trial was overruled by Judge Walter P. Steffen. Within an hour Banghart was on his way by auto to the state penitentiary. Five squads of police accompanied him. It was noticeable that the cheery front that Banghart had affected during his trial was gone. As he reached the prison he appeared glum.

ALBERT DOLMAN RUNS TOO HARD FOR HIS HEALTH

Albert Dolman, 56 years old, 3151 West 59th street, is running for Democratic committeeman of the 15th ward. Until last night he was also an employé of the Crystal Cleaners and Dyers' plant at 2637 North Halsted street.

Last evening Joseph Malkin, owner of the plant, observed a bulge under Dolman's coat as the employé was leaving. Malkin called on him to wait. Dolman chose to run and Malkin ran after him. Policeman Cornelius McGillicuddy joined the running and ran down the fugitive at the end of four blocks.

Dolman had fallen gasping. He had run too hard for his health. Under his coat the policeman found a dress, a tie, and two dress ornaments. In Dolman's pockets were some of his campaign cards. They bore this inscription: "Actions speak louder than words."

CAR CONDUCTOR BEATEN TO DEATH BY MYSTERY PAIR

Because he looked at a couple of tough young hoodlums, George Berggren, 35 years old, 6509 North Mozart street, was beaten to death early today.

Berggren, a street car conductor, was off duty and on his way home as a passenger on a Devon avenue trolley car. East of Western avenue the mysterious strangers boarded the trolley. They brushed past the working conductor on the platform, and when he asked for their fares they replied: "Never mind, we're looking for someone."

As they walked up the aile toward the front platform, Berggren, who was sitting down, turned to look at them. This action was resented by one of the men. He slugged Berggren and the other man also hit the conductor. Then the two pummeled Berggren the entire length of the car. At Western avenue they escaped. Berggren was taken to the Rogers Park hospital, but was dead on arrival. Police do not believe he was the man the hoodlums were looking for.

AUTO FEE DRIVE TO BE RESUMED IN CITY TUESDAY

Police Commissioner Allman announced yesterday that the campaign against motorists who have not yet bought 1934 state and city licenses will be resumed Tuesday morning. As in the police campaign which was discontinued several weeks ago because the stafs could not properly handle the crowds, $10 bond will be required of motorists in each case where a license is lacking.

During the week following the previous campaign of arrests the city received more than $1,000,000 in license fees. A total of only $78,850 was taken in during the first four days of this week.

Liquor Truck with $2,500 Cargo Taken by Hijackers

A Chicago bound liquor truck was hijacked in Kenosha county, near Kenosha, late last night. Two hundred and fifty cases of straight whisky valued at $5,000 were stolen. The truck and liquor belonged to the L. Musil company of Racine and the shipment was consigned to the Atlas Distilled Products company, 551 West Randolph street, Chicago.

2,000 CIVILIANS MASSACRED IN TURKESTAN CITY

Several British Officials Reported Slain.

MOSCOW, March 16.—(AP)—Several members of the British consulate's staf tonight were reported killed or wounded and 2,000 Uygurs, comprising most of the civilian population of the town of Kashgar, in Sinkiang, Chinese Turkestan, were massacred in fierce fighting between rebellious Tungan natives and forces of the newly proclaimed "independent government." This information was contained in reports from Tashkent.

Kashgar itself was virtually sacked during the combat, which occurred when Tungan detachments attacked the town and rescued a garrison of Tungans, which was besieged in a fortress there by independent government troops.

Fire on British Consulate.

The latter forces, attempting a counter attack, were beaten back. In retreating they sought refuge near the British consulate, which was fired on by the victorious Tungans, with a number of fatalities and casualties among its personnel.

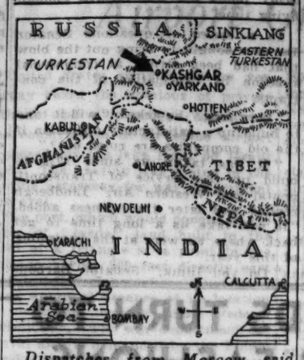
Retreating independently, the government troops joined scattered detachments under the emir of Hotien and occupied Yarkand, while partisan groups of Uygurs and Kirghiz, supporting the independent government forces, took positions on roads and cut off Kashgar.

Meanwhile Gen. Machuing, leader of the Kashgar independent government troops, was reported marching on Kashgar with remnants of his army, which was defeated in the north by provincial government forces.

Plan Independent Domain.

The dispatch added that British agents in Kashgar, Hotient, and Yarkand—three strategic towns in southwestern Sinkiang—have advocated a unification of these three districts into an independent Moslem domain ruled by an unidentified Moslem prince from British India.

2,000 Massacred



Dispatches from Moscow said several British consular officials had been among 2,000 Uygurs, comprising most of the civilian population of Kashgar, who were massacred by Tungan rebels.

POLISH STUDENTS BEAT EDUCATOR OF JEWISH BLOOD

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

WARSAW, March 16.—Warsaw university closed again today, following an attack on Prof. Marcelli Handelsmann. The professor, as chairman ex-officio of the Students' Historical association, would not permit a vote of censure against the university's senate for rejecting the so-called Aryan paragraph in the state students' organization.

The attempt to introduce the anti-Jewish paragraph failed, but when Prof. Handelsmann, himself of Jewish origin, was returning home, he was attacked and beaten.

Prof. Handelsmann resigned both as a dean and as chairman of the historical association, but the university senate asked him to retain both posts.

THREATENS OTHERS; INSANE.

Los Angeles, Cal., March 16.—(AP)—Wesley Dewitt, 29, of Minneapolis, Minn., who wrote a threatening letter to Marian Nixon, screen actress, was adjudged insane today.

NEW YORK MAYOR DENIES HE PLANS OCCUPATION TAX

New York, March 16.—[Special.]—Mayor F. H. La Guardia today characterized as "myths" published stories that he was considering taxes on professional men, a toll on bridges, and a fee for use of the west side express highway in order to balance the 1934 budget.

"I cannot comment on the story in the morning papers," the mayor said, "because I don't know as much about those taxes as the man who wrote the story."

The "stories" told of plans for levying an "occupational tax" on a graduated basis on professional men, small stores, business and trades, and manufacturers.

It also proposed increased taxes on health department inspections, electrical inspection, tolls on bridges, and increased fare on ferries.

The mayor denied flatly that he was considering any of the taxes, preferring to stress the need of passage of his economy bill before venturing into the field of new taxation of any sort.

DUNNED BY MAIL SCHOOL, STUDENT SUES; WINS $500

Lincoln, Neb., March 16.—(AP)—Harassing and threatening collection letters were condemned by the Nebraska Supreme court in an opinion today affirming a $500 judgment for James Fogarty of Omaha against the La Salle Extension university of Chicago.

The institution brought suit against Fogarty to collect an alleged promissory note for tuition and scholarship. Fogarty won a dismissal of the action and got the $500 judgment on his cross petition charging the collection efforts were malicious attempts to extort money from him unlawfully.

He charged the institution wrote letters to his employer and to his neighbors with intent to annoy and distress and worry him until he would pay the claim, whether due or not, and the high court upheld his contention.

Slugs Girl, 7, with Pipe in Attempt to Rape Her

A young man who attempted to attack a 7 year old girl was being sought by Austin police last night. He dragged the girl into a lot at Division street and Kostner avenue and when she screamed he hit her on the head with a piece of pipe.

WAR VETS BALK FRENCH PLAN TO REDUCE PENSIONS

New Storm Clouds Peril "Political Truce."

PARIS, March 16.—(AP)—Storm clouds threatened the French cabinet's "political truce" as parliament adjourned tonight for a two months' Easter holiday.

Premier Gaston Doumergue, who restored order in riot torn Paris streets last month mostly by a genial smile, and pushed through the troublesome 1934 budget largely by the same means, stubbed his toe on a program calling for economies of a billion francs ($65,000,000) in veterans' pensions.

Simultaneously the chamber of deputies resolved to study proposals for refurbishing the 59 year old constitution in an effort to thwart widespread Fascist leanings toward a scrapping of the document, to protect the French pocketbook from parliament, and to give back to the government executive powers the legislative body has gradually assumed.

Veterans to Fight Measure.

Veterans show no desire to make one-third of the three billion francs of economies which the government urgently needs, and they prepared to fight a measure whose introduction, the government announced in the face of the opposition, has been "temporarily postponed."

A second storm cloud is the uneasiness in right circles over friendly overtures in progress between communists and Socialists, while some right extremists even charged that the communists and Socialists were arming and awaiting an opportunity to defeat the present national union government.

The recent revolutionary outbursts in Paris streets brought the constitution issue to a head, for the riots had a profound influence on French conceptions of parliamentary democracy.

Four far-reaching points are involved in the scheme to stabilize the government against parliamentary storms, which have wrecked four cabinets in five months.

What Scheme Involves.

Government employes would be put under a modern civil service system; the taxation system would be revamped; the government would remove the chamber's right to initiate expenditures, and the president would have the power to dissolve parliament without the senate's approval.

The government, meanwhile, plunged ahead in its campaign against state functionaries accused of having a part in the $80,000,000 Stavisky pawnshop scandal.

Another high official was dismissed from his post. The official, M. Blanchard, of the ministry of agriculture, was suspended on the allegation that he joined the board of directors of a Stavisky company in an irregular manner.

Former Finance Minister Georges Bonnet appeared before the investigating commission and denied he had any relations whatever with the late Serge Stavisky.

Quiz Ex-Aid to Rasputin.

Secret police officials questioned Aaron Simonovitch, once secretary to Rasputin, Russia's "mad monk," relative to a story told by the man's son, Simon Simonovitch. The son said he and his bride, on a honeymoon trip, were on the same train as Judge Albert Prince, who was murdered because of information he had uncovered in an inquiry into the municipal pawnshop case.

On that train the young couple saw a mysterious person in a khaki overcoat and they thought he might have had something to do with Judge Prince's death. It was learned that young Simonovitch was connected with a Paris gambling club supposedly frequented by Stavisky.

EVA TANGUAY IS CONVALESCING IN HOSPITAL

Eva Tanguay, the "I Don't Care" girl whose personality made her a stage favorite in the early part of the century, is convalescing in the Michael Reese hospital after an operation to remove a cataract from her left eye. A year ago a cataract was taken from her right eye.

Dr. Harry S. Gradle, who performed both operations, said Miss Tanguay should be able to leave the hospital in about two weeks. The comedienne, who started working when she was 8 years old, to care for her blind mother, was found impoverished on the west coast by friends of other days. She is now 56 years old.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 20 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

No griping is the "keynote" of those little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They help cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you should find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets.

CROWD WATCHES LINDY ATTACK AIR MAIL BILL

Lines Denied Proper Trial, He Says.

Confirming a newspaper interview in which he had made the charges without naming names, he said:

"I had reference to Eastern Air Transport, which was owned by North American Aviation corporation, which was owned to a large extent at that time by Curtiss. I also referred to United Airlines, owned by United Aircraft and Transportation.

"At certain times these operating companies bought from their associated manufacturing companies planes that I did not think were as safe as some others."

Chamberlain was asked whether he had ever flown in any of the "less safe" ships of which he spoke.

"Yes," he replied, smiling, "but I wasn't comfortable."

Chamberlin Explains Charges.

Chamberlin was asked to explain what he meant by his assertion that the two operating companies had bought inferior planes because they were the product of affiliated companies. He said that the old tri-motored Fords, which could fly with one engine cut out, had been replaced by twin motored ships incapable of flying with one engine.

"And a twin motor that won't fly with one engine is twice as dangerous as a single motored plane," he said.

Then he explained that present twin motored ships have been so improved that they could fly with one motor; many, in fact, could take off with a single engine, he added. He had also meant certain other plane characteristics, most of which had since been corrected.

Lindbergh Draws Crowd.

It was Lindy, though, that the crowds wanted to see. Once again the huge majority caucus room over in the senate office building was called into use. And as the slim aviator, dressed in a suit of gray, stepped in upon the new $1,700 carpet to which the Democratic senators have just blown themselves, a wave of applause swept over the packed seats. The colonel flushed a little, bobbed his head in acknowledgment, then walked forward into a flashing crossfire of news cameras.

Motion picture cameras and talkie machines in stilt legged rows ground away madly, under the glare of huge bulbs screwed into the ornate cut glass chandeliers. The committee table was a plateau of wires leading to the talkie microphones and to radio loud speakers.

Lindy Doesn't Show Strain.

The young man who made himself a nation's hero when he crossed the Atlantic alone six years ago settled his lanky length into the red leather witness chair.

Col. Lindbergh looked not a day older than on the June morning when he stepped down the gangplank of the cruiser Memphis into such a homecoming welcome as no private citizen ever before received. His not the seamed face and graying temples of the traditional adventurer into far places, but the fresh, naïve complexion, the wavy light brown hair of a youth in some state college. He, who had talked with presidents and potentates, wound and unwound his long legs, clasped and unclasped his slender hands, in nervous discomfort.

Seeks Substitute Method.

Leaning forward eagerly, Lindbergh said what he had come to say, so that it might be recorded in official black and white:

"I believe this bill leaves untouched the most fundamental question, and that is whether the commercial lines shall have the right to a trial before their guilt is established."

"But the contracts have already been canceled," retorted Senator Kenneth McKellar [Dem., Tenn.], committee chairman and sponsor of the administration bill. "The question is, What sort of system shall we institute instead?"

The senator smiled. One doesn't treat a national hero the way some prosecuting senators like to bullyrag a less famous witness. But the issue that has seethed and plagued the administration for more than a month now was joined right there.

It was up to the Democratic chairman, with timely help now and again from Senator O'Mahoney, to try to prove that the President was justified in canceling the air mail contracts and turning the transportation of the mail over to the army air corps. It was the aim of Republican committee members to try to show the unjustified haste of the President's action and the harm that has been done to aviation.

Asks Lindbergh About Pay.

Senator McKellar urged questions upon the witness concerning the "fraud and collusion" that marked the awarding of the contracts under former Republican Postmaster General Walter F. Brown. He probed with questions which the special committee investigating the air mail contracts would have liked to ask—concerning Col. Lindbergh's pay and other compensation from Transcontinental Air Transport and Pan-American Airways, the two companies which he serves as technical adviser.

The chairman's tactics finally provoked a protest from Senator O'Mahoney.

"I don't think that's pertinent to the inquiry," declared that Democratic senator.

"Let him go ahead if he wants to," interposed Senator W. Warren Barbour [Rep., N. J.]. As a personal friend of Lindbergh's and successor to the seat left by the death of former Senator Dwight W. Morrow, Lindbergh's father-in-law, the New Jersey senator assumed the rôle of champion for the witness.

Tells of Compensation.

The colonel was ready to comply. He had been receiving $6,000 a year from T. A. T., he explained, and $10,000 from Pan-American. But he didn't know what had become of his salary since the contracts were canceled.

"When I entered T. A. T. and Pan-American," he said, "I was made an offer for my services. I received $250,000 of stock in T. A. T. in 1928, and in Pan-American warrants for the purchase of stock over a number of years.

"As a matter of fact, what I did was not the most desirable thing to do from a financial standpoint, but I wanted to be in aviation. Up to the present time I have invested considerably more in aviation than I have received."

Then Col. Lindbergh finished with emphasis:

"I never received a gift from any company."

At another point Senator McKellar asked about the canceled contracts.

"You did not participate in making those contracts?" he asked.

"In no way," Lindbergh replied.

"Are you aware," inquired Senator O'Mahoney at another point, "that your company paid Erle Halliburton $1,400,000 for not bidding?"

"That should be proved?" Col. Lindbergh declared.

"But if one of the officers admitted it?" Senator O'Mahoney insisted.

"That's a hypothetical question and it's also out of my field of experience," was the answer.

Col. Lindbergh told the committee he had technical experience only, and he declined on numerous occasions to answer questions concerning the proposed rate of subsidy and the fixing of minimum pay. When the question of the contracts came up he took a like stand on anything touching "contractural relations." On numerous technical matters he offered suggestions concerning the bill. "I don't feel that my field of experience warrants that" was his answer when they asked what legislative phraseology he would prefer.

One of Col. Lindbergh's comments was that if aviation is to be placed eventually under a regulatory body (the bill proposes the interstate commerce commission) it should be some separate commission and not one primarily concerned with regulation of the railroads.

Urges Using Large Planes.

Lindbergh said he would encourage use of large planes whenever it is possible to use them.

"I think it would be advantageous to aviation to make no limit on the size of aircraft where the traffic exists. I think it would be disadvantageous to aviation to limit size."

Lindbergh referred to a section of the pending bill compelling the commercial lines to carry military co-pilots on all routes. He said:

"I do not believe commercial air lines can operate efficiently unless they carry their own pilots and co-pilots.

"In my mind, we can operate more safely if we carry our own commercial crews. I think it would be a mistake to require us to carry military co-pilots. Personally I am definitely opposed to bringing the military service into commercial lines."

Safety Requirements Inadequate.

Lindbergh said the safety requirements of the bill are inadequate.

"The question of range is important," he said. "There are many cases in which the range of airplanes, the distance they can travel without refueling, is a vitally important safety factor.

Lindbergh pointed out a practical limitation on the air mail load that could be carried under the bill. He called attention to the clause prescribing a maximum rate of 30 cents per airplane mile for the first 300 pounds, and not exceeding 6 cents for each additional 200 pounds.

"This would have the practical effect of limiting the size of the load, since no company could provide large space for mail at 6 cents a pound," he said.

Refuses to Suggest Rates.

Asked to suggest rates for the carrying of air mail, Lindbergh said:

"That is out of my field.

"If we are to encourage commercial aviation we should encourage the use of large planes because we have not yet reached the maximum size in transport planes."

Lindbergh objected to a limitation of three years for the transport lines to keep the mail contracts.

"I only want to call your attention to the fact that the life of a transport plane is five or six years and that might leave the line with planes only half used," he said.

McKellar asked whether the contracts in which Lindbergh is interested would be affected by provisions of the bill.

"I am not sure how the bill affects contracts," said Lindbergh.

Q.—Were you present when these contracts were awarded? A.—No, I was not.

Q.—You would defend these contracts only if they were honorable and legal? A.—I am only defending the right of trial.

Q.—You would oppose these contracts if they were fraudulent and illegal? A.—I certainly would.

"That was what we had a right to expect," said McKellar. "It does credit to you as a citizen."

On technical matters Col. Lindbergh was confident and fluent.

He disagreed, for instance, with yesterday's testimony by Brig. Gen. "Billy" Mitchell, who declared European aviation, specially military, far ahead of American.

"Europe may be ahead of us in liquid cooled engines and certain high speed developments," Col. Lindbergh admitted, but in other fields he was sure this country was ahead.

"Do you think aviation needs a subsidy?" Senator O'Mahoney asked him.

"Personally," Col. Lindbergh answered, "I am opposed to a perpetual subsidy. It's only justified as long as the industry advances rapidly. That condition has been met in aviation, but I think the industry should be encouraged a little longer."

Speaks as Mail Expert.

Col. Lindbergh did not blame the army air corps for its record of ten deaths in flying the mail.

"The army," he said, "had ten days to prepare. The commercial companies had ten years. The army equipment is not made for mail flying. The pilots had no time to learn the routes. I do not feel that any organization should have been asked to take over on such short notice. It takes a commercial pilot, for example, months really to learn a new route."

Col. Lindbergh explained that military planes could not be as adequately equipped for blind flying as commercial planes because of the weight involved in equipment. He thought army pilots did not receive enough flying time.

In a series of questions Senator Barbour sought to bring out the blow that had been struck at commercial aviation by cancelation of the contracts.

"How long," he asked, "will it take to build up a satisfactory operation if the old companies are ruled out?"

"It has taken us since 1928 to build up the service of Transcontinental and Western Air," Lindbergh replied and later the witness added, "It will take us a long time to get back where we were at the beginning of this year."

"Do you think," Senator Barbour asked, "that the policy of Former Postmaster General Brown in establishing the transcontinental lines was in the interest of aviation?"

"From the time Mr. Brown took office," Col. Lindbergh answered, "commercial aviation, particularly the air mail, was greatly improved."

MAINE BANKER ASKS WASHINGTON HEARING ON THE AIR MAIL LINES

New York, March 16.—(AP)—Sumner Sewall, Bath, Me., banker, announced today that he has asked share owners in three leading aircraft companies to join an "air transport stockholders committee," which will seek to obtain "a hearing for our management" on the cancelation of air mail contracts.

Sewall, a war time "ace," last week addressed letters to the presidents of United Air Transport, Aviation corporation, and Transcontinental-Western Air Express, requesting explanations of "what you have been doing with my property."

"Two of the companies addressed have replied," Sewall's letter to stockholders states, "telling of their efforts to secure a hearing. Their letters to the postmaster general and to the President have to date remained unanswered."

Son of Missouri Official Weds Thuringian Countess

New York, March 16.—(AP)—Countess Victoria Helene von Tiesenhausen of Thuringia and Martin Mayes, son of Jewell Mayes, assistant commissioner of the Missouri state board of agriculture, arrived on the Europa today and were married tonight. Mrs. Mayes was born in Reval, Esthonia, the daughter of Count Alfred von Tiesenhausen of Thuringia.

FOULOIS REPORTS TODAY ON ARMY AIR MAIL FLYING

Indicates He'll Sanction Resumption at Once.

Maj. Gen. Benjamin D. Foulois, chief of the army air corps, who arrived in Chicago yesterday on an inspection tour, today will make his report to the war department upon the ability of the army's newly organized air mail service to resume flying of the mails. Yesterday after a conference with the three commandants directly in charge of the mail flying the general indicated that he will recommend the immediate resumption of the mail flights.

"The eastern zone and the central zone," Gen. Foulois stated yesterday, "appear to be in good shape. I believe that the mail routes will be flown again as soon as I can make my report to the war department. I am not yet ready to do this, but it probably will be done on Saturday."

Will Make Report Here.

Gen. Foulois announced last night he contemplates making an inspection trip to St. Louis and to Atlanta, Ga., leaving Chicago late today. His aids said his report probably would be made public soon after noon today from the army mail headquarters in the 33d division, Illinois National Guard air corps, at Municipal airport.

Gen. Foulois, who was one of the original pilots and one of the first officers in the army air corps, began his inspection trip from Washington army headquarters Thursday.

Flying his own army observation plane with a mechanic as passenger, the general went to Newark, N. J., airport Thursday and made a complete inspection of pilots and planes held in readiness there. Yesterday, in company with Maj. B. Q. Jones, commander of the eastern mail zone, and an aid in another ship, the general flew to Chicago, stopping for a brief inspection of army mail equipment and personnel in Cleveland.

He immediately went into consultation with Col. Hickam, commandant of the central zone, and Col. H. H. Arnold, head of the western zone of operations.

Given Detailed Report.

For three hours the general was given a detailed report on the planes and pilots available for the continuance of the mail service in the western and central zones.

Although the new air mail schedules for use when the mail flights are resumed have already been issued by the postoffice officials, Gen. Foulois' report may cause changes.

Army officials at headquarters yesterday indicated that these curtailed schedules may be greatly expanded at Gen. Foulois' recommendations.

U. S. Hears Plans for Isle Airport Off Grant Park

United States army engineers yesterday heard the opinions of private citizens and civic groups concerning the construction of an island airport proposed for the lake front off Grant park. The hearing was a step in the routine necessary for war department approval.

The port, which would consist of 180 acres of "made" land built in the form of a triangle at a point in the Chicago harbor 500 feet directly east of the Adler planetarium, must have army approval because of its location in navigable waters under federal jurisdiction. The war department approval also is demanded by the Public Works Administration before Chicago's application for $8,500,000 to finance the project is given final consideration.

Benefits Are Told.

The benefits which such an airport would bring Chicago were related at the hearing, held in the postoffice, by John Wentworth, chairman of the Chicago plan commission's airport committee. He cited the fact that the airport would clinch Chicago's position as the nation's air center, and would be the only airport within ten minute's travel of a large city in the United States.

He said the port would be self-liquidating, would expedite the handling of air mail, and that upon it 1,400 workmen could be put to work immediately and kept busy until June, 1935, which has been set as the time for the end of the recovery program. Nearly 800 other workmen would be kept busy as an indirect result, he added.

Mr. Wentworth also said postal officials, and executives of commercial air lines operating from the present airport have approved the island port.

New Breakwaters Urged.

Commodore C. J. Peterson of the Lake Michigan Yachting association urged that in order to complete the harbor project additional breakwaters should be built to protect surface craft from prevailing northeasterly winds.

Capt. Richard L. Smith of the army engineer corps, who conducted the hearing, stated that the original application did not include a request for the seaplane port and asked this amendment be made. Wentworth assured him that it would be done. At the close of the hearing Capt. Smith announced the record of the meeting would be transmitted to Washington.

Among others present were Walter Smith of the division of waterways of Illinois, F. L. Beesley, engineer for the Illinois Steel company; M. W. Oetershagen, engineer for the bureau of rivers and harbors of Chicago; Arnold Nelson, inspector for the division of waterways of Chicago; Alfred Shaw, member of the airport committee of the plan commission, and Hugh S. Young, chief engineer of the plan commission.

FIX PERSONALTY TAX DEADLINE FOR 4 CITY DISTRICTS

TAX COLLECTIONS.

Real estate tax collections yesterday, including those for 1933, were $562,461, making a total of $116,324,435 collected since enforcement of the Kerner-Skarda act began on April 28, 1933. The day's collections of real estate taxes and the uncollected taxes for four years follow:

	1928.	1929.
March 16 .....$	15,825 $	35,087
Uncollected	14,919,334	40,087,131
	1930.	1931.
March 16 .....$	40,497 $	70,033
Uncollected	63,601,515	60,363,871

The day's collections of 1933 real estate taxes totaled $401,049; of 1931 personal property taxes $620, and of 1932 personal property taxes $100,326.

County Assessor Jacobs yesterday announced the penalty dates for the filing of 1933 personal property tax schedules in four city townships. The townships and the deadlines are: Hyde Park, April 3; Jefferson, April 17; West, May 1; and Lake, May 15.

Schedules for residents of these townships will all be in the mail two weeks before the deadlines. Branch offices have been opened in each township where the taxpayer may conveniently file his schedule instead of mailing it to the assessor's office. The schedules have already been mailed to the residents of the four other city townships, Rogers Park, North, South, and Lake View.

County Treasurer McDonough said yesterday that his tax collection office on the first floor of the county building will be open between 9 a. m. and 4 p. m. tomorrow. If enough taxpayers appear tomorrow the office will be open every Sunday until April 15, the deadline for the payment of the first installment of 1932 taxes.

KINNEY'S NAME IS BROUGHT INTO GAS TAX TRIAL

Juggling of the accounts in the state department of finance while the late Garrett de Forrest Kinney was director was described to a jury yesterday in the Criminal court of Judge Donald S. McKinlay. J. E. Wemple, an investigator for the department, gave the testimony while appearing against three officials of the Consumers Gas and Oil company, who are charged with conspiracy to evade payment of the state gasoline tax.

Under cross examination of attorneys representing Max and Al Johnson, brothers, and Sam Levin, the defendants, Wemple said the department books showed Kinney was short $172,000 when an investigation of his accounts was made after he left office. Later Kinney shot and killed himself.

During the cross examination the defense brought out that the defendants had paid $24,640 in gasoline taxes in November, 1930, but were not given credit in the finance department books until March, 1931. The prosecution has admitted that Kinney apparently juggled his accounts, but they charge this was no excuse for the defendants' failure to pay some $200,000 in taxes.

LAST MINUTE TAX FILINGS SWAMP REVENUE OFFICES

Seven truckloads of income tax returns postmarked before midnight Thursday swamped the internal revenue offices in the United States courthouse yesterday. It was the heaviest receipt of mail returns in several years, and twice the usual volume, according to Miss Elizabeth Eckert, chief clerk in the offices.

With a large number of returns untouched, it was announced yesterday that 103,300 returns had been tabulated. Of these 74,957 were taxable, while 19,200 were untaxable.

Final figures on the number of returns filed here will be available today, it was said.

CIVIL SERVICE STATUS URGED FOR ASSESSOR'S AIDS

Officials of the Chicago Bar association and a number of civic leaders met yesterday with Emmett Whealan, president of the county board, and asked that in his capacity as ex-officio head of the county civil service commissioners he use his influence to have employés in the office of the county assessor placed on a civil service basis. John D. Black, president of the bar association, declared that "for the sake of efficiency" the employés should be placed under the county civil service commission. Mr. Whealan promised to work out a plan as soon as possible.

ONE WING PLANE FLOWN IN TEST AT GLENVIEW

An experimental airplane with a single round wing which acts as a parachute when the ship has lost flying speed and allows it to descend almost vertically, was flown yesterday by its designer and builder, Steven P. Nemeth, at Curtiss-Wright airport, Glenview. In a demonstration of the capabilities of his craft, Nemeth stalled it at a considerable height and instead of plunging into a spin as would an aircraft of conventional design, it maintained flying speed and sank slowly.

Nemeth says his ship has a maximum speed of 130 miles with two passengers. It is powered with a 110 horsepower Warner motor. The plane's peculiar wing is attached to a conventional fusilage by a number of braces in the manner of the usual high wing monoplane. In addition to ailerons fitted to the outer edges of the wing, Nemeth also added an elevator which is controled by the pilot as are the elevators on the tail.

VIENNA RETAINS CITY-OWNED PUBLIC UTILITIES

Fascists Keep Socialist Projects Alive.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VIENNA, Austria, March 16.—Displacing the Socialists from power in Vienna, where they had been entrenched since 1919, left Richard Schmitz, the new Fascist commissioner of the city, with considerable delicate economic machinery on his hands for adjustment to a new system of doing things. He also was bequeathed many unsuccessful Socialistic enterprises which must be liquidated.

When one speaks of Socialist ruled Vienna, in fact, one must take into consideration that there were two kinds of Socialist organizations in the Austrian capital:

1. The municipally owned enterprises and nearly all the public utilities; and

2. The so-called Socialist party organization and its various welfare, recreational, cultural and coöperative subsidiary organizations and the famous Arbeiters' bank in which the Socialist unions' and party funds were kept.

Unions Are Dissolved.

All of these latter are gradually being dissolved by Chancellor Dollfuss' government. Even such associations as the Socialist stamp collectors' organization, the Socialist Midwives' association, and the Socialist Esperanto club have been forced out of existence.

But the public utilities will for the most part remain city owned, although it was indicated a few days ago that the city brewery might be auctioned off to the highest bidder. Thus another enterprise may be returned to private direction.

Curiously enough, it is pointed out here, the Christian Social forces, which have driven the Socialists from the Vienna city hall, were themselves responsible for enacting the laws for nationalizing and municipalizing the public utilities.

Dr. Karl Lueger, the founder of the Christian Social party, which has now taken over the reins of government under a new title—the Fascist Heimwehr—was, much to the annoyance of Emperor Francis Josef, elected mayor in 1889. He took over all the city services and utilities which up to then had been privately owned.

Bank Socialist Stronghold.

The big job of liquidating socialistic enterprise here concerns the Arbeiters' bank, which was closed by the government a few days after the civil war began on Feb. 12.

In the Arbeiters' bank, whose affairs are now being wound up and taken over by the Credit Institute for Public Works, the so-called socialistic party organization had a stronghold which controled many other enterprises. It is one of the anomalies of the present situation that the city of Vienna, Socialist ruled till a month ago, was itself one of the most capitalistic enterprises in Europe.

The Arbeiters' bank apparently had backed a number of Socialist enterprises which were unsound economically. It had a registered stock of 4,140,000 schillings and together with its reserves the bank's assets were about 8,140,000 schillings. But the balance sheets of the company as of Dec. 31, 1933, showed "frozen credits" or unrecoverable investments of 54,130,000 schillings. This enormous outlay of capital mostly concerned socialistically organized enterprises such as coöperative societies, community stores, but also many productive enterprises which didn't pay.

Bank Ruled Many Industries.

Under the control of the bank, for instance, were two banking houses known as Ratao and Russex, organized to develop trade between Russia and Austria, and various other institutions for financing long term payments to members. Furthermore, there were leather and shoe factories, a large printing establishment known as the Inva, which has since established itself in Prague, and the Kiba, a film producing and distributing organization. Many sausage and bread factories, two breweries, and many small savings institutes were ruled by the bank.

Such was the scope of the capitalistic enterprises of this socialistic superbank, which is now being wound up. It appears likely now that the affairs of the institution will be declared in outright bankruptcy. Banking experts of the government who are now going over the books declare that much of the capital which the Arbeiters' bank put out in the above named enterprises will be a dead loss. The government has declared that it will see that no one who had savings deposits in the bank will lose any money.

ITALY, HUNGARY AND AUSTRIA WILL SIGN POLITICAL PACT TODAY

ROME, March 16.—(AP)—A political consultative pact, stipulating that Italy, Austria, and Hungary will seek each other's mutual advice on matters of interest to all three, will be signed tomorrow, a government spokesman announced tonight. The signers will be Premier Benito Mussolini, Chancellor Englebert Dollfuss of Austria, and Premier Julius Goemboes of Hungary.

At the same time they will sign a commercial accord, listing preferential duties, which, it is hoped, will serve as a basis for a more extensive Danubian agreement bringing in France, Germany, and the little entente [Rumania, Czechoslovakia, Jugo-Slavia].

The political pact will state that the three powers having witnessed the effectiveness of their present intimate relationship agree to consult one another before committing themselves to any action in which the three are mutually interested. It was emphasized tonight that this will not mean the creation of an alliance of the three countries.

A customs union will not be involved in the commercial agreement. This agreement has been worked out along general lines and experts later will fill in the details.

WINDOW WASHER FALLS TO DEATH.

Emil Johnson, 48 years old, 641 East 71st street, a window washer, fell to his death yesterday when his safety belt broke while he was working on the second floor at the John F. Cuneo bookbinding plant, 465 West Germak road.

SANTIAGO UNDER MILITARY RULE AFTER BOMBINGS

3 Killed, 30 Injured in Cuban Disorders.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SANTIAGO, Cuba, March 16.—This capital of Oriente province was placed under martial law today, after twenty-five bombings, death of three persons, and injuries to more than thirty. The curfew law is being enforced and civil rights have been suspended.

Bombs wrecked La Campana, the largest dry goods store in the city. Two clerks were killed. Six customers were injured. The city hall was bombed next, the second time in ten days. Bomb explosions in the railway station injured eleven persons who were waiting for the Havana express. Six more downtown business houses were damaged late in the day. One person was killed and twelve more were injured in these explosions.

Labor Agitators Blamed.

Authorities declare the bombings are part of a terrorist campaign launched by labor agitators as a reprisal against President Carlos Mendieta's recent decree dissolving labor syndicates which for ten days have been promoting strikes.

Groups of armed strikers today assaulted business houses here, at Gibara, Holguin, Jiguani, Palma Soriano, Mayari, and other large Oriente towns. Stores were looted of cash and merchandise. Police throughout the province are said to be completely demoralized and unable to cope with the disorders.

Two thousand soldiers arrived here at 6 o'clock tonight from Havana to reinforce the city patrol. Garrisons throughout the province are being strengthened.

Checks Reprisals Against Strikers.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, March 16.—President Carlos Mendieta today moved to check reprisals against former strikers. He signed a decree providing heavy fines for employers refusing to rehire workers who were willing to comply with government orders to end strikes. The president ruled that workers' rights must also be respected.

FRANCE DOUBLES TARIFF RATES; U. S. GOODS HIT

American Business Men Incensed by Action.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, March 16.—Following the establishment yesterday of brand new quotas for a series of important American products, the French government today raised the ante still higher for the forthcoming trade game with the United States by doubling the tariff rates on numerous imports. A number of them are vital to American foreign trade.

The action was taken under the extraordinary powers recently voted Premier Gaston Doumergue by parliament under which he can raise or lower tariffs by decree. Like yesterday's quota decree, it is interpreted by American business men here as a shrewd move, preparatory to Franco-American trade negotiations—the theory being that America will have to grant the French certain tariff concessions in order to get back on the original footing.

American Business Hard Hit.

If the negotiations break down—and in the meantime until they get under way—American business is hardest hit. Products affected by the new tariff measure are machine tools, one of the most important American exports electric automobile horns, milk, sugar, alarm clocks, toys, certain chemicals, and gelatin.

The duty on machine tools and chemical products in question has been exactly doubled. During 1932, the most recent year for which figures are available, exports of machine tools to France totaled 3,710 metric quintals. [The metric quintal is equivalent to 220 pounds.] Among chemicals the duty on chromate and bichromate of soda is raised from 40 francs, the minimum rate, and 80 francs, maximum rate, per 100 kilograms, to 160 francs and 320 francs, respectively.

The duty on electric automobile horns is increased from 16 francs minimum and 64 maximum to 20 francs and 80 francs. American importers are in a turmoil over the two measures. As neither of them is discriminatory, but apply equally to all countries, it is impossible for the American embassy here to lodge any official protest.

U. S. Gets Nothing in Return.

Deprived of even this feeble protection, importers are unanimous in expressing regret that the United States government has given away its opportunity for commercial barter with France by suppressing the quota on French wines and liquor without getting anything in return.

"Keep French wines out of the United States for one month," say importers, "and France will realize that she cannot go on paralyzing American trade."

A special meeting of the committee on importation of the American chamber of commerce in France has been called for next Wednesday to examine what members consider the grave situation created by the French government measures.

Uses Extraordinary Power.

It is the first time the French government has utilized the extraordinary powers granted it by the law of Feb. 28, by which it is authorized to modify customs tariff by decree up to Nov. 15.

Most of the products affected by the increase in duty rates were subjected to the import license system by the decree of Feb. 17. At the time the decree was promulgated it was explained that this action was necessary pending legislation to impose higher duties in retaliation for tariff increases against a French product made by Germany last October. American business men argue they do not see why they should be made to suffer for Germany's misdeeds.

SON TESTIFIES FOR MOTHER IN ANNUITY FIGHT

Newton Anderson, 23 years old, 1430 North Dearborn parkway, testified yesterday at a hearing before Master in Chancery Harry Smitz in behalf of his mother, Mrs. Alma Newton Anderson, who is suing Ernest R. Graham with the object of preventing him from changing the beneficiary of an annuity bond. Under the bond, issued by the Canada Life Assurance company, Mrs. Anderson is scheduled to receive $300 monthly, beginning May 1.

Young Anderson testified that he overheard Messmore Kendall, New York attorney who had previously related that he once paid Mrs. Anderson $30,000 sent her by Graham, tell her she would be "taken care of in a reasonable way for the rest of her life."

Mrs. Anderson something more than a year ago sued Graham, a wealthy architect, for $500,000, alleging a conspiracy. A verdict in favor of the architect was returned in January, 1933.

SATURDAY NEWS OF NEW BOOKS

Some Queens, Few Kings in Dust Jackets

Book News Today Has to Do with Royalty.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

NOW that none of us is feeling like them, what with our income taxes putting us in our places, what about a few books about kings and queens who, although they sometimes lost their heads in a quite literal fashion, never did have to wear them into honeycombs over how much gasoline tax they had paid and whether Aunt Sophira is feeble minded enough to be listed as a dependent.

Affairs of state and "affairs" in the more common use of that word took up most of their waking hours, but no affairs of the multiplication table or the tragedies of long or short division.

One lady that, according to her latest biographer, Gaston Delayen, spent more time watching over her state and less in her other affairs than she is usually credited as doing, was "Cleopatra" [Dutton]. Her biography was published on Tuesday. M. Delayen being French [this is a translation which has just come to us] naturally does not look upon her love life with a careless eye. Cleopatra in his pages is a gal with R. S. V. P. glances which rarely fail to bring a response. But she is something much more than the world's most successful siren [until she meets Octavius]. She is a patriot and a statesman who turned all of her powers into making Egypt a great country, the ally of all-powerful Rome. Cleopatra is, in these pages, a passionate woman whose passion for her country was no less strong within her than her eagerness for love.

The actual story of Cleopatra is a thriller much more dramatic than any writer could make up . . . that is, as much of it as is known to history, for to this day much of the codified information about her is negative rather than positive. Archeologists know much more about what she wasn't than what she actually was, and the fact that from the time of Ptolemy V. there were six queens called Cleopatra doesn't make research any easier. This "Cleopatra" is an exciting, dramatic picture of some one who really should never have existed, she seems so completely the heroine of created romance.

Another Royal Charmer.

And there is another life story of a royal charmer, "Josephine," by E. A. Rheinhardt [Knopf], translated by Caroline Frederick, which tells the human story of a capricious, extravagant, desired woman who ruled the most spectacular ruler of modern history, Napoleon. The naïve little schoolgirl in Martinique could never have dreamed of being the most sophisticated woman in the most flamboyant court in Europe. How that rose-petaled road was trodden and how the thorns finally pierced her spirit is told in this thrilling "Josephine."

Story of Queen Elizabeth.

And there is "Queen Elizabeth," by J. E. Neale [Harcourt-Brace]. The author is a professor of history in the University of London and one of the great authorities on the Elizabethan period. He can and does make a biography of a dead queen sound like a combination mystery story, adventure book, psychological novel and scenario for a super-thriller.

Professor Neale makes no compromises with his facts, but he just has the skill to fit those facts together to make diverting as well as impressively informative reading. It appeared opportunely to celebrate the fourth centenary of the birth of the Virgin Queen.

Incidentally, it is to Queen Elizabeth that M. Delayen compares Cleopatra in her statecraft and her devotion to her country.

Not a biography, but a novel with Catherine the Great as heroine, was published on Thursday. It is frankly called "The Evil Empress" [Lippincott], and it was written by her great-great-grandson, the Grand Duke Alexander, whose "Once a Grand Duke" was one of the most popular books of its day. Old Russia glitters and creeps and thrills through the pages of "The Evil Empress."

A new light on "Louis XV. and His Times" [Lippincott] shines in Pierre Gaxotte's book of that title, just over here in translation. Historians have formerly made most of the evils which were the slow-time fuses which set off the revolution. M. Gaxotte, with the aid of new documents, has found that while the period certainly was frivolous and corrupt it also was a great period for business, that the population of the realm increased seven or eight millions and that the business, wealth, and commerce of France increased enormously.

More Stories of Royalty.

And then there is "Philip II.," by Jean H. Mariejol [Harpers], the life story of the husband of Queen Mary Tudor and the reluctant wooer of Queen Elizabeth. M. Mariejol, like J. E. Neale, is also a professor of history (at the University of Lyons), and also has a pretty knack at making historical biography sound more exciting than fiction.

Two generations later is the period of "Charles the First, King of England," by Hilaire Belloc [Lippincott], and with a full pallet a veteran and skilful biographer paints the picture of the too easily influenced king, his not at all easily influenced enemies. For the first time in a popular biography Mr. Belloc paints in, instead of merely sketching her, the baleful Lady Carlisle, Pym's mistress, who was secretly betraying the king. Cromwell stalks his dour and powerful way through the pages and not one line of the trial and execution is missed by the skilled portrayer.

And William the Conqueror.

And if you yearn for even more swashbuckling days there is "William the Conqueror," by Phillips Russell [Scribners], which recreates "1066 and All That," and gets right at the roots of the changing of the course of western civilization. The author not only brings alive a vivid past, but, without doing any high and wide soapboxing about it, shows how much the modern English speaking peoples owe to the cunning statesmanship of that colorful Norman.

Public Library Asks Gifts of Books in Appeal to Citizens

The highest circulation of any public library in the world has been the achievement of the Chicago Public Library, as high as fifteen and a half million volumes a year. But that was in the golden days when the library bought new books and often had the important ones in circulation as soon as they were on sale in the bookshops.

In May, 1931, the financial clouds which had gathered over every one burst so completely over the library that there was no appropriation for the purchase of new books. Since then nothing new has been bought and the books already in circulation have been wearing out at the rate of 125,000 a year.

And now the public library is appealing to the generous citizens of Chicago to go over their private bookshelves and to part with the books which they no longer find vitally necessary to themselves that others may not lack for reading matter. They need especially the classics and children's books and any book published since May 1, 1931.

Many of the women's clubs are having book showers. Why not organize a book shower in your neighborhood? Deliver them to any one of the 45 branch libraries, or to the main library downtown, or, if you collect so many that it is impossible for you to transport them, a truck from the library will call to collect them.

A. G. Macdonell Drops Laughter, Turns to History

"Napoleon and His Marshals" Is the Title.

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

LONDON.—[Special Correspondence.]—Everybody who remembers that amusing book, "England, Their England" (and there must be large numbers of people who do, for I see that Macmillans in England announce the book as in its nineteenth thousand), will be pleased to hear that A. G. Macdonell has written another work.

Some will be less pleased to learn that it is unlike its forerunner, and it is true that when a man has shown that he can make us laugh we all feel that it is his duty to go on doing that useful thing; but Mr. Macdonell has been wise. He has turned his attention to history. His new book is called "Napoleon and His Marshals" (Macmillan), and it begins with a narrative of the Italian campaign of 1796 and takes the history of each of the marshals to the end of his life.

Intermediately, it tells the military story of the Napoleonic wars. Supposing this subject does not seem very attractive, readers who are unacquainted with Mr. Macdonell's first book can always read "England, Their England," and have a good laugh at English sports and literary men; for the author is a Scotsman resident in Surrey, and his book, being full of lively portraits, is a real delight.

I do not recommend "Napoleon and His Marshals" for laughter. But it can be read with pleasure, for it does not parade learning and does tell its story with ease and confidence.

Three first novels have been sent to me with high praise. The first, "Twisted Clay," by Frank Walford (Laurie), is even considered likely to be a best seller. It is a sensational story in which a murderess describes her own performances in smug detail; but it is not very convincing.

The second, "Blind Alley," by T. Thomson (Allen & Unwin), a picture of slum life in Lancashire, is convincing in its detail, and also very humorous, but is not very lively as a story. It is dedicated to Gordon Phillips, whose light topical verses in the Manchester Guardian, published regularly under the name "Lucio," are the best things of their kind now appearing in England.

The third and most notable of these first novels is "Corner Shop" (Dent), of which I first heard some weeks ago and told my readers here. It is the story of a determined woman, her shop, her children, her quarrels, and her courage. Although very simple, the story is told with constant little happy touches which make one smile. I think readers will hear more of the author, Philip Keeley, who is not afraid to deal with hard times and hard people with spirit and a lightness of touch too often absent from books about those who are not very rich.

The publisher of "Blind Alley," Stanley Unwin, who is already author of a book on publishing, is going to challenge criticism as the writer of a travel book. He and his brother-in-law some years ago went round the world together. Both kept diaries. They have pooled their diaries, added notes, and made a narrative of adventure and comment. The result should be amusing.

Mystery of the Week
BY MORTIMER QUICK.

A set of circumstances that seem unbelievably apt is presented in Agatha Christie's new book, "Murder in the Calais Coach." [Dodd-Mead.]

But there's a reason which appeals to the sentiments if not to the intellects, and in my opinion it's a darn good story. Our old friend Poirot makes less play of "the little gray cells," and is generally less mysterious and more endurable. In fact, for once he seems truly mystified, which is all to the good.

That the story is reminiscent of one of our famous and shocking kidnapings adds greatly to its interest and the ultimate chapter is reached before I, for one, had any inkling of the complicated solution, which, analyzed harshly, may seem too incredible, but nevertheless gives a sense of justice and satisfaction. It is a long time since Mrs. Christie has written so good a book or one that moves so smoothly and entertainingly to its surprising conclusion.

The opening chapters of "Whispering Tongues" [Doubleday-Doran], by Laurence Kirk, describe very skilfully the trial of a poor little worm for a murder he did not commit. But for all he ever got out of life he might just as well have killed his first and succeeding wives. He seems born to be a red herring and his ineptness makes him pitiful if not convincing.

A series of sudden deaths occurs in a peaceful country community in darkest England and the gossips undertake to solve them. In the meanwhile a love affair between a charming young daughter of the local doctor and a penniless but never proud young peer progresses nicely right under the noses of all the sleuths and backbiters, and it is really this that furnishes the most engaging elements of the book.

The point of view shifts a little too much and it is not easy to believe that murder could be conceived in such cramped and limited souls, but the story is very readable and has a fresh and light handed attack.

Analyzes "Taxeaters."

In "T N T" [Long-Smith] T. Swann Harding analyzes "These National Taxeaters" and in no uncertain terms declares [and bolsters the declaration with figures] that government is more business-like than business itself. There's dynamite in them thar pages.

Noted Voyage in Open Boat Makes Thriller

BY AL CHASE.

"Men Against the Sea," by Charles Nordhoff and James Norman Hall [Little-Brown: Atlantic Monthly Press], is a stunning second volume in the trilogy of which "Mutiny on the Bounty" was an outstanding beginning. It tells in simple, straightforward and forceful writing of the remarkable voyage made by Capt. Bligh and seventeen men in an open boat, 3,618 miles across the south seas, from the Friendly islands to Timor in the Dutch East Indies—one of the greatest of ocean feats.

"Mutiny on the Bounty" was a fictionized story of Bligh's cruelty and how it led to the famous mutiny. "Men Against the Sea" is an almost historically correct account of Bligh's splendid seamanship and leadership in navigating the Bounty's launch—into which they had been put by the mutineers—to safety with only one life lost on the voyage.

Any one who has read Bligh's journal of this stirring small boat voyage will note that the authors have taken practically no liberties with the original sources. Of course, no diary keeper ever makes himself out a villain. Neither did Bligh. So the villain of "Mutiny on the Bounty" becomes the hero of "Men Against the Sea." And if you haven't read the first of the trilogy, or have never heard of Bligh's brutality both at home and on sea, you may picture this hard fisted British sea dog as a likable person.

But whether hero or villain, Bligh is an outstanding figure of maritime history and Nordhoff and Hall have done a magnificent job in narrating his remarkable feat. It's a splendid sequel but strangely enough it's an even better story by itself. If you read "Mutiny on the Bounty" you'll enjoy this thoroughly; if you haven't read the first book, you'll get even more pleasure out of "Men Against the Sea."

The third volume of the "Mutiny" trilogy, on which the authors already are at work, will take up the mutineers again and tell about their voyage to Pitcairn island and their life there.

Ad Executives Who Sought Adventure Find It in Mexico

If you're thinking of crossing the Rio Grande we don't know of better preparation than curling up in an easy chair and spending a few hours of fireside travel through our Spanish speaking neighbor by means of "Time Out for Adventure: Let's Go to Mexico!" by Leonidas W. Ramsey [Doubleday-Doran]. It's a gay, carefree jaunt by two Americans, the author (head of an advertising agency) and his companion, J. Anthony Kelly (an art director), who has illustrated the book with much skill and enthusiasm.

If you've been to Mexico you'll revel in "Time Out for Adventure," but even if you've never crossed the line you'll get just as much delight out of this fresh, vigorous travel tale. The author has written a sprightly, amusing, and informative volume about a quaint, picturesque, and easy going nation which, it's safe to predict, is going to be flooded with Yankee tourists at no far future date. It's a charming black and gold book, lavishly illustrated with photographs and sketches and gorgeous end paper maps by Mr. Kelly.

Noted Explorer's Secretary Describes a Fishing Trip

Jane Harvey Houlson, secretary for many years to F. A. Mitchell-Hedges, famous English explorer, writer and catcher of great fish, has written an intimate, jolly and at times exciting account of a trip she and her chief took to the Bay islands off the coast of Honduras. "Blue Blaze" [Bobbs-Merrill] is a well written, humorous, informative and altogether likeable story of exploration. It's well illustrated and has attractive end paper maps.

TRADE EXPERTS DRAFT PLANS TO EXPAND EXPORTS

Submit Program to Widen Chicago Markets.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Trade relations with Brazil are used as a specific illustration in suggestions for the development of foreign trade which are to be advanced at Washington by the foreign credits division of the Chicago Association of Credit Men and the Export Managers' Club of Chicago.

A joint committee announced yesterday that Chicago industries are becoming "foreign trade conscious," due to THE TRIBUNE'S campaign for enlargement of markets at home and abroad as a stimulant to employment and business recovery.

Imports Overweigh Exports.

The United States buys about 45 to 50 per cent of Brazil's total exports, and the volume of our imports from Brazil is about three times as great as our exports to that South American country.

Where United States importers, however, are reported to be paying cash for Brazilian goods, United States exporters have to wait six to eight months for their money, because of the exchange situation. The Chicago groups are urging upon Secretary of State Cordell Hull that means be devised to expedite payment of overdue commercial obligations and to place future transactions on a more equitable basis.

"This," says a memorial from some 103 midwest exporting manufacturers, "would not only benefit American manufacturers, but also their customers in Brazil, who are willing to buy our merchandise and whose responsibility entitles them to do so, but who are prevented from buying because of reluctance on the part of American manufacturers to ship under such adverse exchange conditions as are in effect."

Seek Wider Market.

Chicago's direct commercial interest in Brazil lies in the possibility of exporting a wide diversity of products of Chicagoland factories—for wnich expanded markets means increased employment, and more jobs for workers.

United States exports to Brazil in 1932 amounted to $28,600,000. This represented an increase over the preceding year, but was less than the average for the 1910-'14 period. More than one-third of our exports to Brazil in 1932 was wheat shipped under the "wheat for coffee" transaction of 1931. Exports of air craft and parts amounted to two and one half million dollars, and most other items, except tools and construction machinery, showed decreases.

3-to-1 Balance Holds.

Imports from Brazil fell off 25 per cent in 1932, but the total was still three times the value of our exports to that country. Coffee represented 84 per cent of our imports.

Industries in which the Chicago area, it is pointed out, might especially increase their foreign trade with Brazil—as typical of other Latin American countries—are tires, iron and steel products, barbed wire, tubular products, tools, copper rods, electrical machinery and apparatus, household refrigerators, radios, construction machinery, typewriters, and agricultural machinery and implements.

With further view of aiding exporters in the Chicago area, the joint group is sending S. S. Brill to Washington today to confer with the authorities.

Submits Suggestions.

The following suggestions have met the approval of the joint committee from the credit men and the Export Managers' club, and will be submitted by Mr. Brill:

1. Revision of tariffs on a reciprocal basis.

a. These to be consummated following thorough investigations by practical nonpartisan men on the ground at home and abroad.

2. Authority to consummate revision of tariffs to be given to the President in an emergency, to counteract regulations of other nations detrimental to our trade.

3. Government facilities to be established for assistance in discounting documentary papers for foreign shipments as is in effect in many countries.

4. Facilities to be established for the transmittal of dollar funds at maturity.

5. As a means of producing maximum efficiency and economy, the definite assignment of all foreign trade work as a specialized department, either under the state department or under the department of commerce.

a. This specialized department to have experienced stafs in the various offices at home and abroad.

Praise Trade Campaign.

Mr. Brill is a former trade commissioner for the United States department of commerce. A statement of the activities of the groups in going after foreign markets, issued by Carl M. Wolter and Mr. R. Dormitzer, secretaries of the two groups acting jointly, said:

"THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S campaign has made Chicago and the midwest manufacturers foreign trade conscious. This is extremely valuable, because the products we manufacture in the Chicago area are diversified and find their way into almost every market of the United States. Our manufacturers need the added outlet for their merchandise and now are studying the possibilities as developed by THE TRIBUNE'S foreign trade campaign.

"Approximately 50 per cent of the manufactured goods exported from the United States originate within a radius of 300 miles from Chicago. This is one other reason why Chicagoans should be foreign trade minded."

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farm

By Bob Becker

Realistic Farm Drama

March 16, 1934.

THERE was a big cattle "stampede" today here on THE TRIBUNE'S Fox River Valley Experimental farm. Galloping steers, shrill yelling, blinding clouds of dust, and a lot of excitement. All that was lacking for this show was a couple of buckaroos with leather chaps and prancing cow ponies.

The occasion for this stampede was the turning out of 141 yearlings from the cattle yard into the fields where they can pick up some cornstalks and exercise their legs. It was sort of a spring "coming out" party for the stock and the way they went through the gate of the cattle yard on a dead gallop provided quite a dramatic picture. They were in such fine fettle at the prospect of getting into the field that they nearly took the gate and the fence with them.

Clarence Thurow, the farm manager, is going to plough under the cornstalks left in the field where the yearlings now are enjoying themselves. However, before the plowing schedule starts he figured that the yearlings might just as well go through the field and pick up what food is left. Sleezer and Johnson were not on the farm when the thundering herd left the cattle yard. When they returned from their work on the other side of the farm and saw no steers in the yard they certainly received a shock, thinking that the stock had broken out of the yard.

One domestic animal on the farm thoroughly enjoyed this cattle stampede. This was Sea King, the saddle horse. Sleezer saddled old Sea King and rode him to drive all the yearlings back into the cattle yard. The horse put on his cow pony act in great style.

The frost is leaving the ground. The boys who are hauling fertilizer to the fields and the loads of straw which are used for bedding are the best judges of this thawing process. Their horses and wagons are making quite an impression in the ground when they travel over the farm.

Frost leaving the ground, a big cock pheasant confidently strutting around near the house, a flock of blackbirds swinging into a tree not far from the house, and the yearlings galloping around to work off their spring fever—these are just a few of the interesting indicators that the new season is crowding into the farm program.

The turkeys have developed the old vagabond spirit that comes with the near approach of spring. For the first time this year the flock of 21 checked out of the barnyard for a stroll in the woods. Rawlings saw them put on their spring parade this morning, with the old gobblers handing out no end of sales talk on the pleasures of going for a spring stroll. The Muscovy ducks are beginning to fuss around with nests and giving indications that they are going to start housekeeping for the 1934 season. So far only a few eggs have been laid, however.

Tragedy came to the sheepfold this morning. One newly born lamb was trampled so severely by the ewes that it died. It was one of the pet lambs being fed from a bottle. When you look at the number of lambs in the sheepfold and see the careless manner in which the old ewes stalk around without any regard for the babies that are lying down, it's a wonder more lambs are not injured. And the lambs are still coming. Ten singles and five pairs of twins arrived in the last 12 hours.

ITALY READY TO TRADE WINE AND SILK FOR U. S. COTTON, MOVIES

ROME, March 16.—An exchange of Italian wine and silk for American cotton and films was suggested by experts today as a possible basis for an increase in trade between the two countries.

There are few points of barter, however, which Italy will permit, because Premier Mussolini is rigorously protecting mechanical and farm industries from foreign competition. Italy is struggling to keep its automobile industry on a profitable basis. Unless tariff walls are kept up that industry will collapse, because Italian machines cannot compete with American cars on a straight price basis.

The Italian silk industry has been hard hit by Japanese competition. Undersecretary Alberto Asquini of the corporations department said the entire Italian production for the present season was held in home warehouses because it was impossible to market it abroad except at a loss.

Premier Mussolini wants to stimulate the development of the Italian motion picture industry, and foreign films are restricted. However, the Italian industry shows little tendency to respond efficiently to this protective measure, and it is felt that in the interest of other practical agreements the government might grant concessions to American film companies.

PROTESTS PLAN FOR WASHINGTON BLVD. WIDENING

A protest against the proposed widening of Washington boulevard between Cicero and Crawford avenues was made yesterday in a report by the streets and public safety committee of the City Club of Chicago. The report recommended an extension of the one-way street system west of Garfield park as a better means of traffic relief.

"The principle of the one-way street," the report stated, "as it now exists east of Garfield Park is a better means of traffic relief than the widening of Washington boulevard, and the committee believes that every effort should be made to extend such a system west of Garfield park without delay.

"If the state is determined to proceed with the widening now, with the hope that the widened roadway will improve traffic conditions during the World's Fair, then we urge the state highway department to construct pedestrian underpasses at all intersections where school children would have to cross Washington boulevard."

FLYER RESCUES AUTO RACER IN WILDS OF AFRICA

CAPE TOWN, South Africa, March 16.—(AP)—Sir Malcolm Campbell, noted automobile racing driver, was rescued by his pilot today after being stranded for 40 hours in a desert of southwest Africa, his life endangered by wild animals.

Halfway on a 250-mile flight to Walfish bay from the Kalahari desert, where they had been prospecting for gold, Campbell and his pilot, Fulford, were forced down by a damaged propeller. To minimize the risk, Fulford flew alone to Luderitz for repairs and was unable to return for Campbell for nearly two days.

Finding leopard's spoors, Campbell decided to spend the night on top of a hillock. He suffered from intense cold and as he dozed suddenly hear an animal sniffing near him. Jumping to his feet, Campbell flashed a torch into a pair of glaring eyes, scaring off the intruder. Sir Malcolm had no food and little water.

SOUTH AMERICA ACTS TO SET UP TRADE ALLIANCE

Continental Customs Union Aim of States.

BY NORMAN INGREY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SANTIAGO, Chile, March 16.—Another and a more important step towards the goal of a South American economic alliance was registered at the first conference of continental chambers of commerce which met recently in Valparaiso.

Whether or not the United States is associated with the newly developing policy will depend a good deal on Washington initiative. Nevertheless, it was indicated that the Latin-American traders are more friendly disposed towards the United States by the ringing cheers for President Roosevelt's reciprocal trade overtures. The 200 delegates also hailed Secretary of State Cordell Hull as a friend pledged to remove trade barriers in the Americas.

Continental Customs Union.

It is considered that the conference of chambers of commerce will be the starting point of many trade treaties. These negotiations must inevitably lead up to the realization of the aspiration common to all—a continental customs union.

A resolution was passed to form a confederation of all the Latin-American chambers of commerce, with a permanent seat in Valparaiso. Its principal aim will be to expedite such a customs union, first of all by bilateral commercial treaties, secondly by regional agreements and finally, by interlocking pacts.

The conference decision was unanimous. It was also significant because it was taken by business men who had the blessings of their respective governments. They also were free from any commitments to political nationalism. Every Latin state on the continent, including Mexico and Central American countries, sent representatives from their various chambers of commerce. In some cases foreign citizens were intrusted to lead the delegations. Panama, for instance, was represented by Rea Hanna of Chicago.

Will Coördinate Work.

The federal organization will coördinate the work of all Latin-American chambers of commerce. It will propagate information throughout the continent and arbitrate all problems submitted to it by constituent bodies. But its main work—always keeping in view the ultimate goal of the customs union—will be to "introduce liberalism" in the nationalist and protectionist policies of Latin-American states and break down tariff barriers.

The "most favored nation" clause, which was much debated, provoked a conference resolution. It said that the "most favored nation treatment" should only be given in return for the same equivalent of facilities, "and the third country that may desire to share the privileges should be asked for the same concessions and sacrifices in order to obtain them."

The Latin-Americans plunged into self-criticism by declaring that many of their own countries had launched into national industries which restricted intertrading among the Americas. They passed a resolution that every nation should have the chance to develop its own industries, "but always on the understanding that these correspond to new and effective means of production. Interchange ought to be on the basis of concession of facilities only for the products which the people obtain in an easy and natural manner."

Speaks on Economics.

This resolution was indorsed by Foreign Minister Miguel Cruchaga, who closed the conference with a speech on economics. His indorsement is considered to have outlined the theory which in the future will be the spirit animating Latin-American governments in considering petitions so frequently presented asking for the protection of industries that have no economic justification.

In effect he admitted that the price to the general public of an imported article should not be raised to prohibitive figures in order that a handful of enterprising company promoters, shouting nationalist slogans, should be in a position to create an industry that is artificial from start to finish.

Chambers of commerce in South America, as is usually the case in the United States, are devoid of political affiliations. At the same time they exert much influence on the trade policies of their governments. Where there is a central chamber, as in most Latin-American states, the influence is formidable. It is for this reason that international attention has been attracted to their decisions.

The newly established confederation, wisely directed, may be of incalculable importance for the future development of inter-American commercial relations. It also may be an invaluable medium through which the governments in the respective countries can ascertain the trend of opinion among the business men and manufacturers of the continent.

BYRD CAMERAMAN OPERATED UPON AFTER CAMP FIRE

LITTLE AMERICA, Antarctica, March 16.—(AP)—[By Mackay Radio.]—A fire damaged the administration building of the Byrd antarctic expedition today and a few hours later an appendectomy was performed upon Joseph A. Peiter, United States naval aerial cameraman.

The gasoline tank in the shaft of the building caught fire. Four members of the expedition put out the blaze and rescued the surgical instruments of Dr. Louis H. Potaka, which were in a crate under the flaming tank.

This quick action probably saved Peiter's life. When the operation was performed by Dr. Potaka it was discovered that a rupture of the appendix would have occurred in a short time. Peiter is expected to recover, but the intense cold will slow up the recovery, the physician said.

GOVERNMENT AND THE COMMUNICATIONS.

In more reasonable times government would be required to make a compelling show of public necessity and benefit before it would be granted consideration for bills bringing all communications under federal regulation or, as may prove to be the aim, management. The public good represented seems nowhere a compensation for the disadvantages inherent in governmental control or management and the retardation or breakdown experienced by any activity transferred from private to public hands.

When federal management of coal mines is proposed the proposal branches from the collapse of the industry. In this case it is argued that the feuds of private management have produced a condition intolerable to both capital and labor. Even then the conclusion that government management is the only remedy is mere socialistic formula. In the case of the communications a collapsed enterprise is not involved. The federal government finds little material to make out a case for itself.

It does not help the government side that just when hearings on the Dill bill are begun in the senate the railroads should be making their annual reports to the interstate commerce commission. These reports restate the fact that the railroads under the control of such a commission as is proposed for other communications show only losses. Many meet their interest charges by borrowing from the government. They do not pay dividends. The people whose money is invested in rails have lost their income. The government has reduced these great properties to despair, making it virtually certain that a depression would almost ruin them.

The wire communications, although not free from political regulation in the states, have been wisely managed, have kept their solvency, have paid returns to their hundreds of thousands of stockholders, have improved their service, and are sound. Before the challenge of these facts the government proposals seem absurd unless they have obscured reasons. Seizure of communications as a step in the advance of the socialized state would have its place in a national program. Its object would be the suppression of private industry and finally the destruction of capitalism. Some of the New Dealers intimate that such is the ultimate purpose of the planned society. They may now have unusual influence upon events, but they cannot show any electoral credentials for their authority or their plans.

ANOTHER NOBLE EXPERIMENT.

Officials of the Agricultural Adjustment administration in Washington are said to be preparing to obtain injunctions to forbid any proved violator of the Chicago milk marketing agreement from continuing in business. What a "proved violator" is was not made clear. Presumably it is a person found guilty in a hearing such as is now being accorded Mr. Lloyd Shissler, a dairyman in Lombard and Cicero.

This hearing is being conducted by an attorney for the AAA. Other attorneys for the AAA are prosecutors. The complainant is the administrator for the Chicago milk shed who is more or less indebted to the AAA for his job. There appears to be a certain identity of interest between judge, complainant, and prosecutor, but, in spite of that fact, Mr. Shissler will be a "proved violator" if this star-chamber court adjudges him so.

Thereupon, it now develops, the AAA proposes to go into court to obtain an injunction, intended to throw Mr. Shissler out of business. If he violates the injunction he goes to jail for contempt of court. If he obeys the injunction he has been fined the full value of his business as a going concern. The AAA spokesman says "such an injunction could be obtained within a few hours." That suggests pretty plainly that the AAA lawyers do not expect the court to inquire into the facts regarding Mr. Shissler's business but to accept the findings of the star-chamber as the product of a fair and impartial inquiry.

At no point, it seems, will Mr. Shissler have a jury trial. The government in this matter, as in the prohibition cases, avoids jury trials because it knows the chances of success before a jury are not particularly good. It will be difficult to convince a jury that Mr. Shissler has done anything which justifies jailing him or fining him the full value of his business, assuming for the moment that everything the government contends about him is true.

Mr. Shissler's offense, it appears, lay in buying milk in Walworth, Wis., on terms which the government disapproves. It was good milk and the farmers were well satisfied with the price. So was Mr. Shissler or he wouldn't have bought. So were Mr. Shissler's customers or they wouldn't have bought from him. The chances are that a common-sense jury would laugh the government's case out of court precisely as juries refused to convict in prohibition prosecutions.

After the experience of recent years the government ought to know that a law which has to be enforced by injunction or not at all is not going to be enforced. The fact that juries will not convict the offenders is merely an indication that the citizens generally do not regard the alleged offense as an offense. Therefore they will violate the government's prohibitions with a clear conscience. Apparently we must go through the painful experience of the prohibition years all over again before the government abandons the newest of the noble experiments.

MURDER AND THE LAW.

A man employed in the CWA took a day off last January. He wanted some capital to start a chicken farm and his idea was to procure it by killing his wife and his two children for their insurance, amounting to $600.

He was suspected, examined, and confessed to this amiable enterprise, and the other day on a plea of guilty was sentenced by one of our judges to a life term in the penitentiary.

The criminal code of Illinois fixes for murder the penalty of death, imprisonment for life, or for a term not less than 14 years. If conviction is by jury, the jury is to fix the penalty. On a plea of guilty the judge has that responsibility. In this case the defendant was guilty of murder of atrocious character. He is either insane in the legal sense or a brute of the most vicious nature. If he is legally insane he should be so found and sent to an institution for the criminal insane. We do not think that is the best disposition of dangerous and incurable madmen, but it is the law. If he is not insane he deserved the extreme penalty if any criminal has deserved it. Why was he given the lesser penalty—to be supported for the remainder of his life at public expense; perhaps to escape, a threat to public safety; perhaps to be pardoned or paroled as other murderers have been?

It is suggested that a plea of guilty, saving the trouble, expense and uncertainty of a trial, disposes the state's representatives, prosecutors, judges, or juries, to leniency. We can conceive of circumstances in which it might be justified, but we cannot think this case offers an example. On the contrary, it seems to us an instance of a rule or custom seriously misapplied. At best the rule, if it is a rule, is more than dubious, both in law and policy. Justice in bargaining with gross offenders is degraded. The way is opened to grave abuses. Criminality is encouraged through finding a means of evading condign punishment. Certainly the saving of money to the state or of trouble to its agents is not a consideration which ought to influence the discretion granted the representatives of the law in the fixing of punishment for serious crime.

If there were more compelling reasons for leniency in this case, they have not been disclosed to the public and should be, for the facts do not justify it from the viewpoint either of public policy or of justice.

TRADE TREATIES.

THE TRIBUNE is as anxious to foster the foreign trade of the United States as any citizen, as has been demonstrated. But it does not believe there is anything in present circumstances which justifies a surrender by congress of its share in the making of treaties. As in other proposals for the enlargement of executive powers, this surrender is asked in the name of emergency. We agree that the sooner our foreign trade is revived the better and to that end new agreements should be negotiated and put into effect as expeditiously as is consistent with careful consideration of all interests concerned. But we are not so confident of the infallibility or even the superiority of the executive branch of government at this or any other time as to favor the abandonment of the cooperation of congress, which, faulty and sometimes tardy as it is, has been on the whole conducive to the progress and prosperity of the country.

The objection to congressional participation or check is chiefly based on logrolling. But this evil is neither inevitable nor uncontrolable. The President has an immense influence at this time. The Democratic party is in control of both houses of congress. It is explicitly pledged to tariff revision. If the state department presents to congress a trade treaty which has been skilfully negotiated and which represents sound action in the general interest of our commerce, the President and his party organization in congress are or ought to be able to bring about its ratification in spite of the propensity of congressmen to logroll.

The nation has invested the executive and his party with ample power and with it goes responsibility to take timely action in the national interest. There is no excuse in existing circumstances for evading this responsibility. If the state department will perform its duty promptly and efficiently the desirable trade arrangements will be secured unless the Democratic organization of congress refuses to do its duty.

Editorial of the Day

DEARLY WON, EASILY LOST.

[Grand Rapids Herald.]

It would be well if the American people would ponder this statement by Stanley Baldwin, one of the greatest of contemporary British statesmen:

On the contrary, the liberties which we, in this country, as well as the people of Mr. Baldwin's land, enjoy were won at the cost of hundreds of thousands of lives on innumerable battlefields.

We accept certain rights as the commonplace heritage of all Americans, giving little heed to their history or their value.

To appreciate at what cost they were won we must go far back into history: to the rebellion of the serfs and the slaves, the revolts against feudalism, the reluctant relinquishment of crown absolutism by King John in the Magna Charta, the Boston tea party, the American war of independence, the French reign of terror, etc., etc.

There was a day when a man's life was the property of his sovereign, to be taken at will. There was a day when only the few ruled; all others were vassals.

Slowly in bloody struggles, fought wherever man aspired to liberty, the rights which freemen today enjoy were gained. Our ancestors who bled to win them were appreciative. We, who came by these privileges through inheritance, undervalue them.

But we have seen recently in Italy, Germany, Russia and Austria how suddenly the fruits of great martyrdom may be snatched away. In Italy, Germany and Russia today there are secret groups of patriots contriving and conniving to win back the rights of free speech and free press. This country, in which these dearly won privileges still endure, should take heed.

Rights may be lost in a single day by the stroke of a dictator's pen that can be regained only by long years of sacrificial strife.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

"NEW PRESIDENT of University of Illinois Never Played Golf."—Headline. Then how come he is the new president of the University of Illinois? Nobody, so we've been told and are told every day, ever rises to greatness these days or amounts to a whoop down the rain barrel if he doesn't play golf. The first time some hitherto unknown person gets elected anything from dog pelter to boss of a seven billion dollar dill pickle factory the newspapers print pictures of him in plus fours or minus threes standing in the middle of a golf links waving his favorite club, and they tell what a demon he is on the greens and how he can beat Bogey with his eyes shut and his hands tied behind him.

And then the great man in his first interview always says (the newspapers keep it ready at all times on the standing galley): "My only recreation is golf. That noble game takes me out in the open every day drinking deep of the pure ozone of the fields and woods and jumping gayly over the springy turf like a young African rhinoceros (or would that be an ibex?). I owe it to this fact that I am in such splendid physical condition today that I feel as though I were only twelve years old. Although of course I am older than that. Ha, ha! Have a cigar. Yes, dear friends, golf has made me what I am today and has given me the proud position to which I have been chosen. If you will now pardon me I will run over to the Jock o' the Heather club and go around in a manner that will make Bobby Jones so ashamed of himself he'll never play anything but dominoes in the future." And yet the new president of the University of Illinois never played golf! It is simply unbelievable, that's all!

ORIGIN OF THE BAGPIPES.

In Innisfail they tell the tale
Of how Lord Ullin's daughter
By fate so cruel lost Finn MacCoul,
Her lover, in war's slaughter.

The men of Erse, his followers,
At this were faint and shaken,
And sore distraught the maiden thought
Their courage new to waken.

And made of him a bladder;
And strong and fair (though full of air)
Again they saw their leader!

But still the darts pierced all his parts,
The arrows Finn did puncture;
And all seemed lost at fearful cost—
Until, at this sad juncture,

O'er the grumed sward up rushed a bard,
And lips to his flute shaping,
He fierce blew back that air, alack,
So mightly escaping!

Ensued such sound, that battleground
Was stilled by notes so rare,
Only a loon and a gossoon
Could hold such duet there.

Such melody on land or sea
All never heard before—
And thus that morn were bagpipes born
To skirl Finn evermore!

TERRY.

IT'S ALL WELL ENOUGH to halt army air mail flying until the flying officers are given blind equipments, BUT why not have this same blind flying equipment sent to the members of the brain trust down in Washington? It ought to help 'em a lot, and gosh! how they need it; they do so much flying in fogs and over uncharted courses.

STOP! Likewise pipe down, cease and desist if you are giving the Bronx cheer and the raucous raspberry to Greece because she, with all her traditions of Achilles, Xerxes, Darius, Alexander the Great, Hector, and Priam, to say nothing of Leonidas at Thermopylæ, let Sam Insull escape from them. For if you say "Ha, ha, ha!" at Greece, then Greece may turn upon you and retort: "Yes, but Sam didn't get any of our money; he paid for everything he got from us. And how. And we didn't buy any of his bonds." And when Greece comes back like that, what to do? Talk about your most embarrassing moments. Honestly, dear Embarrassing Moments Editor, I never felt so shame-faced in my life. You cudda knocked me down with a feather.

"DOCTORS SAY Possible to Breed Race Free of Disease."—Headline. Somebody is always taking the joy out of life. If nobody has any kind or form of human ailment, then how can Mrs. Slubgush entertain the dinner party with a graphic recital of her last appendicitis operation or Mr. Luvtocroak tell with dramatic details how the docs amputated his pet bunion right in the middle of his big toe? Oh, goodness! If we can't talk about our operations it's going to be a dull world.

TO PRAISE SEEKERS.

(Would-be poets included.)

What should I say to you,
Who come with empty hands
And beg of me to say:
"I know he understands"?
Let winds lash-red your face,
And let your coat be torn
By the nail in the fence,
The quick-weed and the thorn!

What need then of my words
When both your hands are full
Of roses cruelly red
And wildly beautiful?

VERY YOUNG BABIES.

BABIES more than six months old are reasonably healthy. The difficulty we are now having relates principally to the very young babies. If ways can be worked out and applied for getting the baby through the prenatal period, through the crises of birth, and then through the first two weeks of life the chances to escape the hazards of early infancy will be greatly lessened.

Since the prenatal and birth periods are those of greatest danger the procedures for the protection of young baby life largely relate to the mother. Three are in somewhat general use, though far from being on a fully satisfactory basis. One is to protect the mother and baby against the toxemias of pregnancy going by such names as pernicious vomiting of pregnancy, puerperal convulsions, puerperal coma, high blood pressure, and acute nephritis of pregnancy. This condition is very dangerous to both mother and child.

The second is protection against inherited syphilis by means of blood testing and treatment when that is found necessary. The third is good obstetric care. A fourth is addition to the mother's diet of vitamin B complex foods, in order that the mother may have an abundant supply of milk, and in order that the baby may come into the world endowed with enough vigor to make him hold on.

In order to accomplish the first of these purposes the mother, her family, and her physician must be alert during the antenatal period. There should be systematic weighing, taking of blood pressure, and urinalyses. Undue gain in weight, increase in blood pressure, or the presence of albuminuria must be regarded as warning signs. Morning nausea, within limits, may be inescapable, but it should be watched and if it becomes severe it is to be treated as a warning of conditions that threaten both mother and child. Excess salivation, vomiting, swelling of the feet, and cramps are also signposts that are not to be disregarded.

Dr. G. W. Theobald considers mineral deficiencies as prominent causes of the toxemia of pregnancy. Of these, lime deficiency is ranked first. To prevent it, he favors giving pregnant women foods rich in lime. Among such are milk, cheese, cottage cheese, butter, and whole grains. In addition he gives lime as a medicine either by mouth or by injections. He advocates injections of gluconate of lime deep into the muscles during the thirty-second and the thirty-sixth week, of pregnancy.

Many pregnant women need an extra supply of iodine for themselves and their babies. This is supplied by adding sea food to the diet or by giving iodized salt where and when salt is used on food. Many pregnant women need iron. This he supplies by giving them yellow of egg and spinach. He frequently gives iron pills in addition.

Some pregnant women eat too much meat. He has his patients limit themselves to meat once a day, preferably at the noon meal. He thinks fish is better than other forms of meat. The effort should be to feed pregnant women with a well balanced, common sense diet consisting of plain foods. There should be plenty of vitamins and vitamin-rich foods, yeast and whole grains for B, milk for A and D, and cod liver oil and good vegetables and fruits for C.

FOR INGROWN NAILS.

E. L. P. writes: May I tell one? This is for your perpetual parade of ingrowing toe nailers.

Apply a piece of heavy chiropodist's plaster [or three layers of moleskin] about an inch square to the side and top of the toe, extending from the first joint back to the foot. This will lift the pressure and the relief is immediate and positive.

WOOD CHOPPING.

Mrs. V. S. writes: My husband and I have had an argument concerning women chopping wood. He says that it doesn't harm a woman in any way and that we women do not get enough of that kind of exercise.

When I chop wood I get a pain in my back. Therefore, I claim it is too strenuous for me. I am the mother of two children aged 2½ and 5 years, and I am 26 years old.

REPLY.

Women make pretty good wood choppers and of those few who undertake it some stand it well.

SETTLING ESTATE.

Chicago, March 14.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Can a deficiency judgment rendered against a husband's estate, in Iowa, be collected from the widow's estate when her entire estate consists of insurance money she received upon her husband's decease? 2. How much time is allowed in which to settle or probate an estate in Iowa? 3. A holds a mortgage on property in Iowa, upon which B holds a second or junior mortgage. Upon A's death, if new notes, taking the place of the original mortgage, are given to A's heirs, does B's mortgage take precedence or do the new notes still have the prior claim? 4. Would the same hold true if B's claim was a judgment? 5. If this mortgage was for a period of five years, only two having elapsed, would the heirs, to protect their rights, have to secure new notes made to them before the end of the probation period? 6. If this is not done will the heirs become guilty of laches? S. N. W.

1. Not if she was named as beneficiary in the policies as distinguished from taking the money as an heir from her husband's estate.

RELATIONSHIP.

Chicago, March 12.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Can you tell me the relationship of a boy and a girl whose fathers are half brothers? This girl and boy have the same grandfather but different grandmothers. 2. Could this boy and girl be married in Chicago? If not, [3] what is the closest state in which they could be married? T. A.

1. We might call them half-cousins, but obviously this would not indicate at what point the half-relationship occurred. The description that you use is more accurate and hence for most purposes would be more satisfactory.
2. In our opinion they could, although the point is open to question. Section 1 of the Illinois statute relating to marriage provides that "marriages between . . . brothers and sisters of the half as well as the whole blood . . . and between cousins of the first degree are declared to be incestuous and void." In view of the fact that the half blood is mentioned in the case of the brothers and sisters and not in the case of first cousins, we would draw the inference that the relationship described in your letter is not within the statutory prohibition.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN.—None of the 900 laws and decrees promulgated by the Hitler government since it assumed power has proved more popular than the law providing loans for needy couples desiring to marry.

So numerous were the applications for marriage loans that the grants to newlyweds had to be suspended until the end of March. The "more marriages-more children campaign" will be launched with renewed vigor this spring. It is planned to finance 250,000 more marriages until March, 1935.

When the marriage loans were started in August, 1933, it was intended to finance 20,000 couples a month. In February of this year it was found that about 200,000, or an average of more than 30,000 couples a month, had made use of the loans.

Each couple received a loan averaging $240. This exceeded the available funds which are provided by bachelors and spinsters, who are compelled to pay a heavy extra tax to finance the loans.

The labor ministry claims that, through the loans, jobs were provided for 350,000 men, mainly in the housing and furniture industries. Most orders were placed with small firms. Department stores were barred.

The couples, the Voelkische Beobachter asserts, while buying only the absolutely necessary pieces of furniture and household utensils, insisted on good quality. Thus the average sum spent for bedroom furniture amounts to $160 to $240.

The newlyweds also are entitled to buy radio sets with the loans. The Nazi government want every household to have a radio in order to hear the Nazi propaganda. An $18 set was introduced and 700,000 were sold in a few months.

Seventy per cent of the loans were granted to couples from the working class. The remaining 30 per cent went to employés and civil servants with small salaries.

Private employers also have been encouraged to grant bonuses to women employés who are willing to marry so that their jobs may be taken by unemployed men.

Meanwhile the government and the press continue to warn Germans of the dark fate awaiting them if the birth rate is not raised.

"The woman who fills the cradles is mightier than all armies in the world," the military periodical Knowledge and Defense said in an article entitled "Conscription and Preparedness for Defense in the German History."

This article contained a table of figures showing that in 20 years Germany will have lost her numerical superiority in Europe unless the birth rate rises. In 1932, the figures disclose, 504,000 males attained the age of 20. If the birth rate continues to drop as in recent years, this figure will decline to 292,000 in 1952, the article said.

On the other hand, 239,000 young Frenchmen became 20 years of age in 1932. Twenty years hence this figure will have dropped to only 220,000. The respective figures for Italy are 303,000 and 266,000; for Poland, 280,000 and 244,000, and for Belgium, 51,000 and 44,000.

COSTS IN THE MUNICIPAL COURT.

Chicago, March 14.—Replying to Julius Miller's letter dated March 6 with reference to the increased costs in the Municipal court of Chicago: There is much to be said on both sides of the question.

In justice to the poor litigants, this court should be operated as it was intended—at the lowest possible expense to the poor.

In justice to the taxpayers, the court should operate on a self-sustaining basis, if possible, and should not be permitted to become a burden to the taxpayer.

The record, however, shows that this court has been on a self-sustaining basis only one year of its existence. That year there were two of the associate judges—Asa Adams and Henry M. Walker—sitting in the so-called police branches of this court. The judges invariably taxed the costs against the defendants when they were found to be guilty. That one year, according to ex-Chief Justice Harry Olson, the Municipal court was not only self-sustaining, but earned a profit of $23,000, which was turned over to the city treasurer.

The general practice of most of the associate judges when sitting in the so-called police branches of the court is to impose fines where the defendant is found to be guilty and waive the payment of costs. This practice throws almost the entire burden of the police courts upon either the civil branches of the court or the taxpayers, as it creates a deficit in the operation of the entire court, now amounting to more than $1,000,000 per year. This deficit must be made up either by an increase cost taxed in the civil branches or by the taxpayer.

If the judges sitting in the police branches of the court would assess costs in all cases where the defendant is found guilty there would be no need of raising the costs in the civil branches of the court. Furthermore, there is no good reason for waiving the costs for those found guilty.

The increase of costs in the civil branches of the court amounts to a substantial denial of justice to the poor and the small business men whose accounts are small. These should not be compelled to suffer in the interest of law violators, who by their law violation make necessary the operation of our police courts and rarely pay the costs of the case.

HENRY M. WALKER.

A BOUQUET FOR GENO.

Chicago, March 9.—Please know how much I appreciate the broadcasts and the articles written by Genevieve Forbes Herrick from Washington, D. C. There is a rare charm about her broadcasts showing Washington as a real place where folks live just as we do. Many people whom I meet express themselves in like manner. ANNA DWYER, M. D.

THE KING CAN DO NO WRONG.

Rockford, Ill., March 7.—There seems to be a growing tendency amongst many of our people to place the present chief executive in a position apart from the rest of the administration at Washington. This tendency is very apparent in the remarks of C. Wayland Brooks, made during his speech at the Republican rally in Chicago last Monday evening. It is a feeble attempt to have us believe that we can criticize some of the machinations of that fertile brain trust with which the President has surrounded himself without an iota of criticism falling upon the White House incumbent himself.

The above tendency has its origin, no doubt, in the inherent desire of every American to stand by the President. However, there should be no place in this republic for the recrudescence of the old monarchical idea that no matter what the errors and blunders of his advisers, "the king can do no wrong." Regardless of personal appeal or popular esteem, all of our officials are, after all, American citizens elected or appointed from our own ranks.

Millions of Americans would like to stand by this modern President with his modern idea of a new nation to be reborn under a modern Blue Eagle with its left wing socialist and its right wing radical. But these same millions are loath to give up the old American eagle under whose protecting wings [the Declaration of Independence its left and the constitution its right] this nation has grown to be the greatest in the world. These same millions hate to haul down the old flag and all it symbolized of liberty and freedom of thought and action. Yes, real American individualism. They hate to run up in its pace a banner with a Blue Eagle or even a yellow buzzard as the emblem of abject surrender to what seems to be a fast growing socialistic despotism. N. E. BLISS.

NOTHING YET VISIBLE.

Chicago, March 14.—Gen. Johnson said over the radio last week, while defending the NRA, "You ain't seen nuthin' yet," and surely spoke the truth—more than he intended perhaps. Except for a slight stimulation of retail sales from the millions disbursed by the government through various channels, we really "ain't seen nuthin' yet."

We hope that the general gives credit to the American people for their patience as they await the promised results from the New Deal. In the meantime we are fortunate in having THE TRIBUNE, the one paper which never fails to speak up in meeting. DAVID P. MCLELLAND.

MAYOR ORDERS N. Y. CITY OWNED FIRETRAPS RAZED

Many Private Owners Are Ready to Sell.

New York, March 16.—[Special.]—The largest owner of tenements in the city is the city itself, with about 400 buildings, many of them firetraps, which it has acquired through condemnation proceedings, Langdon W. Post, tenement house commissioner, revealed today.

About half of these buildings are occupied, Mr. Post estimated. All are held in charge of the real estate division of the finance department.

When he found that the city itself was one of the worst offenders so far as ownership of firetrap and insanitary tenements are concerned, Mr. Post said, he went to Mayor F. H. La Guardia and laid the situation before him. The mayor told him: "Let's beam 'em down."

Ignore Notices to Vacate.

City owned buildings which violate the law will not be repaired, but will be demolished, Mr. Post declared. He was unable to say how many of the tenements were occupied or how many families lived in them. The finance department has made efforts to clear many of the buildings, but has not been successful, he said, since notices to vacate have been ignored by most of the tenants.

The movement by owners of tenements to offer their buildings to the city at prices below the assessed valuation gained impetus today. At least fifty such offers were received.

What Mr. Post characterized as by far the most important offer came from an unnamed owner who agreed to sell a tenement block at less than $4 a square foot.

Astor Offers to Sell to City.

Vincent Astor has offered to sell his 38 tenement properties on the lower east side on the basis of land values alone, which were assessed at $600,000.

Stuyvesant Fish offered to coöperate with the city in slum clearance on the same basis as Astor.

Virtually all old law tenements are fire traps, even those whose owners have complied with every requirement of that law, Lawson Purdy, controler of the Trinity Church corporation, said.

Mr. Purdy said Trinity church owned 15 old law tenements, but they would not be offered to the city because the district is not suitable for anything except business buildings.

YOUTH ADMITS HE MADE BOMB USED IN ST. PETER'S

ROME, March 16.—(AP)—The trial of three anti-Fascist terrorists, charged with attempting to murder Premier Mussolini and with bombing St. Peter's cathedral on June 25, 1933, was adjourned until Tuesday after a long period of questioning today.

One of the accused asserted that the plot was inspired by efforts to prove that "all liberal Italians were not asleep."

Claudio Cianca, the youngest of the three, admitted he made the bomb which wounded four persons in the basilica. He said the bombing was done because "of the world importance which could be expected to be attributed to such an explosion."

The three on trial are Leonardo Bucciglione, Renato Cianca, and his son, Claudio. A fourth person is charged with conspiracy in connection with the plot, and charges still stand against three others who are outside the jurisdiction of the Italian government.

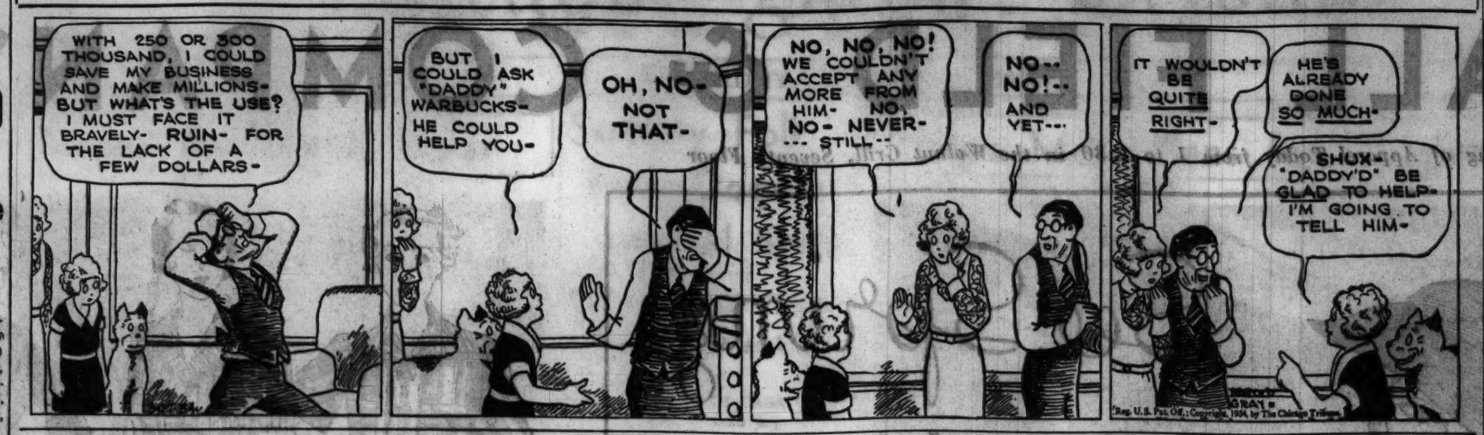
LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: A Convincing Performance



NEW WILLS FILED IN PROBATE COURT

Three wills were admitted to probate and filed yesterday with Mitchell C. Robin, clerk of the Probate court. The wills are those of:

RAYMOND A. RAILTON, died March 11. Estate, $95,000; to widow and executrix, Mabelle Railton.

SIMON RYAN, died March 4. Estate, $40,000; to widow, two sons, and three daughters. Michael J. Bransfield, executor.

FRANCIZEK ANTECKI, died Dec. 29, 1933. Estate, $12,500; to two nieces, grandnephew, cousin, and two grandnieces. Eleanora Paradzinski, niece, executrix.

POLICEMAN SHOT AS BANDITS CRASH CAR AND ESCAPE

Five bandits, escaping from a robbery, wrecked their automobile at Madison and Aberdeen streets yesterday and then engaged in a gun battle with two motorcycle policemen who had pursued them. One policeman was wounded and the bandits escaped on foot, apparently unhurt.

Policeman Emil Budka, 36 years old, 4815 Kamerling avenue, was taken to the county hospital with a bullet in his arm. He and his partner, Dennis Wieck, had chased the bandits who had just held up employés in the offices of the Chicago Thrift company, manufacturers of savings banks, 1215 Washington boulevard, and seized a $1,300 pay roll.

After wrecking their car the bandits fled into an alley as the policemen opened fire. The fire was returned and Policeman Budka was wounded. Policeman Wieck kept up the pursuit through alleys until he lost the gunmen several blocks away.

FARR SEES CITY GOVERNMENTS FORGING AHEAD

Newton C. Farr, chairman of the executive committee of the Chicago Recovery administration, told the Woman's City club yesterday that the local governments have ceased to slip behind in salary and other obligations. They are forging ahead now, Mr. Farr said, but he added the belief that amendment of the revenue article of the Illinois constitution to permit a state income tax is necessary to help the governments to pay their bills and at the same time to give real estate a needed respite from taxation burdens.

In discussing the CRA's major work of advising on taxation and budget problems Mr. Farr urged approval of the proposal to consolidate all the Chicago park districts, which will be submitted to the voters April 10.

The principal requirement today, declared Mr. Farr, is that all governments live within their means. He said the board of education budget cuts last year were necessary.

MOTHER OF TWO IS KILLED AS CAR HITS FARM TRUCK

Driver Crashes Train; One City Death.

Mrs. Goldie Craine, 25 years old, 1520 South Komensky avenue, a mother of two children who had been separated from her husband, was killed early yesterday as the car in which she was returning with a man from a Geneva roadhouse crashed into a truck loaded with cattle at Roosevelt and York roads, south of Elmhurst. The woman's companion, W. H. Prestly, 41, of Bellwood, suffered lacerations and was treated at the Elmhurst hospital.

Merrill Gilbert of Polo, Ill., driver of the truck which was being taken to the Chicago stockyards, told police that he had parked on the road because it was too early to deliver the cattle.

Runs Into Train.

Leo F. Murray, 33 years old, 946 West Huron street, a salesman, was critically injured last evening when the automobile he was driving on Harlem avenue near 96th street, struck an Indiana Harbor Belt freight train and was wrecked. The car was dragged to 95th street. Willow Springs highway police took Murray to the Little Company of Mary hospital in Evergreen Park where it was said that he may die.

Three Deaths in County.

Three deaths in Cook county raised the total of motor fatalities since Jan. 1 to 250. The victims:

Unidentified man, about 30 years old, believed to be Louis Young, 161 West Delaware place. Killed early today in the outer drive south of Foster avenue when he was struck by a car driven by George Peterson, 7719 North Paulina street, and run over by a car following Peterson's driven by Alfred Rasmussen, 5633 Kenmore avenue. Police believe the accident was unavoidable.

Miss Mary Klink, 52 years old, 5218 South Marshfield avenue. Died early today in the Evangelical hospital. She was injured yesterday at 52d street and Ashland avenue by an automobile driven by Harry Hughes, 35, of 7806 South May street.

William Jackson, colored, 58 years old, 641 East 71st street. Fatally injured when struck by an automobile as he was crossing South Park way at 44th street yesterday. He was taken to the Provident hospital where he died.

The body of a man killed by an automobile Thursday night at Western avenue and Coyne street was identified yesterday as that of John Guzolik, 67 years old, 2524 Coyne street.

LIBRARY IS GIVEN 3,000 BOOKS ON EVE OF CAMPAIGN

Nearly 3,000 books have been given to the Chicago Public library on the eve of the campaign for donations of 50,000 volumes which starts today, Carl B. Roden, librarian, reported last night. Some contributions in lots as large as 200 volumes are coming in, he said.

The book drive will be formally launched at an authors' reception to be held in the G. A. R. memorial hall in the main library under the supervision of the Illinois Woman's Press association. A program of music and talks by writers has been arranged.

Numerous organizations are coöperating with the library in the campaign, Mr. Rodin said. A corps of speakers is carrying the appeal to all parts of the city. Library employés will call for books if donors desire.

Alleged Dysentery Victim Asks $75,000 Damages

Damages totaling $75,000 were asked in a suit filed yesterday in the Circuit court naming Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the board of health, owners of the Auditorium hotel, and Oscar E. Hewitt, commissioner of public works. The suit was filed by John De Luca, 648 South State street, who charged he contracted amebic dysentery while employed in the kitchen of the hotel last fall. The suit alleges that Dr. Bundesen and Commissioner of Public Works Hewitt were negligent in their duties. De Luca asks $25,000 from each defendant.

Chicago Woman Hurt in Car Accident in the South Dies

Memphis, Tenn., March 16.—[Special.]—With her spinal column severed as the result of an automobile accident April 28, Mrs. William P. Doud, 40 years old, wife of a Chicago chemical manufacturer, residing at 6930 Greenwood avenue, died tonight at Baptist hospital. Mrs. Doud was injured near Joiner, Ark., when the automobile in which she was riding with Miss Ruth Albrecht, also of Chicago, overturned as the driver tried to avoid a truck.

J. L. Falkenrath, Retired Bank Audit Chief, Dies

John L. Falkenrath, 53 years old, 1221 Greenwood avenue, Blue Island, retired head of the auditing department of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company, was found dead in bed at his home yesterday. Apparently he had died of heart disease. Mr. Falkenthal was retired on a pension by the bank two years ago.

CASHES CHECK; ROBBED OF $30.

Chester Wyka, 20 years old, 3343 South Hoyne avenue, a clerk employed by Armour & Co., was robbed of $30 by two men last night soon after he had cashed his pay check. The holdup occurred on West 34th street, near South Damen avenue.

Alex Borg, Past Leader of Viking Order, Is Dead

Alex Borg, past grand chief of the Independent Order of Vikings, a retired painting contractor, died yesterday in his home at 5349 Ravenswood avenue. His death apparently was caused by heart disease. He was 68 years old. He is survived by a son, Henning Borg, and two daughters, Mrs. Hilda Hagelin and Mrs. Harriet Carlson. Funeral services will be held Monday and burial will be in Rosehill cemetery.

DR. BLACK DROPS DEAD; FINDER OF "PEKING SKULL"

PEIPING, China, March 16.—(AP)—Dr. Davidson Black, noted scientist and authority on the so-called "Peking man," whose explorations led him into many dangers from which he emerged unscathed, died today in the prosaic quiet of his office. Death from heart disease came as he sat at his desk. He was 49 years old. He was born at Toronto, Canada, July 25, 1884.

Dr. Black was professor of anatomy at the Peking Union Medical college and a director in the national geological survey of China. His greatest contributions to the field of anthropology came in his work with the "Peking skull," unearthed in the quarries of Chow Outien, 30 miles from Peiping, late in December, 1929.

Although known as the "Peking man," the skull generally has been accepted as actually that of a woman. Many scientists hailed the find as one of the most important contributions to the study of the evolution of the human race. Shortly after the skull was found Prof. Amadeus W. Grabau asserted that the skull was the nearest approach to the so-called missing link that had ever been unearthed. Roy Chapman Andrews, noted explorer, referred to the skull as the most important discovery in the whole history of human evolution.

MRS. E. L. FISCHER DIES; WITNESSED GREAT 1871 FIRE

Mrs. Elizabeth Lahr Fischer, 83 years old, who witnessed the Chicago fire in 1871, died last evening in her home at 7351 Harvard avenue.

She was born in Poughkeepsie, N. Y., and came to Chicago in 1870, the year before the big fire. She had lived on the south side since then. She was active in affairs of the German Methodist church.

Surviving Mrs. Fischer are eight children. They are Lester H. Fischer, head of THE TRIBUNE insurance department; Mrs. G. H. Olson, John B., Charles H., Frank C., and George A. Fischer; Mrs. Maude Ware and Mrs. H. J. Donohoe. Funeral services for Mrs. Fischer will be held at the home at 2 p. m. Monday. Burial will be in Mount Greenwood cemetery.

Mrs. Katherine Baggiore Dies After Long Illness

Mrs. Katherine Baggiore, 69 years old, a resident of Chicago for the last 14 years, died yesterday at her home at 1054 North Shore avenue after a long illness. Mrs. Baggiore was brought to the United States from Italy when she was 5 years old and lived with her parents in the copper country of northern Michigan. She married Frank Baggiore of Calumet, Mich., on Feb. 13, 1885. She resided in Calumet for 40 years, coming to Chicago with her family in 1920. She is survived by her husband and five sons—Attilio, opera singer, one of radio station W-G-N's featured artists; John, Joseph, William, and Caesar, and two daughters, Mary and Mrs. J. F. Curry, all of Chicago.

Bury Michael J. Teehan, Clothier in Loop, Today

KIDNAPED SON, FATHER REUNITE AFTER 40 YEARS

Meet at Sterling, Ill.; Are Aided by Message.

Sterling, Ill., March 16.—[Special.]—Nothing is so apt to conjure up memories as the name of one's home town. Hearing it brings a flood of reminiscences. So it was with George C. Thompson, 4876 Armitage avenue, who is employed in the Chicago office of the Western Union company and whose duty it is to route messages to every part of the world.

The name "Sterling, Illinois," written across the top of a message which passed through Thompson's hands caused him to remark that he had once lived there when he was a child. Ordinarily, that remark would have been forgotten ten seconds later.

Knows Another Thompson.

In Thompson's case, however, somebody who heard him say he had once lived in Sterling happened to know of another Thompson residing there. He is Charles Thompson, 70 years old.

It seems that one of those "Did you know so-and-so?" questions has led to the discovery that Charles Thompson is the father of George and the two have been reunited after more than 40 years, and today the story of the strange coincidence was told by father and son.

Mother Ran Away.

When George was 4 years old his mother left him and his father. The child was put in the care of his grandmother. He was playing in her yard one day when a strange man enticed him away. A shawl was thrown over his head, he was taken for a ride in a covered buggy and soon he was back with his mother.

In Chicago his mother died two years later. Shortly afterward his leg was severed by a cable car. He was brought up in a "home" never realizing he had any living relatives. He never would have known if he hadn't read "Sterling, Illinois," across the tape of that message.

LIVES IN U. S. 22 YEARS, FACES DEPORTATION

Mrs. Anne Larson, 27 years old, who has been a resident of Waukegan since she was 5, has been ordered by the United States department of immigration deported to Norway, a country of which she was not a native. Her husband, George, is under the same order, and is being held in the Lake county jail awaiting transportation.

Mrs. Larson was born in Finland and was brought to Illinois by her parents. She was married in 1930 to Larson, who had come to the United States from Norway in 1924 by authority of a six months' permit. On their honeymoon they went to Norway and both returned in 1931 on another six months' permit. They have since resided at 927 North Sheridan road, Waukegan.

Attorney Wilfred E. Hall, representing the couple, said he would plead the illegality of the order on the ground that Mrs. Larson should not be compelled to go to Norway; that, if anywhere, she should go to Finland. A number of Waukegan citizens, including Mayor Peter Petersen, have signed a petition, which was forwarded to Congressman James Simpson Jr., requesting that the Larsons be allowed to remain. Larson has a good record as a worker and has never been in any trouble, it was said.

Nazis Forbid Funny Stories About Hitlerite Leaders

GOTHA, Germany, March 16.—(AP)—Orders were issued by the police today that the telling of funny stories about members of the government must cease. Police officials said there had been instances reported where contemptuous remarks were passed about Nazi leaders, and added that persons circulating such stories would be arrested. Most of the jokes now circulating are said to have been traced to the Nazi storm troops.

Asserts World Needs Religion Above Science

Canon Streeter of Oxford to Visit Chicago.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

"At the present moment the world has a greater need of religion than of science."

"The quest for religious truth is the great adventure for which humanity now calls."

While these quotations, particularly the first two, could be ascribed to nearly any Chicago clergyman, yet the fact that they were said by a famous English scholar in his latest book tends to make them news.

But the author, Canon Burnett H. Streeter of Oxford university, who is coming to Evanston next week to lecture at Seabury Western Theological seminary, has surrounded the quoted keynotes from his book "The Buddha and The Christ," with arguments which, admittedly, will make divisions in Christendom even more distinct.

The whole problem of foreign missions, which now is vexing Protestant churches, comes within the indirect purview of the book. "The Buddha and The Christ" raises the question in readers' minds of sending chaotic, "perhaps" views of Christian faith to the orient or elsewhere. It is thus plainly seen that the book will widen the breach between denominational groups. No one will arise to deny the sense of revelation's finality and its assurance, held by Catholics on the one hand and Lutherans and fundamentalists on the other. For Christians of these names the quest for religious truth is held to be complete and adequate. Foreign missions enterprises under these auspices are reported to have thrived throughout the depression and now continue to go forward with increasing zeal.

But Canon Streeter summarily rejects the certainties claimed by these groups of Christians. He asserts that the quest for religious truth "is the great adventure for which humanity now calls."

"In a world like to perish for lack of a religion, the churches are perishing for lack of men to undertake the quest," Canon Streeter exclaims as, through the book, he appeals for youths to undertake the search for new religious certainty. But he adds this warning to those who undertake it. "To them I say: Listen; but also count the cost. You will find yourselves unpopular with certain sections of the religious press—that is an affliction not difficult to grin and bear. You may be kept exile in a remote country charge during the best years of your life, as a 'dangerous person.'"

Canon Streeter tears science from its pedestal as the means of solving life's chief riddles and makes it mankind's immensely valuable chore boy. He refutes the idea held by some scientists that mathematical formulas can give a picture of the universe. Canon Streeter declared research in this direction should be continued even though it may lead to abstract views similar to those held by Buddhist groups.

Canon Streeter uses illustrations from athletic contests to show how an abstraction may represent an aspect of truth but at the same time be unimportant. He pointed out that a hundred yard race may be expressed by mathematical formula. The problem of the race, he said, could be solved by the formula $t = w/f$. Time equals weight divided by force. But, if that were all the race amounted to, "no one would think the race worth running at all. Other aspects of the truth about it, which are not included in the mathematical equation, will be found in the effusions of the sporting press."

"The Buddha and The Christ" develops comparisons and contrasts between the two world leaders of religion named in the title. "Each," he said, "for the sake of miserable humanity made the supreme sacrifice—the Christ in submitting to death, the Buddha by consenting to live."

Council of Catholic Women Will Open Shelter on West Side

The Rev. James C. Curry, executive director of the Council of Catholic Women, has announced that a shelter for women will be opened on March 25 at 2501 West Monroe street.

According to official statistics cited by Father Curry there are 3,000 women and girls in Chicago who are homeless. To meet this situation the Catholic women of Chicago plan to found several additional shelter later. To advance the work the council is rapidly developing a contributing membership of 100,000 women.

For the first three days of next week an intensive campaign will be made throughout the archdiocese for house furnishings of all kinds appropriate to this 30 room shelter, which was formerly St. Margaret's home.

Wise Shopper Gets Ready for the Rainy Day

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Smart shoppers are getting ready for the rainy season . . . plenty of waterproof stuff is being shown. Raincoats that look like swanky tweed coats have straps around the wrists, smoothly tailored silhouettes, patch pockets, and collars that really protect the back of the neckline, are practically perfect. Checks and tweeds are tremendously effective, with slick rubber affairs, also in checks, coming along in second place.

If you've ever had a weakness for the cop on the corner you will probably fall for a caped raincoat made exactly like a policeman's wet weather unform The cape swings smartly to the waistline and you can buy a brimmed hat and umbrella to match. These are available in wild, breezy checks and cheerful high colors that are good buys for a dismal day of wind and wet weather.

The newest things you can buy are the stunning umbrellas of authentic Scotch plaid, and until you have seen these eye-filling color combinations you have missed a shopping sensation.

Why some enterprising distributor of Scotch gayety and dash hasn't thought of this trick before is a mystery. They come with scarlet, bright blue and green prystal handles and knobs on the end of the ribs for a very modest sum.

Just a trifle more expensive are the glittery models made of the same plaid silk and gleaming with shiny chromium ribs, knobs, and round ball handle. They will do grand things for drooping, bedraggled spirits, even on the darkest, wettest days.

Society Folk Enter Dogs in Annual Show

Chicago Kennel Club Exhibit Opens March 30.

BY JUDITH CASS.

BLUE blooded aristocrats of the canine world will hold the spotlight the next couple of weeks for those fanciers of the society world who have found dogs a better investment in recent years than some of the "wildcats" that have drawn a straight path from penthouses and chauffeur driven motors to kitchenettes and "two seater" coupes.

On the evening of March 30 the thirty-third all-breed show of the Chicago Kennel club will open in the First Regiment armory, 16th street and Michigan avenue, with an exhibit of terriers and Scotties, dachshunds and Dobermann Pinschers whose pedigrees would make a book.

Many of them will come from prominent city households and important kennels north and west of the city which insures a fashionable audience for the three days of the show . . . the 30th, 31st, and 1st of April. Before these little four legged creatures with wiggly tails and rubber nosed heads make their appearance at the armory, however, they will go through a beauty treatment that any debutante might envy.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul C. Loeber are entering three wire haired fox terriers from their Lake Forest kennels. Two of them—Little-Way Brandy Snap and Queen's Orb—were champions of last year's show. The other entry will be Dogberry Sensation. Mrs. James B. Waller is coming home from an eastern holiday in time to make up her mind whether she will have an entry of her famous pugs.

Mrs. Waller Keeps Some Champions.

It is well known that Mrs. Waller has sold a great many of her pugs which she keeps in kennels out at Libertyville, but she still has a champion array and several Great Danes. Last year she refrained from entering the show since there were no other pug entries and she called it "useless" to bring her dogs in and have some one tell her which one of them was the best.

Alexander Stewart, who is the president of the Chicago Kennel club and owns the well known Strathway kennels at Barrington, will enter wire haired fox terriers, and Dr. and Mrs. Samuel Millbank will, we hear, bring the same breed of dogs from New York.

Harold M. Florsheim always shows some of the winners. This time he will enter his Irish terrier that took a blue ribbon in the recent New York show. Year before last Mr. Florsheim took the $1,000 Eastman trophy, which every dog owner covets.

Mrs. John B. Barnes will be back from Florida in time to show her two English bulls while her father, Thomas M. Howell, will bring in several Irish wolfhounds and Labrador retrievers from his very fine kennels at Barrington. Mr. and Mrs. Orrin H. Baker will enter their two champion Kerry blue terriers who answer to the names of Blue Chip of Oakcrest and Princess Blue of Oakcrest.

Still other competitors for the big trophy or one of the cash awards will be shown by Dr. Noel S. Young of Lake Forest who will enter his pedigreed sealyhams. Mrs. W. Harold Cluxton of Glenview who will enter her Russian wolfhounds, and Mrs. James Heyworth who will show her Labrador retrievers.

Young Aldis Twins Do Their Bit for Church.

One of the best stories we have heard in a long day concerns the young twins of Mr. and Mrs. Graham Aldis. At Sunday school last week at the Fourth Presbyterian church they were asked with the rest of their little friends to save their pennies and

Helps Make Plans for "Lighthouse Ball"

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Lighthouse Aids Receive Praises of Miss Swift

"During the thirteen years I have known and worked with you, the Lighthouse Volunteer Aids, you have passed before my eyes as an endless chain of young women who make life pleasanter for the blind—and that chain has no weak links!"

So spoke Miss Edith Swift, executive secretary of the Chicago Lighthouse for the Blind, yesterday noon in the Casino, at the spring luncheon of the Aids. Miss Swift, a dynamic person, astonished the newer members of the Aids with her statement that during these years the Aids had earned $41,596 for the Lighthouse, thereby enabling this institution for the blind to pay $240,000 of the $250,000 subscribed to it in the last sixteen years as wages to the blind workers. Money earned by the Aids is used for running expenses.

Miss Swift told the members she was attending the luncheon for the sole purpose of delivering a pep talk to the members in order to make them work hard for the success of the benefit ball they are holding on April 14 at the Bal Tabarin. Her speech was so heartening that one could almost see the will to do growing within her listeners.

Preceding the luncheon Mrs. Wilbur C. Smith, president of the Aids, presided at a directors' meeting and at a members' meeting. There the committees were formed for the various duties of "putting over" the ball. To Miss Marie Louise Gardner fell the lot of organizing an irresistible sales force of cigaret girls, and Miss Joan Everett, Mrs. Roger White's sister and a new member of the Volunteers, was chosen to take care of table reservations.

Miss Barbara Graf was appointed chairman of ticket sales. Miss Alice Bremner and Miss Frances Canfield were made co-chairmen of entertainments, Miss Jean Milsted of invitations, and Miss Betty Brawley was put in charge of publicity.

Miss Brawley and Miss Suzanne Morris were exponents of tweed for spring wear, and so fashionable were they that they excited comment and admiration from all their friends.

Miss Morris wore a tailored double breasted suit of dark gray, with a seven-eighths length topcoat of brown and gray check and a becoming brown brimmed hat. Her yellow gloves came all the way from Bermuda, and exactly matched her silk blouse.

Miss Brawley's suit was of Oxford gray and her topcoat was of tiny black and white checks. A Breton sailor and a white Ascot tie completed the picture of chic.

Mrs. Edgar Stanton Jr. sponsored color for spring wear, combining raspberry red, lavender, and blue most effectively in a three piece outfit—skirt of lavender, blouse and hat of blue, and swagger coat of raspberry.

Dr. Ackermann Presented with Medal from Norway

Dr. Susan K. Ackerman, 1820 Humboldt boulevard, was presented with a gold medal from King Haakon VII., of Norway, at a dinner in the Norwegian club of Chicago, 2350 North Kedzie avenue, last night. More than 200 attended. It was awarded for humanitarian services.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, March 16.—[Special.]—Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Moncrieffe Livingston returned from the south today and tomorrow will open their country place, Kilsyth, Huntington, for the annual hunting log field trials of the North Shore Game Protective association.

Mrs. Henry Devereux Whiton of Glen Cove has taken a suite at 10 Park avenue.

Story Is Slight, but Film Cast Gets a Boost

And "Long Lost Father" Has Its Situations.

"LONG LOST FATHER."

Good Morning!

Father didn't like the smell of cabbage;
Di'pers on the radiator got into his hair;
So he gave the wife he loved a necklace,
And proceeded to vamoose far, far away from there. . . .

. . . And his little daughter didn't see him for many years. Not till she was a grown young lady, motherless, and dancing for a living.

Don't think, though, that Lindsey Lane—as she then called herself—had lost track of her reprehensible parent, Carl Bellairs. Far from it. Well she knew that he managed a fashionable café, owned by that avid horse fancier and racing man, Tony Gelding. [Pat name for an equine expert, what?] And—how she hated the very thought of papa . . .!

The last will and testament of a satirical and unforgiving relative brings Carl and Lindsey together for a few moments. After which they part to meet again in the café—where Lindsey has, against Bellairs' wishes, been employed to dance in the floor show by Gelding, who admires her extravagantly.

She meets and has her head turned by a fast English crowd, which causes her nice but impecunious fiancé, Dr. Bill Strong, much grief. Father Bellairs is fair beside himself . . . !

The long lost suddenly develops into a stern disciplinarian of a papa—who, after this, that and the other thing has transpired, rescues his offspring from herself, her friends, and—the police. . . .

As regards the story, "Long Lost Father" hasn't much to toss its head over. But John Barrymore provides an arresting characterization—light but keen—and Helen Chandler is alluring. The supporting cast is a good one.

See you tomorrow!

A. E. Barnhart Will Give Luncheon Today to Mark 88th Birthday

Alson Elverton Barnhart, who for years conducted a type foundry in Chicago, will celebrate his 88th birthday today. A dozen of his Chicago friends will gather at a luncheon with him in his Edgewater Beach hotel apartment for the occasion.

Mr. Barnhart yesterday recalled how, in 1872, he and his brother, the late Arthur M. Barnhart, purchased a type foundry in a building adjoining the old McVicker Theater building on Madison street. The business was continued until 1911 when the brothers sold out and retired.

A Vicious Circle

By ALICE CAMPBELL

SYNOPSIS.

Tommy Rostetter, Paris correspondent of the London Times, is persuaded by his friend, Helen Roderick, editor of L'Etoile, to take her place at a dinner party. Otherwise there'd be thirteen guests. The party is given by Dorinda, known as Dodo Quarles, in the Paris apartment that was her mother's. Dodo's mother was Helen's closest friend. Dodo herself is untrammeled by scruples or breeding. Her stepfather, Basil Jethro, celebrated Oxford scholar, is her guardian and trustee. He has long since given up trying to curb her. Helen had promised Basil she would keep Dodo under her wing for a bit. Basil appears for a short while on the eve of the party. Tommy's dinner partner is Dinah Blake, young American artist, whose engagement to Christopher Lourdon, in the American embassy, according to rumor, was broken on account of Dodo. Bannister Mowbray, of forbidding reputation, is the guest of honor. The hostess hands one of her guests a savage looking dirk to use to cut fruit. Dodo feeds her guests a drug.

INSTALMENT VI.

THE SLEEP OF DEATH.

Dinah's gay mask dropped. The underlying torment of her face told Tommy she had reached the point of nerve exhaustion. He would get her away, take her home. How it was he never accomplished his purpose was one of the unsolved mysteries of the evening, all he recalled being that at this juncture an absurd incident put an end to serious thought.

Noisy scuffles were going on. The bony frame of the butler was seen struggling in the combined hold of Dorinda and Umberto, who were attempting to cram the last cube of the sweetmeat between his tightly closed lips.

From now on nothing seemed extraordinary, not even the fact that Dinah, her eyes glittering through the smoke haze, should be standing beside her hostess with the latter's arm slung carelessly around her. Corks popped anew, and Dorinda, hammering on a wine glass, called for a toast. What was the name of this superb stuff, so they could drink to it?

Bannister Mowbray smiled his secret smile upon the candle flame.

"The name?" he echoed. "Well, how about—Nirvana?"

"Now then, all together—Nirvana!"

"Nirvana! Nirvana!"

Lone and forgotten, the Algerian dirk lay, a shimmer of pale steel, across the debris of dismembered grapes. By a perverse trick of memory, Tommy could still recall it, when other images had receded into a hopeless blur.

. . . . . .

With a shattering jolt Tommy came to.

A motor smash, evidently, for a moment ago he had been spinning over the green Killarney hills, with the sun beating down on his back and larks singing in the blue air above. But why this lurid dusk, with the full moon of a face thrust pallidly into his, and ruthless hands shaking, dragging him to unwilling feet?

"Who did it?" Helen shook him again, hysterically. "It was some one in this room, but who? Why?"

"Wake up!" a voice gibbered hoarsely. "It's me—Helen! O, for God's sake, pull yourself together! Look!"

He looked, and saw a girl sleeping heavily on a couch. Yes, of course! It was Dorinda Quarles."

"Look, I tell you! O, can't you see?"

A veil dropped from his eyes. The whole front of the girl's flimsy bodice was glued together in sticky folds round a gaping wound in the breast. The slack lips were gray, except for one ribald patch of scarlet lip rouge. In a stupefaction of horror he knew the truth. Dorinda, the hostess, had been stabbed to death in her sleep.

"Who did it?" Helen shook him again, hysterically. "It was some one in this room, but who? Why? You all must have taken something, that's evident. Was there—any quarrel?" she whispered between chattering teeth.

"Quarrel?" He groped back as through a thick fog. "No. On the contrary, we were all most cheery. We did eat some stuff that fellow brought. After that we danced and ragged, and then—"

Suddenly she remembered. "Tommy! The front door was open. Can that mean some one has gone away? Here, quick, let's count them. Fourteen, weren't there?" Still gripping his arm, she took a sobbing inventory. ". . . ten, eleven, twelve, thirteen." Her voice sank for want of breath. "One of you has gone. Which?"

His heart turned cold. "We were all here when I fell asleep. I was the last, except possibly the Mowbray chap. Stop where you are."

However, Helen clung to him so tightly he was forced to drag her with him. With one accord their eyes sought the big armchair the back of which was turned towards the opening between the two rooms. It was empty.

"Who? Who?"

"Dinah Blake. She was just behind me."

"Dinah! O, my God! Then, after all, she——"

"Keep calm," he whispered, fighting down a fiendish presentiment. "She's probably somewhere in one of the other rooms. We'll hunt for her."

"But the door! It was wide open!"

"Never mind that. Come, show me the way."

He led her forcibly by the hand, and together they made a rapid tour of the two floors, turning on lights as they went. Nowhere was there any sign of Dinah, though when they gazed upon the disorder of Dorinda's bedroom, with its strewn face powder and georgette undergarments flung on the floor, Tommy had the eerie sensation that unseen eyes were watching him.

"What other bedrooms are there?" he demanded brusquely. "What's the door across the passage?"

"Only a storage room belonging to Basil. It's locked, and he keeps the key. That's where he was last night, getting his books. Then there's my room, and Benedetto's."

"We'll rouse Benedetto—if he's asleep."

She gave a sudden moan. "You tell him. I can't. He's known Dodo since she was a baby. It's too awful."

In a small, cell-like chamber at the back of the apartment Tommy found the old servant lying on a narrow iron bed, his sunken eyes closed, his breathing regular. At the touch on his shoulder he stirred, muttered, and sat bolt upright, staring in a bewildered way at the two tense faces.

"Mademoiselle! Have I overslept?" he mumbled in a befuddled voice. "What—what time is it?"

"They made him take some of the drug too," Tommy explained in a low tone. "Forced him to swallow it. No wonder he's half doped."

Benedetto's features sharpened with comprehension.

"No, monsieur," he denied contemptuously. "I spat it up outside. But is anything wrong? What . . ."

Tommy broke the news, and, watching closely, was satisfied it came as an overpowering shock. Stunned, trembling with agitation, the butler broke into a cold sweat, but after a moment was able to answer collectedly the questions put to him. Had he heard any sound? No, none. The cook went home at 10 o'clock, after which he was alone in the kitchen. When did he go to bed? At exactly half-past eleven. The clocks were striking.

"Eleven-thirty!"

A shadowy recollection came back to Tommy. Just at the last, before he dropped off, he had heard a bell ringing and, propping open his eyes, had seen a dark figure hovering in the archway to the hall.

"Did the telephone ring?" he asked. "And was it you I saw looking into the salon?"

"Yes, monsieur. Mr. Jethro rang up, wanting to speak to Miss Dorinda. When I found all of you sound asleep, the lights out, I went back and told him."

"Told him!" Helen groaned and leaned against the wall. "What did he say?"

"Nothing, miss, except to leave a message."

"O God!" she breathed, broken to pieces. "What shall I say to Basil about this?"

Tommy took a firm hold on her stricken form. "Come," he commanded roughly. "This is no fault of yours. Let's go, so Benedetto can dress. He'll have to make coffee for that crowd. Benedetto, keep to your kitchen. Don't disturb anything in front. The police when they get here must find everything untouched. Understand?"

"Perfectly, sir. The coffee will be ready when you ring," and the old man reached an unsteady hand for his trousers.

George Raft Gets Contract and Vacation

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., March 16.—[Special.]—In spite of George Raft's walkout on Mae West and her Paramount film that studio has given the sleek star a new contract, tearing up Raft's old one, which had four more months to go. Raft made eleven films under the old contract, all of which made money. He and his constant companion, Mac Grey, left last night for New York and Brooklyn, where George will make some personal appearances before proceeding to Europe for two months.

"In what capacity are you making the trip?" was asked Grey. "O, I'm Raft's domino." Further questioning elicited that Mac considers himself George's "major domo."

June Brewster, who contributed grace and looks to several Radio-RKO musicals, bumped into Earl Carroll on the set of "Private Scandal," where she is working, and Carroll at once signed her for a featured spot in his next New York Vanities on the Broadway stage. June has worked for Carroll before, being in his road show of "Murder at the Vanities" until she became ill in St. Louis and came to California for her health.

Richard Bolesavsky, who, besides being a movie director—and a good one—is a novelist—and a good one—was expressing annoyance with an extra in a Confederate cavalry uniform who rode his horse clumsily in "Operator 13," Bolesavsky's current production. "What's the matter? Can't you ride a horse?" the director asked. "Where did you learn how to ride, anyway?"

"This is about the first riding I have done," the youth said. "I learned how to ride from reading your book, 'Way of a Lancer.'" Bolesavsky gulped.

In token of appreciation for her work in "The Cat's Paw" and liveliness around the set, Comedian Harold Lloyd gave Una Merkel a novel gold Chinese bracelet when she had completed her part. The bracelet had twelve little places on it to suspend jeweled amulets, and twelve members of Lloyd's cast and production staf provided twelve tiny jeweled figures and charms to hook on the bracelet.

Alice Faye was discussing embarrassing moments and giggled at the assertion that the most embarrassed person seen in Hollywood recently was Maurice Chevalier the time he was so intent on watching Alice Faye walking down the aile in a department store that Maurice walked into a post and bent his nose.

Alice said she "wasn't looking at Maurice," although she saw him watching her, and that the incident was true.

"My own most embarrassing moment," says Alice, "was when I was invited by an important man to a swell party and equipped myself with a set of those long false fingernails. I went to get a phonograph record to play and lost two of my fingernails. There we stood, the gentleman and myself, equally horrified, watching two of my fingernails sailing round and round on the disk while the record played."

Happy Married Couples in Lead Over Divorcees

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"The most derided, the most calumnized institution on earth, and yet it has more people clamoring to enroll in it than any other."

Thus some speaker described marriage the other day! His remark is a good introduction to today's query from "Befuddled."

Befuddled has the ring, and the man, and the wedding day fixed for June.

BUT she's afraid. There's divorce to the right of her in her family, divorce to the left of her and all around her as she sees it. One aunt on her mother's side and one uncle on her father's side of the house are named and two friends' marriages have gone on the rocks.

Well, there are still a lot of trees in the forest. Befuddled's mother and father, after twenty six years, are still plodding ahead together.

True, there is a great deal of divorcing going on all over our country. And marriage is becoming more and more of a wholetime job. But statistics still show that marriage prospers in a heavy percentage over unions that fold up in a divorce court. Unless the average person happens to fall in with a particularly messy group, he or she can count, among friends and acquaintances, many more couples jogging along in harness with all the appearance of content with their lot than those of the other kind.

While we recommend a little wider sweep on the matrimonial situation to the Befuddleds, we wouldn't minimize the importance of looking at marriage from all angles.

nickels for the annual contribution to the Presbyterian hospital.

As the class adjourned the teacher presented each one of her pupils with a small tin can, a slot cut in the top, in which she asked them to collect their money.

Gathering up her twins, Peggy and Ruth, and her two older children, Mary Cornelia and Owen, as well as some of the other neighborhood sons and daughters after the Sunday school, Mrs. Aldis started for 242 East Walton place, the Aldis home. More than a block away she missed the twins.

Frantically hurrying back she discovered them on Michigan avenue having the time of their young lives as "panhandlers." With their tin cans they were stopping the pedestrians and in the most woe begone fashion asking for a dime. Already the cups were half full.

Hearing the story later in the day Mr. Aldis inquired if they stopped every one that came along the street. "O no," Peggy answered, "only those who looked rich!"

Parties Will Mark Wedding Anniversaries.

Dr. and Mrs. Frederick R. Schmidt are giving a dinner tonight in their Dearborn parkway home that will celebrate two events—the return of Dr. Schmidt's mother and sister, Mrs. Frederick M. Schmidt and Miss Dorothy Schmidt, from Europe, and his ad his wife's fourth wedding anniversary. They have invited only eight or ten close friends and haven't planned any after dinner entertainment.

The John McLaren Simpson will be celebrating their first wedding anniversary tomorrow in either Florida or Bermuda.

The John Fentress Gardners, who were married a year ago next Tuesday in Kitzbuehel, in the Austrian Tyrol, and who remained abroad until June studying, are again in this country and are still studying. The former Carol Hemingway, daughter of Mrs. Clarence E. Hemingway and sister of Novelist Ernest Hemingway, and her young husband have taken an apartment close to the Midway and are pursuing scholastic careers at the University of Chicago.

Another anniversary celebration tonight that is to be small is the dinner Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Patrick Geraghty are giving to commemorate the eventful cocktail party Mrs. Geraghty's brothers, Robert and Theodore Tieken, gave on this date last year to announce their sister's, the former Helen Tieken's engagement. Mr. and Mrs. Geraghty are entertaining Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Owings and the Wesley M. Dixons.

Miss Peggy Hambleton is giving a cocktail party this afternoon at the Casino for Dallas Frantz, a friend of the Hambleton family who is in Chicago as piano soloist with the Symphony orchestra.

Naval Policy Will Be Discussed Today.

A lively discussion is anticipated this noon at the luncheon meeting of the Council on Foreign Relations at the Palmer house, for Frederick J. Libby, executive secretary of the National Council for the Prevention of War, and Col. William R. Matheny, president of the Reserve Officers' association, will present opposite points of view on the "United States Policy of the 1935 Naval Conference."

Mr. Libby will speak for a small navy while Col. Matheny will argue for a large navy as necessary national defense.

M. René Grimm Provence, who is in this country as a representative of the French department of commerce, will bring much of his family background into play today when he addresses the noonday meeting of the Alliance Français on "Wines." M. Provence's father owned one of the fine vineyards of France and was for years engaged in the wine business.

Black Horse Troop Gives Drill Tonight.

Gen. and Mrs. Preston Brown, Admiral and Mrs. Wat T. Cluverius, Paul Butler, and Mrs. Edward F. Carry will be some of those entertaining box parties this evening at the Black Horse troop's annual military exhibition and polo games at the Chicago Riding club.

One of the features will be a drill by the seventeen young men from the Boys' Latin school, known as the Black Horse Troop Junior Reserves.

Last night the gymnasium of the Latin school was filled for the annual gym night program.

More than a dozen young women from Chicago and the north shore will be in Princeton, N. J., today for the annual junior promenade to be held this evening in the university gymnasium. Among them are Miss Beatrice Branford, Miss Beth McGrath, Miss Elizabeth Walker, and Miss Barbara Ann Munn.

William R. Tobeys Going to Pinehurst.

Mr. and Mrs. William Robert Tobey are leaving today to spend several weeks in Pinehurst, N. C., with Mr. and Mrs. Lansing B. Warner of Hubbard Woods.

Mrs. Ernst Von Ammon is opening her home at 1430 Hinman avenue, Evanston, for a bookwarming tomorrow afternoon. Kenneth Horan, whose new novel, "It's Later than You Think," will be a special guest.

Mrs. Potter Palmer, Mrs. Arthur Meeker, Mrs. Edwin W. Ryerson, and Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Dawes are among the sponsors of the book shower and authors' reception which is being given by the Illinois Woman's Press association from 2 until 6 this afternoon at the Chicago public library in the G. A. R. Memorial rooms.

The reception is being given to get books for the library and its forty-four branches and the admittance fee will be one or more books. On the program are talks by prominent authors, among them Marion Strobel Mitchell [Mrs. James Herbert Mitchell] and Margaret Ayer Barnes [Mrs. Cecil Barnes].

West Pointers Meet Tonight.

In commemoration of the 132d anniversary of the founding of the United States Military academy, alumni of the school will hold their 46th annual dinner at 7 o'clock this evening at the Army and Navy club in the Lake Shore Athletic club. Gen. Frank C. Voiles, commanding officer of Fort Sheridan, will be the principal speaker. Among those attending the dinner will be Col. John A. Holabird, Gen. Robert E. Wood, and Gen. G. I. Westervelt. The Chicago Association of West Pointers is in charge of the arrangements.

The last of the Children's hour programs sponsored by the junior auxiliary of the Winnetka Woman's club is being given this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in Matz hall, Community house. The last play, to be presented by Victoria Cobb, is "A Dog, a Cat, a King."

One of the many St. Patrick's parties this evening will be the dinner dance at the Skokie Country club.

Nine hundred alumni of the University of Chicago are expected to dine at the Knickerbocker hotel this evening at the fourth annual alumni assembly. Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes and Mrs. Ickes and President Robert Maynard Hutchins of the university will be the principal speakers. Paul S. Russell, who is the most recent addition to the roster of university trustees, will be the chairman.

Refreshing Print Is Ideally Suited to Daytime Frock

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

A printed or plain silk crêpe will make up well for this smart daytime dress. Wool crêpe is another good material, or wool challis, for there are always cool days through spring and summer.

The pattern, No. 2583, comes in sizes 14, 16, and 18 years, and 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measure.

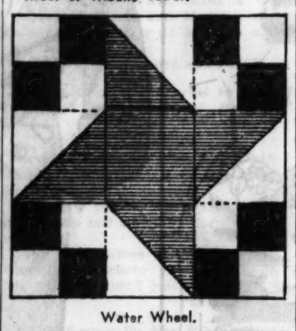
The Names Vouch for Antiquity of Novel Quilt Block

Patterns of this quilt design are 5 cents each, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, One South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.



Water Wheel.

BY NANCY CABOT.

One of the positive tests of the antiquity of a quilt block is the number of names bestowed upon it. "Water Wheel" is a favorite, an old four patch pattern known variously as "Windmill," "Mill Wheel," and "Water Mill." Red, blue, and a print material with a tiny red figure on a light blue ground, may be combined most effectively with white in this quilt.

Three Exhibits Get Attention at Arts Club

Compositions of Modernist Puzzle Critic.

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

Three entertaining exhibitions opened yesterday at the Arts club. The large gallery is hung with the abstractions of Joan Miro, and through that labyrinth of twisted ideals the philosopher may pick a thoughtful way. He offers six "compositions" written on huge blackboards in the pothooks of modernism.

Like jackstraws, which only the wary may unravel without spoiling the game, fragments of objects are scattered lavishly over a wide expanse of gray or black or blue ground, and your guess is as good as mine as to what was in the painter's mind when he uttered these various challenges to a sane world.

The compositions, however, are not nearly as amusing as the smaller and more colorful canvases which pretend to convey a distinct idea; at least they are given titles, so we may presume Joan Miro meant them to represent a definite thought.

"Femme en Extase" is a lady in a convulsion after an orgy of cambric tea; "Les Amoureux" is married lovers in argument, the lady winning. "Tête d'Homme" is simply, Is it? "Figure" may be a figure, but it looks like a totem pole walking. As for the "Jeune Fille Faisant de la Culture Physique," she may be, but her efforts are weakened by a middle that looks as though it were stuffed with cushions. To reduce—that is the young girl's first problem.

From these dramatic pictures one goes into the adjoining gallery, where are hung the exquisite and delicate water colors of Jane Berlandina, one of the loveliest exhibits the club has housed this season. There are flower compositions here, and landscapes.

Miss Berlandina has a suave and subtle touch; her colors are like the cadences of treble notes from an old-fashioned spinet. They tinkle and quiver and fill the air with music. Do not pin these paintings down to a close inspection. They are meant to be caught on the fly, an instantaneous impression of trees, hills, roofs, figures, sea, or flowers, beautiful patterns of vibrant colors receding from you even as you search them.

John B. Flannagan, in the round room, shows sculpture, much of it having to do with cats and kittens. The little round behind of a bent-over child impishly stares you in the face. Near the door a sleeping fawn is a graceful arc.

"Mother and Child" is a sympathetic group, but the cats, of various ages and dispositions, are in the majority. It is a good show.

The exhibitions will continue to March 30.

The Stage

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

Mme. Maria Jeritza's Chicago engagement in "Annina," announced yesterday for a première at the Grand Opera house Monday night, April 9, will mark this famous prima donna's first appearance in operetta. The score was composed by Rudolph Friml, who has contributed "Rose-Marie," "The Vagabond King," "The Three Musketeers," and many other works to the light lyric stage, and will be his first full length piece to be heard in Chicago for five years.

The libretto was written by Rowland Leigh, a well known English author of musical plays, and William Thiele, a leading stage and film director of central Europe. The latter was brought to this country by the Messrs. Shubert for the special purpose of staging "Annina."

Mme. Jeritza's company includes Allan Jones, who recently appeared here as a star in "The Student Prince" and "Bitter Sweet"; Andrew Tombes, a leading comedian; Louisa Mele, Jack Good, Margaret Lee, Harry Mestayer, Paul Haskon, Albertina Vitak, Manart Kippen, Henry Rabke, Robert Lee Allen and a large chorus.

Mme. Jeritza's stay here in "Annina" will be limited to one or two weeks.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., March 16.—[Special.]—Mrs. James Roosevelt arrived today at the White House to spend the week-end with her son and daughter-in-law, President and Mrs. Roosevelt, and to take part in the festivities tomorrow attendant upon the twenty-ninth anniversary of their marriage. John Roosevelt, youngest son of the President, arrived with his grandmother to spend the spring vacation. He attends Groton academy.

The attorney general and Mrs. Homer S. Cummings were the special guests at dinner tonight of Representative Florence P. Kahn of California. The attorney general returned this morning from a short stay in New York.

Mrs. Swanson, wife of the secretary of the navy, who has been in Atlantic City for a week, will return here tomorrow.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

Mr. Sims is universally acclaimed the greatest living contract and auction player. He was captain of the renowned "Four Horsemen" team of four, now disbanded, and has won twenty-four national championships since 1924. These articles are based on the Sims system, which includes the one-over-one principle which the Sims group of players was the first to employ and develop.

OPENER'S PROCEDURE AFTER RESPONSE OF TWO NO TRUMPS.

SHOULD the opening bid of one in a suit have been made with a strong two suited hand and the partner responds with two no trumps, then the second suit must be shown.

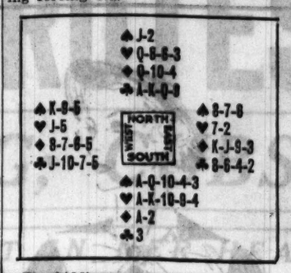
Naturally, your partner's response is based on the assumption that you just have an ordinary one bid. Your reply, therefore, must be as informative as is possible. For certain purposes we employ a jump bid in the second suit, which informs the responder that we are anxious to get to a slam contract, if possible. For instance, you open the bidding with one heart, holding the following cards:

Spades—Q | Diam—K Q J 7 2
Hearts—A K J 9 3 | Clubs—A 2

You receive a two no trump response. Now you know that the only stopper your partner can have in diamonds is the ace. So this card is located. With nothing else in his hand there should be five diamonds in the cards. But you know he has the equivalent of two primary tricks. A slam is almost sure. You must make a jump response of four diamonds.

Your second bid conveys to your partner that you have two very strong suits and you wish to know more about his hand. With the particular holding above he will undoubtedly respond with five diamonds and now you may play safe and bid six diamonds, in which event you would be closing the bidding; but all your partner needs for a grand slam is spade ace, diamond ace, club king and only two hearts. You should, therefore, show your club ace by bidding six clubs. If he has the cards mentioned you will get to seven diamonds.

As you learn more about my system you will find that we seldom miss a slam that is biddable by opening these strong hands at one only. In the near future I shall be dealing with our original forcing bids and then it will be seen why we never shade an opening forcing bid.



The bidding:

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	1 Sp. [1]	Pass
2 N. T. [2]	Pass	4 Hts. [3]	Pass
5 Cl. [4]	Pass	5 N. T. [5]	Pass

1. A very strong aggressive type of hand. If partner is able to respond with a one no trump bid, there is enough strength to force with three hearts.

2. With this distribution the two no trump response is correct. The clubs are too strong to bid two clubs and too weak to make a jump bid in this suit.

3. A slam try. Seldom made with a suit of less than five cards.

4. North reads South's holdings as two five carders. By bidding the clubs he promises to bid until a slam is arrived at.

5. Showing a positive diamond trick.

6. The spade suit does not appear to be solid. Bidding the hearts now confirms a high honor and a minimum of three.

Blouse and Skirt Ensemble Popular for Daytime Wear

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Separate blouse and skirt frocks are coming into favor for spring wear on formal daytime occasions. Some of the most fashionable women here in Paris like this kind of costume, and they can by adopting it vary the model by a change of blouses.

The simple ankle length skirt of wool is what is most worn here with such models. Wool that is light and supple is what is usually chosen. The Lucien Lelong frock illustrated here has a skirt of black velvety wool with carefully placed circular fullness at the back. A blouse of black satin with long sleeves that flare from elbows to wrists makes the bodice. The body of this blouse is fitted, and it buttons up the front on marcasite buttons. Three velvet dahlias in tones of pink and red are placed at the V neckline.

Women here are adopting the long abandoned habit of wearing corsages of artificial flowers with their formal daytime clothes as well as their evening frocks.

'Gifted' Child One with I. Q. of 130 or More

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

We have had a number of letters recently asking questions about the extraordinarily bright or gifted child. As my personal replies cannot cover the subject, tomorrow's (Sunday's) article will be devoted to it.

When a boy shows great ability in drawing or a girl is talented musically in ordinary conversation we say, "What a gifted child." That is, we use the expression when a child shows a special aptitude chiefly along artistic lines.

But when the term "gifted child" is used by the psychologist and educator it means only gifted intellectually—mentally brilliant or superior. If a child is eight years old and has a mentality of 11 or 12, he is in this gifted class. These children are discovered by testing—testing intellectual achievement.

Tests have not yet been evolved for the measuring of artistic power, therefore the child of special talents, though equally gifted, is not the subject of tomorrow's article. Children with an I. Q. of 130 and over are considered gifted children. I'm sure it will interest parents to know that one in every 100 children born tests at or above 130 I. Q.

Another interesting fact that research reveals is that there are as many children well above average as there are below. Perhaps the reason we have not realized this is because for so many years our energies were devoted to caring for the subnormal

Puzzled Cooks' Problems Fill Question Box

Everything from Cakes to Cereals Today.

BY MARY MEADE.

Burning cakes, bubbling kettles, and soaking corn meal—huzzah! Another kitchen clinic!

"Why does the bottom of my cake burn in using a small bake oven?" asks Mrs. H. K. And for answer—the size of the oven most likely has nothing to do with the burns. These come usually from too hot an oven or one at least too hot on the bottom. Very thin tin pans are sometimes more likely to burn a cake than heavier ones. Cakes also burn at lower heats when they contain chocolate or an excess of sugar. If you have a very deep pan with plenty of batter the temperature should be lower than otherwise or the cake will set too speedily at the edges and often will burn before the center is well baked through.

Next comes an argument. It's between Miss M. K. and her father. Mr. K. insists that his plan of putting the aluminum kettle on the coal stove, directly over the coals, and letting it boil and boil harms neither kettle nor water. Miss K. argues that it does. We are appointed as judge. And we report that, while there will be no difference in the water boiled, one way or another, in time it would be more likely to injure the pan to use such a fierce heat and certainly if it is directly over flame and coals one will have to do a lot more scouring and cleaning.

Mr. E. H. D. arrives via post with the next query. In brief, he wishes to cook corn meal, oat meal, and brown rice quickly and inexpensively, using a single boiler rather than a double boiler for the job. What are the methods and are there any disadvantages, he asks? We're sending him the methods, but here are some pointers from which you all might gain.

To settle the last one first, a double boiler is used as a rule for these long cooking cereals, because it takes less attention and does away with the danger of sticking and scorching. The boiler takes more time and therefore somewhat more fuel. However, the food value and the digestive properties of the cereals are just the same, whichever method you use. Since different brands of cereal are often ground differently, it's wise to follow the instructions on the package. Then if the result does not suit vary the method to agree with your tastes. As a general rule use one cup of oat meal to four cups of water, adding somewhat more to allow for evaporation if cooked directly over the fire. Use one teaspoon of salt per quart of water and boil it with the water before turning in the cereal. Stir constantly (if in a single boiler) all during cooking. It's impossible to state the length of cooking time since "some like it thin and some like it thick."

Facial Mask Is Versatile in Achieving Variety of Benefits

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Face masks, to contradict a recent, erroneous statement that they are one of the new beauty developments, are about the oldest beauty practice recorded in history. Their revival, under better circumstances of application and more scientific knowledge as to formula, may be one of the latest developments. Anyway, they are a popular feature of facial upkeep today.

The purpose of a face mask is to cause an increase of blood circulation. And, incidentally, how many of the modern facial vogues are for that same identical purpose? [A hint here as to what cold showers, with a brisk rub following do for skin.] The face mask has the additional purpose of removing secretions that emanate from superfluously oily skin. Also, it is claimed for the good face mask, that it reduces the sebaceous gland activity that causes the excess oiliness, and that it does help to contract the enlarged pores.

And, any one of us, who has tried a good face mask, is aware of the cleaner look to the skin, the revived and refreshed sensation it permits. Some of the mask preparations are in cream form, ready for use. Some are in powder form, to be mixed with water or witch hazel. The witch hazel is desirable when the excess oiliness is being fought. There are face masks which contain medicated ingredients, valuable when blemishes and eruptions exist.

The tingling sensation accompanying a mask treatment indicates that the blood is rushing through the vessels, with beneficial effect on the face. Then a tightening of the skin follows, which involves the contraction of the pores. Masks are kept on anywhere from three to ten minutes, according to the ingredients, and removed with water or, as many think preferable, with a cream.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

All you poor, much-to-be-pitied creatures who've endured the hardships of deep sea fishing off the coast of Florida this winter, or put in difficult eight hour days on the reefs of Bermuda and who're now back in these parts where that swell sun tan you collected disappears like snow under a July sun should hark unto us.

We may be bitter about your pleasures, but we shop for you just the same. If your sun tan is fading or streaking and you simply hate to part with it, seeing as how it looks so luscious when you wear your pastel evening gowns, there's something you can do about it. You can pop down and buy some stain [it comes in two shades of bronze] that will fool even the impertinent creatures who try to ascertain whether it's real or not.

You may, depending on your natural coloring and the way you take tan, like the light bronze better than the dark. It's easy to put on with a saturated pad of cotton, it doesn't streak, and used with or without powder it's very, very slick.

Even we pallid people who haven't been sun bathing can fool a lot of folks with it. Any of you who do look like glowing goddesses when you're tanned but so far haven't had a chance to acquire the real thing this year might successfully take to it for some special occasion—say a night when you step out handsomely in your best white crêpe or satin. On golden blondes this tan coloring, especially with pastel frocks, looks utterly gorgeous.

We had ourself an elegant time with the two bottles we got. Our blue-eyed subjects looked the best wearing it, by and large, but some brunettes, especially if they didn't have dark frocks on, looked like lovely creatures who'd been spending a lazy winter on the Riviera. ELEANOR NANGLE.

INJURIES KEEP KLEIN, ENGLISH OUT OF LINEUP

Pinch Hitter Breaks Up Game in 9th.

The Cubs and Sox play the first of their pre-season series games today at Los Angeles. (News of the Sox on following page.)

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., March 16.—Bud Tinning, last season's fat man, encountered some last minute difficulties this afternoon, so the Cubs' second exhibition of the spring tour had an unhappy conclusion. Tinning went into the ninth inning with a one-run advantage, but the Hollywood Stars ripped into him with three singles good for two runs and a 7 to 6 victory over the major leaguers.

Tinning was one of two Cub pitchers to see service. The other was Dick Ward, a Los Angeles club graduate. Neither accomplished much, as can be guessed by the fifteen hits amassed by the Stars. Eight of these occurred during Ward's tenure in the first five innings.

Klein and English Are Out.

The Cubs were forced to play without the services of two of their important members. Neither the hard hitting Tiger Klein nor Woody English was able to work. Klein had to seek medical attention for a bone bruise on one of the fingers of his right hand.

The Cubs scored three runs in the first inning. Galan led off with a drive to right and made two bases on it. Billy Herman poked a single to right and Galan moved to third. Cuyler popped out and a pass to Stephenson loaded the bags. Babe Herman then doubled, Galan and Billy Herman scoring. Stephenson dashed home while Grimm was being thrown out by the pitcher.

Ward also got into trouble in Hollywood's half of the first inning. Billy Herman fumbled a grounder by Haney, the leadoff batter. A couple of outs sent him to third. Then Demaggio walked and Carlyle singled to score Haney. Another outbreak in the third furnished the Stars with a run, leaving the Cubs only one to the good. Durst opened with a double back of third and went to third on Carlyle's single past Ward. Durst scored on an infield out.

Stars Take the Lead.

Durst opened the home fifth with a scratch single that Ward should have handled easily. Durst scored when Demaggio bounced a triple off the left center field bricks. Carlyle singled, Demaggio scoring and putting the Stars ahead, 4 to 3.

The Cubs retrieved the lead in the seventh through a blunder on a play that should have ended the inning without runs. After two were out Tinning got to Hebert, former Brown southpaw, for a double to center. Galan walked, and should have been forced at second on Billy Herman's tap, but the Hollywood second baseman threw wild. This filled the bases. Then Cuyler, who had popped to the infield in three successive appearances, redeemed himself with a single past first base, Tinning and Galan counting.

Stainback, who succeeded Babe Herman in right, opened the eighth with a whistling two-bagger past third. He scored on a single by Camilli. Jurges bounced into a double play, and this ruined the rally.

Tinning Strikes Grief.

In the home eighth Tinning was nicked for a run, two hits, and two passes. The inning opened with a pass to Berkowitz. Hebert was thrown out, but Haney beat out a bunt, putting Berkowitz on third. The latter was nailed at the plate in an attempted double steal. Levey then walked and Durst singled to drive the run home, leaving the Cubs in front by only one run. Then the party fell apart in the ninth. Hershberger a pinch batter, singling with the bases filled.

In the first of the two game series with the White Sox tomorrow the Cubs will rely on Guy Bush and Pat Malone as pitchers. On Sunday Grimm will let the Sox hitters look at Lon Warneke and Charley Root.

EARLIER CHICAGO.

MIAMI, Fla., March 16.—Dear Wake: When Michigan, Wabash, Calumet and Prairie avenues from 18th street north and south a few blocks were select residential sections in the '80s, W. F. Coalbaugh had a large place with fine grounds at 23d and Calumet. Uri Balcom, whose grandson or nephew is a Chicago investment banker now, was located at 21st and Michigan. The Calumet club was on the northeast corner of 20th, diagonally across from the residence of George Schneider.

Next south of this place were Albert Keep, president of the Chicago and Northwestern, and Henry Keep, his brother. Mrs. C. C. Peck also lived in the neighborhood.

At 20th and Wabash was the Home of the Friendless ['70s and '80s]. After the fire of 1871 Field & Leiter opened a store in a large brick building at 20th and State. At the same time Charles Gossage & Co. had a store on 22d, between State and Wabash. These firms were burned out downtown.

J. C. Howland.

In the spring of 1873, after the big fire, the building at the southeast corner of Randolph and Clark was finished. Before the upper floors were fully completed the ground floor corner was occupied by the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern R. R. as its city ticket office. Herman Hefter.

I read in this column of the old shot tower on Canal street. At the alley, west of Randolph, Hodge & Homer had a hardware store. Mr. Hassick had a rooming house upstairs. He drove one of the 4 horse engines to the Chicago fire. Next door was a barber shop conducted by Links Brothers. Arnold Brothers' butcher shop was near, as was Hooker's Glass company. Above Hooker's a paper called the West End Advocate, with wide circulation on the west side, was printed. Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co. then was at Peoria and Madison and Schlesinger & Mayer at Madison and Des Plaines.

W. C. Clark, Chicagoan since 1860.

Leader—Severgnini.

BULLETIN.

At 3 a. m. four teams were tied for the lead in the six day bicycle race. They were: Reboli and Severgnini, McNamara and Lands, Spencer and Grimm, and Letourner and Thomas.

BY FRENCH LANE.

It's St. Patrick's day in the morning, and all the Irishmen and a few Frenchmen and Italians are in rare good humor at the six day bicycle race.

Not for any particular reason, but isn't it the morning of St. Patrick's day, and until St. Patrick's day arrived, didn't those two fine Celtic boys, Reggie McNamara and Dave Lands, wheel around in front of the pack feeling a bit of the St. Patrick's day spirit themselves?

What's the Difference?

It made no difference that a couple of Italians and a pair of Frenchmen rode on past the Irish, for how could McNamara and Lands breathe the real atmosphere of St. Patrick's day and keep their minds on the race?

B'gorra, they wouldn't do it. There was that shamrock to flaunt and those green tights and sweaters to wear.

So in the midst of the St. Patrick's morning jubilation, those Italians Reboli and Severgnini and the French Red Devil team of Letourner and Thomas pedaled on past the Celts.

Who Is He, Asks Reboli.

"I don't know dat guya St. Pat," Reboli shouted to McNamara as he dashed to the front.

"Does he speaka de English?" Severgnini shouted to Lands who already had pinned a large shamrock on the breast of his jersey.

So that was the situation while 14,000 spectators lingered on into St. Patrick's day at the great sleepless marathon.

Reboli and Severgnini and Letourner and Thomas were leading as a result of sensational riding just after midnight.

McNamara and Lands were a lap behind them, tied for second place with Spencer and Grimm, Peden and Schaller, Walthour and Ritter, and Debaets and Ottevaere.

See Battle at Finish.

Two laps behind the leaders in third place were Wissel and Lehmann and the sleepy sharpshooters draped around the pine saucer began throwing cold water in their faces and rubbing their eyes, for they sensed the greatest of all six day race finishes tonight, when the long grind ends with an hour of sprints from 11 o'clock until midnight.

The lead changed frequently during the wildest night of riding since the race started nearly six days ago. Forty-four laps were stolen. There were three spills, which looked bad but did not result disastrously. There was almost continuous jamming from 9 o'clock until well along into the morning when most of the fans unbuttoned their shirt collars, paraded around the infield for the last time and prepared to go to sleep.

Jim, Gino Offer Prizes.

The crowd did a lot of hooting and owling just before midnight when Jim Londos, the wrestler, offered $10 for the winner of the next sprint. Torchy Peden stepped out and won it.

1—McNamara, Walthour, Severgnini, Peden.
2—Lands, Ritter, Thomas, Rodman.
3—Severgnini, Letourner, McNamara, Grimm.
4—Rodman, Lands, Reboli, Thomas.
5—Wissel, Trieste, McNamara, Severgnini.
6—Debaets, Rodman, Audy, Spencer.
7—Winter, Walthour, Peden, Grimm.
8—Rodman, Spencer, Lehmann, Debaets.
9—Winter, Severgnini, Letourner, Grimm.
10—Audy, Spencer, Lehmann, Rodman.

WAITING FOR IT TO COME DOWN

SIGN CONTRACTS FOR MEETING OF BAER, CARNERA

Contracts for the heavyweight championship bout between Champion Primo Carnera and Max Baer at Madison Square Garden's bowl on Long Island June 14 have been signed by representatives of both fighters. This was announced last night by Ancil Hoffman, manager of Baer, on a stopover here en route from New York to Fair Oaks, Cal., where he will join the heavyweight title contender.

Madison Square Garden officials had announced earlier that only Baer had been signed and they expected Louis Soresi, Carnera's representative, to sign soon. Hoffman said Carnera had been signed.

Baer's manager also clarified the terms. He said that Jack Dempsey, who promoted the battle in which Baer knocked out Max Schmeling last summer, will be co-promoter with the Garden and not an outsider cutting in on the California challenger's purse.

Dempsey to Share in Receipts.

"Dempsey is getting 7½ per cent for his share of the promotion from Madison Square Garden and not from Baer," Hoffman said. "Jack will be right in the center of the picture. That was one of the stipulations I demanded before signing."

Here is the way the percentage of the gate receipts will be divided:
Carnera, 37½ per cent.
Baer, 12½ per cent.
Dempsey, 7½ per cent.
New York charity, 10 per cent.

This will leave 17½ per cent for the Garden after the New York state tax of 5 per cent and the government tax of 10 per cent is deducted.

Intervening Fights Barred.

According to the agreements in the contract neither Baer nor the champion can box prior to the title bout. This will knock awry Nate Lewis' plans to present a Baer-Walter Neusel encounter at the Stadium the latter part of April.

It is understood that Carnera has canceled a scheduled South American tour and will remain in this country to prepare for his third championship defense against Baer, who is regarded as his strongest opponent. Carnera defeated Paulino Uzcudun at Rome last October and Tommy Loughran at Miami, Fla., two weeks ago.

Hoffman expects to arrive at his Fair Oaks ranch Monday. He will accompany Baer into the mountains 6,800 feet above his ranch, near Lake Tahoe. There the Californian will cut trees and rough it for two weeks. The schedule provides for Baer to spend a week in San Diego. Baer and his handlers will leave for the east a month before the match to select a training camp in the mountains.

CAMBRIDGE AND OXFORD CREWS RENEW RIVALRY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, England, March 16.—The traditional boat race between Oxford and Cambridge will be rowed on the Thames river tomorrow. It will be the 86th time the universities have met since 1829. Thousands are expected to line the banks of the Thames to watch the event.

Cambridge again rules as the favorite to win. It established a new record last year when it triumphed for the tenth consecutive time. Oxford, which has not won since 1923, twice won nine straight races. Cambridge, in its last workout over the 4¼ mile course, was timed in 19:31, while Oxford covered the distance in 19:43.

TRACK STARS TO RACE TONIGHT IN K. OF C. RELAYS

New York, March 16.—(AP)—Track stars of the east and middle west will meet in the Knights of Columbus games at Madison Square Garden tomorrow night. The mile run holds the most interest, with John Follows, two mile king, and Charles Hornbostel, who excels at distances from a half mile to 1,000 yards, challenging Glenn Cunningham, Gene Venzke, and an all-star field.

ASSERT BLAME FOR DRUGGING IS MISPLACED

Success of Florida Derby Day Periled.

BY HARVEY WOODRUFF.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Miami, Fla., March 16.—A strike by members of the Horsemen's Thoroughbred association racing at Hialeah park threatens to cripple tomorrow's finale which includes the seventh Florida Derby and the Juvenile championship for 2 year olds. These members refused to make entries for other events on the card and several declined to include their charges as probable starters in the two stakes unless ordered to do so by their owners. Complaints centered on the alleged danger of doping charges against them.

After a morning and afternoon of conferences between L. D. Jones, representing the horsemen, Chairman Joseph Widener of Hialeah park and Chairman B. F. Paty of the Florida State Racing commission, the deadlock remained unbroken. Hialeah follows commission rulings by law and therefore was in the middle, with its greatest day of racing endangered.

Call for Entries.

Track officials announced racing would be held and seven races offered, even if only one or two horses went to the post in each race other than the stakes which are subscription events. At a meeting following this afternoon's card, the stewards issued an appeal for horsemen to support the association in its efforts to promote sport.

It met cold response. Belief existed a compromise might possibly be effected, but the controversy has gone so far both sides are inclined to be obdurate. An outburst earlier in the meeting was quelled only through the personal appeal of Mr. Widener to horsemen.

Entries for the Derby and juvenile races were closed tonight, but those for the other five events were left open until tomorrow morning, when another meeting of horsemen and commission representatives is to be held in an effort to break the deadlock.

Entries Are Recruited.

Hialeah Park officials worked late into the night contacting various horsemen in an effort to recruit entries for the five races. Their efforts were partially successful. Charles J. McLennan, racing secretary, announced that horses had been entered in each of the races, nine in one, and six, five, four, and three in the others.

Meantime agitation among horsemen has increased. Even conservative horsemen, whether or not association members, profess to be fearful of unjust accusations of stimulating since the saliva tests were inaugurated. Their arguments are that disgruntled stable employés or outsiders could tamper with a horse without their knowledge but the blame would accrue to the trainers with probability of being ruled off.

Ask Longer Supervision.

At present, supervision period of horses before the race is one hour. Horsemen wanted the period raised to three hours or more. Furthermore, they asked that the state's deputy instead of the trainer be held responsible for anything happening to the horse during that period. The commission offered to make the supervision period two hours but declined to assume responsibility. There the conference deadlocked.

The strike followed several commission rulings. George W. Coburn, who had been under suspension pending investigation of Garlic's running, was ruled off. The saliva test showed caffeine had been administered. H. Cooper's application for reinstatement was denied.

John H. Partridge, who trains some of the Nash brothers string in addition to his own, was exonerated in connection with the Ondott case. A saliva test showed caffeine. Because Partridge reported to the veterinary before the race he feared his horse had been tampered with, it was scratched and he was cleared.

Trotter Is Suspended.

C. H. [Tobe] Trotter's Olamay also had a test after a recent race which showed caffeine. After the horse performed poorly, Trotter asked a test as vindication of his suspicions. Because he had not notified officials earlier, he was suspended for the remainder of the meeting. He protested the ruling because he claimed he did not know anything was wrong until after the race.

Jocky L. Balaski, under suspension for rough riding, was suspended for the balance of the Florida season by recommendation of Hialeah stewards to the state commission.

Although this was an off day with rain about the time crowds were starting for the track, which left the going sticky, a surprisingly large pre-derby crowd attended, again overtaxing capacity of both grandstand and clubhouse.

1931—Lightning Bolt.
1929—Upset Lad.
1933—Charley O.
1930—Tiltus.

Texas Aggies to Meet Michigan State in Football

College Station, Tex., March 16.—(AP)—Texas A. & M. college will meet Michigan State in a football game Dec. 8 at San Antonio, the athletic council announced today. The Aggies' schedule also includes a Southwest conference program of six games, and intersectional tilts with Temple university and Centenary college.

SOX CLOSE DEAL FOR BORDAGARAY OF SACRAMENTO

Open Series with Cubs at Los Angeles Today.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pasadena, Cal., March 16.—Owner J. Louis Comiskey of the White Sox today closed for Stanley [Frenchy] Bordagaray, 24 year old outfielder of the Sacramento Senators of the Coast league. The deal had been on the fire for just a week, announcement of the transaction, said by the Sox to have been premature, having been made following the visit of President Earl McNeely of the Sacramento club to the Sox camp on March 10.

As stated in THE TRIBUNE at the time negotiations were started, Bordagaray was obtained for cash and two players. Today's belated formal announcement stated that the two players are to be named by April 1.

Bats .351 in Coast League.

Bordagaray is a chunky type, being built on specifications somewhat similar to the Hack Wilson style of architecture.

The young man was out of many games last year because of an injured knee. Sox scouts and other observers claim that the injury is not a "football knee," suspicion of the existence of this type of permanent injury having been aroused by the fact that Bordagaray for four years was a football star at Fresno State college.

Though he worked in only 117 games Frenchy socked out 146 hits, of which 26 were doubles, three were triples, and seven were home runs. He batted in 65 runs and stole ten bases. His batting average was .351. He bats and throws right handed.

Ready for Duty.

Bordagaray will arrive in Los Angeles tomorrow morning and will be available for service in tomorrow's opener against the Cubs.

And speaking of the Cubs game: Manager Fonseca said after today's practice that he had not altered his plan to pitch Joe Heving, John Pomorski and Whit Wyatt, with Earnshaw, Stine and Jones on deck for Sunday's encounter.

Fonseca had planned to use Tired Ed Durham in one of the games, but the South Carolinan hasn't become thoroughly rested from the pitching he did the first half of last season and probably will be given several more weeks rest before he is asked to pitch his first 1934 inning.

Third Baseman Conrad Flippen tonight became the first White Sox ax victim when Manager Fonseca gave him his unconditional release.

Gino Garibaldi Has Plan to Throw Londos

Gino Garibaldi, Italian heavyweight wrestler, plans to concentrate on toe holds and body slams in an attempt to throw Jim Londos in their bout at the Chicago Stadium next Wednesday night. Garibaldi used the same attack to pin Mayes McLain at Atlantic City recently.

McLain, 220 pound Iowa wrestler, was thrown in straight falls. Garibaldi, who defeated George Zaharias in November in his last Chicago appearance, pinned McLain with a toe hold in 36 minutes and 1 second. Then he tossed the Iowan with a body slam in 2 minutes and 5 seconds.

Londos is wrestling in form and defeated Henry Graber at Sioux Falls, S. D., recently. Prior to that he won from Jack Smith at Milwaukee.

Several styles will be offered by the principals in the four supporting encounters. Dick Shikat and Ray Steele are serious wrestlers with no fancy holds. Shikat meets Pat O'Shocker in the semi-windup. Steele will face Dutch Hefner. O'Shocker and Hefner are considered roughnecks, rowdies, and clowns by the fans

BLACK HORSE TROOP PRESENTS ANNUAL SHOW

The Chicago Black Horse troop will hold its annual military exhibition tonight at the Chicago Riding club armory, Ontario, Erie, and McClurg streets together with two polo games. In the opening polo game the Culver Military academy trio will play the Black Horse troop while the second game brings together the 122d Field artillery and the Chicago Riding club. Members of the Black Horse troop will appear in dress uniform copied from an early American army dragoon uniform, selected by a group of prominent Chicagoans. The program:

Culver vs. Black Horse Troop [two periods].
Mounted band concert under direction of Boyd Pixley.
Last two periods of Culver-Black Horse troop game.
Boys' Latin school riding exhibition.
Jumping title events.
Saber title drills.
122d Field Artillery polo team vs. Chicago Riding club [two periods].
Exhibition platoon drill, Chicago Black Horse troop.
Last two periods of 122d F. A.-Riding club game.

LAYDEN CHANGES COACHING STAF AT NOTRE DAME

Notre Dame, Ind., March 16.—[Special.]—Several changes in coaching personnel at Notre Dame were announced today by Director of Athletics Elmer F. Layden.

Prof. Steve Ronay of the department of English, monogram winning baseball star in 1925, 1926, and 1927, will serve as freshman baseball coach, succeeding Clarence [Jake] Kline who recently was named varsity coach.

Tom Conley, assistant football coach, will replace Clay Johnson as head freshman basketball coach next winter. Johnson will be graduated, magna cum laude, from the college of law in June and will practice law.

Tom [Kitty] Gorman and Steve Banas, members of the 1933 team, will assist Kline, who was named freshman football coach today, a position he has held the last two years.

SMITTY—THE COMING OUT PARTY

Braves Are Defeated by Yankees, 6-4

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 16.—(AP)—With one teammate on base and the score tied, Lou Gehrig connected with a home run inside of the park today to give the New York Yankees a 6 to 4 victory over the Boston Braves in their opening game of the spring exhibition season. Score:

New York [A.]	103	001	200	—	6	11	0

BROWN PITCHERS TRY BATTING.

West Palm Beach, Fla., March 16.—(AP)—Manager Rogers Hornsby has won the hearts of his pitchers by a bit of strategy. Every pitcher thinks he can hit, so the manager of the St. Louis Browns flouted tradition and gave his entire hurling squad a turn in the batting cages. Needing some one to pitch to them, Hornsby did it himself.

REACH TERMS WITH HOLDOUTS.

Biloxi, Miss., March 16.—(AP)—Most of Clark Griffith's pre-season troubles are over. The Washington club president has settled salary differences with Joe Kuhel, who wanted a bigger raise than Griffith offered; Heinie Manush, outfield star who has been a holdout many times, and Dave Harris, pinch-hitter. Only Catcher Cliff Bolton continues at odds with Griffith.

ARGUE FULLIS DEAL.

Bradenton, Fla., March 16.—(AP)—Jimmy Wilson, manager of the Phillies, wants the Cardinal holdout, Ernie Orsatti, but also wants Bill Hallahan or Tex Carleton thrown in, in any trade involving Chick Fullis.

Orsatti has been given permission by the Cardinal management to arrange a trade for his services.

ROWE'S ARM O. K.

Lakeland, Fla., March 16.—(AP)—Manager Mickey Cochrane of the Detroit Tigers was told this afternoon that there is nothing wrong with the pitching arm of Lynwood (Schoolboy) Rowe. Indications were tonight that Rowe would begin pitching tomorrow or be sent back to Beaumont. Dr. Cecil Ferguson said the young pitcher could pitch anything but a fast curve and that he will be able to pitch those in another week.

INDIAN CATCHER FRETS.

New Orleans, La., March 16.—(AP)—Frankie Pytlak is the most disappointed member of the Cleveland baseball club today. His unhappiness is explained by the fact that Manager Walter Johnson won't let Frankie play in the first exhibition game of the season against New Orleans Saturday because Frankie has been working too hard during the training season. Johnson had to chase him to the clubhouse when he observed Frankie running down a bunt as if the world series depended on it.

REDS SIGN SHAUTE.

Tampa, Fla., March 16.—(AP)—Joe Shaute, lefthander, formerly with Cleveland and Brooklyn, signed a contract with the Cincinnati Reds today as training proceeded with a 9 to 7 beating handed the colts by hard hitting regulars. Meanwhile Larry MacPhail, general manager, announced that a school for rookies will be opened at Beckley, W. Va., April 13, in addition to that at Bartlesville, Okla., to open April 2.

PIRATES ARE BAFFLED.

Paso Robles, Cal., March 16.—(AP)—The Pirates' big southpaw, Ralph Birkhofer, held the regulars to one hit in five innings today, while the Yannigans were winning their second straight victory, 2 to 0. The Pirates broke camp after the game, starting on a long exhibition tour.

PHILS' REGULARS WIN.

Winter Haven, Fla., March 16.—(AP)—The Phillies' regulars today captured the training camp championship by beating the Yannigans, 4 to 1, in an errorless six inning game. Chick Fullis hammered out a pair of triples, both off Jumbo Jim Elliott. Wes Schulmerich added another.

TENNES WINS; FIRE DESTROYS ITALIAN BOAT

Palm Beach, Fla., March 16.—(AP)—Fire destroyed an Italian speed boat and forced its driver into Lake Worth during a program in which Horace Tennes, Northwestern university student, kept all honors from going to Italy and France today in the resumption of the international motorboat regatta.

Prince Carlo Maurizio, captain of the Italian team, was endeavoring to lessen the distance between his six litre Niniette IV. and the Lia V. of his countryman, Antonio Becchi, in the sixth lap of the 12 litre event, when smoke rolled from beneath the top housing of the Niniette and flames swept back into the driving compartment.

Prince Ruspoli leaped into the water and pushed away from the blazing speedboat. Picked up a minute or two later, the prince was found to have suffered only a slight burn on his left leg.

The 12 litre race went on, with Becchi, who won Tuesday, repeating his victory with an average speed of 52.17 miles an hour for the eight lap 24 statute mile course.

Tennes whipped his Miss Hoot Nanny about the course in 19:33 2-5, fastest time of the meet, to win the eighth event in the series.

CENTRAL A. A. U. TRACK ATHLETES BREAK 6 MARKS

Team Standings

Marquette	10	Kenran A. C.	5
South Parks	9	Avondale	5
Northwestern	8	Lincoln Park	2
Wisconsin	8	Illinois A. C.	2
Chicago	6½	Oak Park Y.	1
Illinois	6

Six meet records were broken and a seventh was equaled in the 36th annual running of the Central A. A. U. track meet at the University of Chicago fieldhouse last night. All of the marks involved, however, were set for the first time in last year's meet, when meter length distances were first employed.

Unattached athletes, among whom were many university freshmen, carried off the honors of the evening with 54½ points. Marquette university's 10 points were enough to win the organization title. Freshman teams of Illinois and Northwestern, competing as unattached, scored 13 points each.

Metcalfe Stays Out.

Records broken were those in the broad jump, high hurdles, 600 meter run, 1,500 meter walk, 1,000 meter run and 300 meter run. Bob Grieve, Illinois freshman, equaled the 60 meter record of :06.8 set last year by Metcalfe of Marquette. Metcalfe was present at the meet, but did not compete because of a slight tendon strain. He indicated that he would run in the Armour relays tonight.

Jim Brooks, of the South Parks team, broad jumped 23 feet 10½ inches to break his own mark of 23 feet 3¼ inches set last year. Bob Clarke of Wisconsin ran :08.7 in the 65 yard high hurdles, taking a tenth of a second off the mark made by Lee Sentman of the I. A. C. Jack Fleming, Northwestern sophomore, ran the 600 meters in 1:22.1, breaking his own record of 1:25.3. John Francis, a Chicagoan competing unattached, covered the 1,000 meters in 2:36.3, breaking the record of 2:39.9 set by Schmit of Marquette.

Art Student Sets Mark.

Paul Phillips of Marquette was credited with :36.4 for the 300 meter run, breaking the mark of :37.1 set by Brown, N. U. freshman. Phillips ran his record time in a semi-final heat.

William Mihalo, a student at the Art institute whose home is in Centerville, Ia., set a record of 7 minutes 13.4 seconds in the 1,500 meter walk, improving on the mark of 7 minutes 44.5 seconds established last year by Harold Cutbill of the Illinois Athletic club.

1,600 METER RELAY—Won by Michigan State [Cobb, Dennis, Warren, Hoff]; Illinois, second; Wisconsin, third; Marquette, fourth. Time, 3:23.8.

HIGH JUMP—Won by Burgmeier [Avondale Playground]; Conrad [unattached], second; Pollensky [Illinois frosh], and Bechtel [Oak Park Y. M. C. A.], tied for third. Height, 6 feet 2 inches.

600 METER RUN — Won by Fleming [Northwestern]; Heg [N. U. frosh], second; Reeves [N. U. frosh], third; Carter [South Parks], fourth. Time, 1:22.1. [breaks meet record of 1:25.3 set by Fleming last year.]

50 METER DASH—Won by Grieve [Illinois frosh]; Packard [Rockford], second; Phillips [Marquette], third; Russell [Illinois], fourth. Time, :06.8 [equals meet record set by Metcalfe of Marquette last year].

1,500 METER WALK—Won by Mihalo [unattached]; Klimek [Illinois frosh], second; Riban [Congress Park], third; Tiger-man [I. A. C.], fourth. Time, 7:13.4 [breaks record of 7:44.3 set by Cutbill of the I. A. C. last year].

1,000 METER RUN—Won by Francis [unattached]; Longman [South Park], second; Ellinwood [unattached], third; Campbell [Marquette], fourth. Time, 2:36.3 [breaks record of 2:39.9 set by Schmidt of Marquette last year].

POLE VAULT—Won by Economos [Kenfron A. C.]; Roberts [Chicago] and Lennington [unattached], tied for second; Eardley [I. A. C.], fourth. Height, 13 ft.

65 METER HIGH HURDLES—Won by Clarke [Wisconsin]; Jens [Northwestern] second; Stetwee [Wisconsin], third; Robinson [Rockford], fourth. Time, :08.7 [breaks meet record of :08.8 set by Sentman of I. A. C. last year].

3,000 METER RUN—Won by O'Neal [Marquette]; West [Illinois frosh], second; Basani [Lincoln Park], third; Kapp [Chicago], fourth. Time, 9:19.9.

BROAD JUMP — Won by Brooks [South Parks]; Dreusicke [unattached], second; Berwanger [Chicago], third; Parker [Wisconsin], fourth. Distance, 23 ft. 10¾ inches [breaks record of 23 ft. 3¼ inches set by Brooks jumping for U. of C. last year].

300 METER RUN—Won by Doherty [N. U. frosh]; Quinlan [N. U. frosh], second. Other finishers disqualified. Time, :37 [breaks record :37.1 set by Brown, N. U. frosh, last year. Phillips of Marquette ran :36.4 in preliminary heat last night, establishing new record for event].

3,200 METER RELAY—Won by Purdue [McQueen, Moore, Popejoy, Crossman]; Michigan State, second; Illinois, third; Indianapolis Y. M. C. A., fourth. Time, 7:55.1.

ARMOUR RELAYS TONIGHT

Chicago is not regarded as a good "track" town, but the city will have a good chance today to become conscious of the merits of running and jumping. Following hard upon the heels of the Central A. A. U. meet held last night at the University of Chicago fieldhouse the city high schools will hold their championship meet this afternoon and the Armour institute relays will wind up the indoor season tonight at the same place.

The Armour meet promises to draw the greatest number of competitors that Chicago will see this year. Thirty-one institutions of the central states, eleven in the university class and twenty in the college section, are sending 250 athletes to the Midway. Twenty events are scheduled.

Metcalfe to Run.

Though the Armour meet is six years old, no record is more than two years old and tonight new marks are expected in from six to ten events. Chief among the prospective record smashers is Ralph Metcalfe of Marquette university, who will be running the 70 yard sprint for the first time in competition.

Preliminaries in three events, the dash and the high and low hurdles, will begin at 4:15 p. m., immediately after the high school meet is concluded. The first finals, those in the field events, will get under way at 7 p. m. The first evening races, the dash semi-finals will start at 7:30.

Six Big Ten schools, Illinois, Chicago, Northwestern, Wisconsin, Indiana, and Purdue; Michigan State, winner of the Central Intercollegiates; Marquette, Notre Dame, and Pittsburgh head the list of competing schools. North Central college, Illinois State Normal, Butler, Loyola, Carleton, Michigan Normal, and Armour are among the stronger of the entrants in the college section.

Conference Swimmers to Meet Tonight

Iowa City, Ia., March 16.—[Special.]—Ten championships will be determined and a complete new set of conference records established here tomorrow night as 100 swimmers and divers meet in the twenty-fourth Big Ten title meet.

The field representing nine conference schools is regarded as one of the fastest ever to compete in a championship competition. Entries had been received today from every Big Ten school except Wisconsin.

Expect New Records.

Coach Dave Armbruster of Iowa, manager of the meet, said that a new set of records for a 150 foot course would probably be voted by the tank coaches for the meet here. The Hawkeye pool provides the only 150 foot course in the conference at the present time, and all the current records were made over 60 and 75 foot distances.

Michigan, with a well balanced combination, along with a trio of individual stars, is the heavy favorite to win the team championship. The Wolverines will be seeking their fourth consecutive title.

Four Champions in Meet.

Among the individual stars are four defending champions of last year, all of whom are favored to repeat.

Don Horn, Northwestern, appears unbeatable in the 200 yard breast stroke event, as does Dick Degner, Michigan, in diving. Degener, however, will have the second and third place winners of last year, Busby of Iowa and Wilkie of Northwestern, to beat again.

SPENCE WINS TWO HEATS

New Brunswick, N. J., March 16.—(AP)—Walter Spence, Rutgers ace, today became the choice to win two individual championships of the Intercollegiate Swimming association. Spence had the fastest times in the 50 and 100 yard free style qualifying races.

He was timed in 23.8 seconds to win the semi-final of the 50 yard swim and raced the 100 in 51.7 seconds, one-tenth of a second slower than his own intercollegiate record.

Yale gained 10 places in the finals, putting at least one man in each of the eight events. Rutgers and Harvard trailed Yale in gaining final berths, each acquiring six. Navy and Penn collected four each.

ADD FOUR RACES TO FIRST DAY OF HARNESS MEET

So many requests have been received for reservations on the inaugural program of harness races to be presented by the Chicago Riding and Trotting club that the organization, meeting last night at the Sherman hotel, decided to add four races to its first card.

With the addition of two events for two year olds and the same number for three year olds, the opening card at the River road and North avenue track will be made up of eight afternoon events and eight evening races. The added events will be for both pacers and trotters.

Tom Hogan, organizer of the club, said 200 applications for stable accommodations have been received.

Can Jones Come Back? He Shoots a 5 Under Par

Augusta, Ga., March 16.—(AP)—Bobby Jones today fired another challenge at golfers who expect to enter next week's Augusta national invitation tournament by shooting a sub-par 67 in a practice round. Jones, who has not played in a tournament since he won the four major crowns in 1930, had 33 out and 34 in, five strokes under par. He was playing in a friendly foursome. Jones recently shot a 65 on the course.

Hawks Return Home to Meet Toronto Sextet

The Chicago Blackhawks returned yesterday from their last road trip of the National Hocky league season and will work out at the Coliseum this morning in preparation for the final game of the campaign tomorrow night against the Toronto Maple Leafs at the Chicago Stadium.

The recent tour opened disastrously for the Hawks with defeats by Detroit and Montreal, but ended happily Thursday night with a 2 to 1 victory over the Leafs, rated the strongest team in the league. Lionel Conacher, big defense man, was left in Toronto to recover from a blow dealt by the stick of his brother, Charley of the Leafs. He will play tomorrow, however. Jack Leswick suffered a twisted ankle, and will be unable to play tomorrow, necessitating the return of Tommy Cook, who nursed an injured knee while the team was on the road. Mush March, also hurt on the trip, will be available.

Chicago tickets for the Stanley cup series, which will open next week, will be placed on sale at all six Blackhawk ticket offices at 9 o'clock Monday morning.

Woods and Waters By Bob Becker

The state of Ohio places the common crow in position No. 1 among its wild life "public enemies," thus joining its neighbor states in condemning this menace to song and game birds.

Ohio lines up the wild life "public enemies" as follows: 1. The black crow, killer of bird life, destroyer of fledglings, eggs and even small rabbits. 2. The domestic cat, good enough at home, but wandering through the fields and becoming a roving predator, it's a killer of small song and game birds. 3. The great horned owl, which can take a heavy toll of bird and animal life [anything from a mouse to a rabbit is meat to this big predator]. 4. The fox, eating everything he kills, thus not being in the weasel class, which kills for the love of it, but an enemy of bird life, according to Ohio's verdict.

Scientists will hardly agree with Ohio on its stand on the fox. Recent stories of its food habits have shown that it isn't as bad as he is painted. Of course, much depends on the locality in which old Reynard is trying to find a living. If he can secure plenty of other food [especially mice] he doesn't make as many raids against small bird life as is generally supposed.

Tennessee has had a crow week to focus attention on the destructive habits of the bird. Indiana is conducting a crow contest to reduce the number of flocks in the state. Illinois really deserves credit for starting no small part of the anti-crow campaign in the Mississippi valley through its aggressive control measures.

When Charles F. Thompson, acting director of conservation, swung into action he found so many crows in one flock downstate that he could hardly believe his eyes. Shotgun raids against the rookeries netted thousands of birds during a single night.

The campaign under Mr. Thompson's direction has been going on for several months with excellent success. Yet the large number of birds killed has hardly made an impression on crow flocks in this state.

Sportsmen will have to lend their help through April and May, when the crows are nesting. Incidentally, those months offer the easiest hunting and the most shooting per hour in the woods.

A fine conservation measure [in connection with crows] would be the organization of county shoots during the nesting season, such as those conducted by the Kendall County Crow Hunting club every May. Such a shoot brings the farmer and city hunter together for a good purpose and a good time.

Young Geno, Lou Vine to Battle at Midway Monday

Sammy Adams vs. Georgie Trapp [5], 150.
Don Messina vs. Sailor Born [5], 140.
Curtis Mills vs. Tom Habel [4], 150.
Mennen Kumis vs. Jack O'Malley [4], 138.
Mike Mantisch vs. Frank Walsh [wrestling].

Jackie Ausborn, Birmingham, Ala., welterweight will hook up with Laddie Tonelli of Marseilles, Ill., in the eight round feature engagement at Marigold. Izzy Lubansky and Danny Neenan, junior welterweights, collide in the five round semi-final.

Preliminary events:

Adolph Wiater and Willie Davies [5], heavyweights.
Lou Terry and Frank Keevil [4], 138.
Jim Cummings and Matt Dour [4], 160.
Al Woznica and Jack McAdams [wrestling].

Barney Ross, lightweight and junior welterweight titleholder, will leave San Francisco Sunday for Los Angeles, where he is booked to meet Bobby Pacho or Ceferino Garcia on March 27. He is scheduled to return to Chicago March 31.

Harry Dublinsky, local 144 pound boxer, returned unexpectedly yesterday from New Orleans, La., where he engaged in three contests in recent weeks. Dublinsky whipped Billy Hogan, knocked out Ervin Berlier and lost a disputed decision to Eddie [Kid] Wolfe. He canceled another match for next week at Memphis, Tenn., against Ray Kiser in order to be home.

Dick Sisk, Brighton Park welterweight, is training with Young Geno at the Coulon gymnasium for a performance against Billy Miller at Milwaukee Wednesday. . . . Dr. Frank La Gorio, Illinois athletic commission physician, is recovering from a serious cold at his residence. . . . Young Terry, Kentucky welterweight, was turned down by the examining physicians yesterday for a scrap with Laddie Tonelli at the Rainbo Fronton. . . . He was ordered to take a rest for three months because of an irregular heart action.

Fred Kohler, north side light heavyweight, and Kid Mephisto signed yesterday to meet in the windup wrestling bout at Rainbo Fronton next Wednesday. Mephisto has thrown his last three opponents. Franz Hart will wrestle Pierre La Belle.

Division Street Y. M. C. A. Boxers Triumph, 5 to 1

The Division Street Y. M. C. A. boxing team defeated the Irving Park Y, five matches to one, in the Division street gymnasium last night. In the two feature matches, John Angelian of Division beat Tom Miller at 126 pounds, and Frank Zielinski, also of the winning team, whipped Wally Sullivan at 147 pounds.

Fielder Jones, Former Sox Manager, Is Buried

Portland, Ore., March 16.—(AP)—Fielder Jones, former manager of the hitless wonder Chicago White Sox, was buried today. The ceremony was conducted by the Elks lodge of which he was a member. Jones died here Tuesday.

HOLD PING-PONG CLINIC.

Coleman Clark and Robert Ratcliffe of Chicago will play exhibition matches and conduct ping-pong clinics in Iowa over the week end. They will be at the Cedar Rapids Y. M. C. A. to evening and Hotel Russell-Lamson at Waterloo on tomorrow afternoon.

North Shore, Sixth Corps Play Tonight

Three games are on tonight's polo program at the 124th Field Artillery armory, Cottage Grove avenue and 52d street. The North Shore Polo and Hunt club will meet Sixth Corps Area in the Metropolitan league senior division semi-final, the Chicago Riding club will face the Milwaukee Badgers in the junior division semi-final, and the University of Chicago will ride against the South Shore Remount association in a nonleague game. The Maroon-Remount match will start the evening's activities at 7:30 o'clock.

New Players to Compete.

The match between North Shore and Sixth Corps Area will bring together two well balanced teams. Chief interest of the fans will be focused upon Bill Nicholls and Bud Nichoalds of North Shore, who will be making their first league appearance. They and Lieut. Chris Schuh have been drafted by Herb Lorber, the North Shore captain, in the hope of downing the army trio of Lieut. Larry G. Smith, Lieut. John L. Hines Jr., and Lieut. Hobart D. Reed.

Riding Club Improves.

Off to a poor start, the Chicago Riding club trio of John C. Bowers, Bud Collins, and Dave Silberman has since scored two victories, including one over Fort Sheridan. The Milwaukee Badgers are counting heavily upon Bill Wagner. Dick Cullum is a certainty in the Badgers' lineup, with Walter Davidson rounding out the team.

Charlie Roovaart, Eddie Hirsch, and O. T. Henkle Jr. will ride for the South Shore Remounts against the Maroons, who will line up with Bruce Benson, Ray Ickes, and Roy Hepple.

HOPPE, COCHRAN ENTER BALKLINE BILLIARD MEET

Entries have been received by the National Billiard association from Willie Hoppe of New York, world's 18.1 balkline and cushion carom billiard champion, and Welker Cochran, San Francisco, former 18.2 balkline and three cushion billiard champion, to take part in the forthcoming international 18.2 balkline tournament to be held in Chicago, starting Monday, March 26. The contest is to be staged at the 131 South Wabash Avenue Recreation, the site of the recent world's pocket billiard tournament.

Other entries are expected from Kinrey Matsuyama, Tokio, Japan; Eric Hagenlacher, Stuttgart, Germany, a former 18.2 title holder, and Ora C. Morningstar, San Diego, Cal., also a former champion as far back as 1909.

Jeffersonville, 30; Wabash, 28.

Indianapolis, Ind., March 16.—[Special.]—Playing before a capacity crowd of 14,800 at the Butler university fieldhouse tonight, Lebanon defeated Brazil, Martinsville regional winner, 37 to 31, at the twenty-third annual Indiana High School Athletic association tournament here.

Lebanon lost sixteen of its twenty games prior to the tourney, but has found new life at the fieldhouse. Earlier victories were over Frankfort and West Lafayette, each of which was favored. Lebanon is the only former state titleholder to reach the final meet this year.

Smith, Horstman Score.

Logansport, highest scoring team thus far in the tourney, coasted to an easy victory over North Judson, 31 to 20. Smith and Horstman pierced the losers' defense to score frequently with short shots.

Princeton, dark horse winner of the Evansville regional, threatened Hartford City, but the latter five pulled away in the closing minutes to win, 31 to 26. Risinger, Bohr, and Baugher scored during the whirlwind finish. Logansport and Hartford City will meet in the first game of second round play tomorrow morning.

Jasper Wins Easily.

Jasper came to the state tourney in 1914 and lost to Culver, 77 to 4. Today, however, Jasper swept through North Vernon, which had beaten Columbus. Shelbyville regional victor. Jasper, recovering from a measles epidemic, won, 30 to 15.

Litle Beaver Dam, outstanding dark horse of the 1933 tourney, was defeated by the hard-playing Richmond five, 40-12. Richmond won the regional meet at Muncie.

Batesville pushed Technical of Indianapolis until the last few minutes, when the latter, the largest high school in Indiana, puled out to win, 24 to 19. Tech led 12 to 11 at the half, and was tied 18 to 18 at the third quarter.

Hammond Shows Class.

Hammond presented the most formidable team that has appeared from Chicagoland in several years when it defeated Greencastle, 40 to 31. The winners led most of the way, reserves finishing the game. Hammond will play Technical of Indianapolis in the feature of the second bracket of the second round tomorrow morning. Technical and Hammond are coached by Tim and Spud Campbell, brothers and former Franklin college stars.

ST. PHILIP BEATS JOLIET CATHOLIC FOR PREP TITLE

Wins 23-22 After Having 20-13 Lead.

St. Philip defeated Catholic of Joliet, 23 to 22, for the heavyweight championship of the Chicago Catholic High School Basketball league last night at Loyola university.

St. Philip led, 6 to 2, at the quarter; 12 to 9 at the half, and 20 to 13 as the fourth period started.

Shortly after the final period opened McGann, Tezak, and then McGann again registered baskets to make the score 20 to 19. Loch dropped in a free throw for St. Philip, but Simon came back with one for the Joliet team. Then, with less than two minutes to play, A. Howlett sank a field goal to give St. Philip a 23 to 20 lead. Shortly after the tossup McGann scored his third basket.

Stockwell of St. Philip, with four baskets, led both teams in scoring. He had been confined to bed with a severe cold until yesterday, but played a great game. Score:

FALCONS DEFEAT FLOUR CITY SIX IN MIDWEST MEET

The Falcons, Eagle River, Wis., last night defeated the Flour Citys, Minneapolis, 5 to 3, in a first round game of the senior midwest hocky tournament at the Coliseum before a crowd of 2,500. Penalties proved expensive to the Minnesota team, the Falcons scoring what proved to be their margin while Flour City players were in the penalty box. Baudino and Tom Patterson each scored two goals for the victors, the former counting in the second and third periods after the Flour City team had tied the score at 3 to 3.

Four games will be played today with the four first round losers paired against each other. These include the Baby Ruths, Wausau, Minneapolis, and the loser of the Eveleth-Shamrock game. The winner of the latter will meet the Blue Ribbons in the first game tonight, followed by a battle between Eagle River and St. Cloud.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 16.—United States government bonds featured the listed bond market today with gains ranging from 1-32d to 10-32ds point as domestic corporation issues and leading foreign loans moved irregularly lower. Comparative scarcity of offerings rather than heavy buying sent the treasury long term issues higher. Eleven of the thirteen active issues entered new high ground for the year to date.

Total transactions amounted to only $14,258,500, the smallest for a full five hour trading period since March 7. The turnover in the long term treasury issues was $1,801,500, a slight increase over the previous day.

Traders Are Hesitant.

Hesitancy of traders was attributed to the fact that bonds have been advancing steadily for more than a week and to continued unsettlement over the labor situation. Some traders took profits because many bonds are now at the highest levels of two years or more.

Closing prices in the domestic corporation group were off as much as 4 points in extreme instances, but gains in some issues ranged up to 3¾ points. Industrial bonds showed the best strength, with the utilities and rails next in order. Announcement by the Alleghany corporation of a plan to pay on April 1 the interest due in cash and subsequently in preferred stock instead of in cash sent the corporation's 5s, due 1950, up 2¼ points. This issue was by far the most active of the entire bond list.

German Loans Decline.

German bonds continued irregularly lower in the foreign list, but French and Belgian loans held firm. Commonwealth of Australia issues moved up fractionally in active dealings. South American bonds closed irregularly lower.

Fluctuations in domestic bonds on the curb exchange generally held within narrower limits than in the case of similar issues on the stock exchange. The trend was irregularly lower.

HOLC BONDS.

Bonds of the Home Owners' Loan corporation were quoted yesterday at 97 bid, 98 asked.

Diamond Match.

Investors' Guide: Please give me information on Diamond Match preferred and common.—Miss M. E.

Answer: Diamond Match company is the dominant factor in the United States match industry. Acquisition of extensive stands of timber to provide its own raw material led the company into the lumber business. It is, however, primarily a match manufacturer.

Net income has shown an unusually high degree of stability. Decreased demand for matches because of electric lights, pilot lights, etc., has been in large part offset by increased cigaret consumption. Higher tariffs and anti-dumping laws have checked foreign competition. The domestic industry, however, is still overbuilt, having a capacity for about two and a half times the number of matches used.

Net income for 1933 was $2,055,000, which was 2.28 times preferred dividend requirements and equal to $1.58 per common share [allowing for participation with preferred]. This compared with net of $2,037,000, which was 2.18 times preferred dividends and equal to $1.54 per common share on the same basis, for 1932. Net income in 1931 was $2,358,000, against $2,427,000 for 1930 and $2,824,000 for 1929.

Cash and marketable securities alone of about $18,000,000 compared with current liabilities of $1,899,000 on Dec. 31, 1933.

The company has no funded debt. There are outstanding 600,000 shares of $25 par 6 per cent participating preferred and 700,000 shares of no par common. During the last three years the company has retired about 230,000 shares of preferred.

The preferred is entitled to preferential cumulative dividends of $1.50 a year. After the common stock receives $1.50 a share, the preferred participates share for share with the common in any additional distributions in that year until total dividends equal $2 per share for the year, the maximum which it can receive.

Semi-annual dividends of 75 cents a share are being paid on the preferred. The common pays 25 cents a quarter. The preferred deserves a fairly high rating and the common is medium grade.

Arbitrage Impossible.

Investors' Guide: I own a $1,000 Canadian gold bond. I wonder if I could exchange this for gold in Canada and resell this gold to the United States government to advantage to myself.—K. A. N.

Answer: No. Redemption of currency in gold has been suspended in Canada. Furthermore, it is forbidden to export gold from Canada without a license. No license is granted to any person or concern other than a Canadian bank, and heavy penalties are provided for attempts to violate the statute.

Prof. Ray Sees Danger in New Schemes.

BY R. J. RAY.

[Associate Professor of Economics and Foreign Trade, Northwestern University.]

It is no longer possible for critics of the administration in Washington to say that nothing has been done to expand foreign trade as a means of effecting economic recovery. The President has made a bold proposal. He has asked congress for power to make commercial treaties without senate sanction, and to vary existing tariff rates as much as 50 per cent [with the limitation that no commodity on the free list shall be made dutiable]. Should he be given this power?

PROF. R. J. RAY. [E. L. Ray Studio.]

As usual, the President is trying to kill two birds with one stone. This proposal is a depression measure; apparently it is intended as a first step in a new international commercial policy.

New Depression Remedies Sought.

Possibly, also, it is a policy of cooperation with our new gold bullion dollar of changing foreign value—changing as the balance of payment factors and the general prices of the nation dictate. [It is evident that the administration no longer thinks a depreciated dollar is a great stimulus to export trade, and that the executive is still searching for new brooms to sweep away the depression.]

There is another aspect of foreign trade policy now formulating in Washington. The desperate effort to eliminate the continuing disparity between prices for primary products and prices for manufactured goods forces the creation of special banks for financing [subsidizing] agricultural exports, and our eagerness to expand exports will probably result in the same form of subsidy for machinery sales to Russia.

But anybody who believes that such banks can be made to pay expenses should investigate the history of the first Federal Foreign Banking corporation, and anybody who believes in large long-time credits for exports should reflect on our war sales to European governments.

Credits May Become Long Loans.

By the use of special banks of this nature export credits may easily become long-time foreign loans—in a world already overburdened by international loans.

But such a method as the use of special banks for export credit is too slow and too small for an administration that wants to do things, so the President in this proposed bartering wants to be able to offer inducements and administer coercion. The privilege of varying the rate on a commodity as much as 50 per cent must mean upward or downward from the existing rate by as much as one-half.

Inducements or threats of this magnitude would give great bargaining power. This has horrified all Republican congressmen, and some Democratic congressmen are shivering in anticipation of ousting election blasts. But, when we review the horrible mess that congress has made of tariff policy since 1919, we are somewhat sympathetic with the President's request.

Settled Trade Policy Needed.

However, international trade policy should not be thought of as a short-time instrument for the relief of depressions, even depressions that may last for five years. It should be for fifteen, twenty-five, thirty-five—or more—so that business men may adjust their operations to policy; for, once the adjustment is made, men can continue as successfully under free trade or a low tariff policy as under protection.

The President appears to wish to be able to work fast and certainly, with the idea of changing policy overnight in the treatment of a certain country or commodity. More harm than good may be done by a willful man with such puissance. Such use of this power would seriously injure business men here and abroad, and would stimulate a series of commercial wars with various nations and thereby prolong the depression.

Secretary Hull's thesis that the economic recovery of the United States and of the world is dependent on freer international trade is now vigorously supported by Secretary Wallace, probably much to the consternation of those who have preached "America Self-Contained" and who have thought of the President as their leader.

President Gets New Advisers.

Without telling them so, the President has thrown them overboard and is sailing with his secretaries. He is now deeply interested in the decisions of the Committee on Commercial Policy. This committee has shown some wisdom in suggesting that industries be classified into grades for policy treatment; but each industry is a problem, and its conditions are constantly changing.

A permanent independent tariff commission, composed of three members and many experts, could handle this advisory problem better than a committee far away from the details of specific industries. If the President's request for power is granted he should rely upon such a commission.

The United States is in need of an international trade policy which should be part of an international economic policy incorporating, among other features, an international monetary policy. If a party is willing to trust an enlightened President with the power Mr. Roosevelt is asking, all honor to the party and its President, but we must hold political parties responsible.

Inflation Again Rears Head in Market Place

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Inflation has again become the chief topic of interest in the financial community. There seems to be a growing conviction that inflation of one sort or another is inevitable and that it will only be a question of time before the public realizes it and prices begin to soar.

Secretary Morgenthau's pronouncement on silver on Thursday had a quieting effect upon the silver talk and most observers agree that any move to print greenbacks to finance additional gifts or expenditures by the federal government can be successfully resisted by the administration for the present. Nevertheless the financial and economic situation is regarded as being loaded with inflation dynamite.

* *

La Salle street feels that something is going to happen even though it may not be able to figure out why. Some think that it cannot be long postponed; others say that six months or a year may elapse before the effects of developments now under way are fully felt.

A glance at the credit picture discloses that neither a gift to the silver producers nor printing greenbacks to pay bonuses is necessary to inject the ingredients of inflation into the present monetary and credit set-up. Inflation—or whatever you choose to call the thing that sends prices soaring—can come without any further monkeying with the currency. There was inflation during the war and there was inflation during the boom that preceded the collapse of 1929. It was credit inflation brought about largely by governmental tampering with such things as rediscount rates.

* *

What the government was doing to interfere with credit during the war and in the late '20s was mere child's play compared with the steps it is now taking to generate an upward price movement.

The present base for credit expansion is tremendous. First, the nation's gold supply has nearly doubled in terms of dollars—and it is in terms of dollars that prices are made. The administration's act in devaluing the dollar didn't automatically raise prices proportionately, but it did lay the foundation for a vast expansion of credit. Also since devaluation more than half a billion dollars of additional gold has been brought here from abroad.

Bank deposits have increased hundreds of millions, partly as a result of increased government deposits, but also because of the influx of funds from abroad, money taken out of hoarding, and the thawing of frozen assets.

* *

Banks have been slow to increase their commercial loans, but the history of recovery from depressions has been that expansion of bank loans lags about nine to twelve months behind the beginning of recovery. Current earnings reports indicate that many companies have improved their credit positions and various business indices show a steady upturn in trade generally.

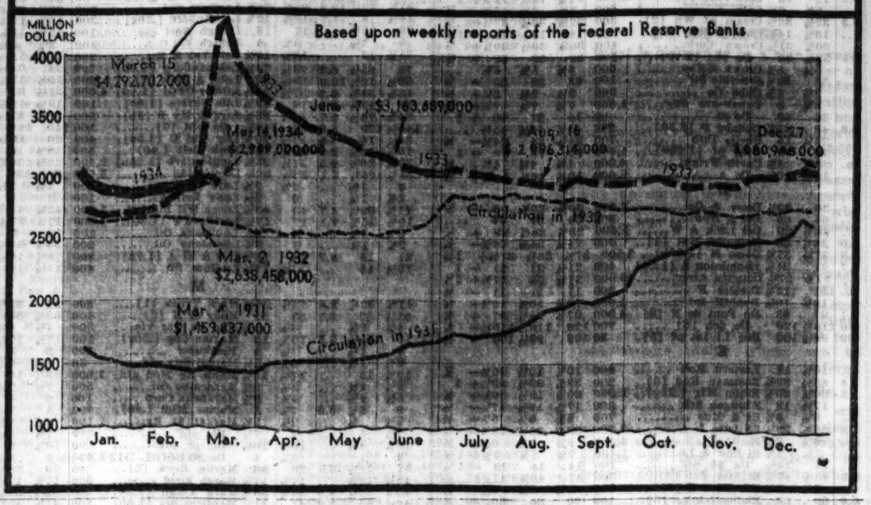
Railroad freight traffic last week made a record advance over the previous year's traffic and electric power output did likewise. If business volume continues to increase as it has since the first of the year demand for bank loans by eligible borrowers is expected to increase.

* *

There are a number of elements of uncertainty in the picture, however, chief among them being the question of whether the business pickup has resulted from revival of confidence or from fear of inflation. The best qualified observers seem to think it's a little of both. One hears with increasing frequency these days tales about John Smith, the big butter and egg man, taking funds out of the business and buying cheap farm land as a hedge against inflation and about Henry Jones, the eminent capitalist, sweetening his portfolio with carefully selected common stocks for the same reason.

As the "street" views it the situation boils down to this: Washington has practically guaranteed a higher price level; the credit base on which to build it has been laid and it's only a question of time before the upturn begins in earnest. Whether it can be controled is another question. It is recalled that the boom of 1927-'29 got out of hand when the dollar was firmly fixed to gold.

FEDERAL RESERVE NOTES IN CIRCULATION



Trade Surges Rapidly Ahead, Survey States

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 16.—"A brief interruption during the opening days of the week was too feeble to check the surge of the spring trade movement, which already had reached sturdy proportions," says Dun & Bradstreet. "Distributive totals now are approaching rapidly the figures set down in 1929, and the acceleration of production is becoming more pronounced in a greater number of branches as delayed spring orders engulf wholesalers.

"The avalanche of new business received from territories throughout the middle west, Atlantic and south Atlantic states is significant testimony that the various federal programs in those sections have established a constant flow of funds to consumers.

Further Gains Predicted.

"Although some increase in unemployment has been noted in districts where industries have been unable, as yet, to absorb fully the workers being laid off gradually by the abandonment of CWA projects, both productive and distributive volume for the balance of March give indications of outdistancing all figures of the last three years.

"Whatever potential handicaps may have been present in the snow flurries at the beginning of the week, these were driven away rapidly by the springlike weather which released so many of the pent-up orders of the last few weeks that retail sales moved abruptly upward to the best volume achieved thus far this year.

Far Above Year Ago.

"Despite the severest wintry weather that has prevailed in twenty years, sales in February made an excellent gain over the January figures, while the total reported for the first half of the current month has risen 50 to 65 per cent, due to the more favorable temperatures, the increasing demands for Easter merchandise, and the reduced sales totals of a year ago, when the bank moratorium brought an almost complete cessation of demand.

"With the breaking of winter and more favorable weather conditions, wholesale markets are reaching a higher pitch of activity than at any time since last August. Postponed orders are beginning to swamp some wholesalers, as road salesmen sent in more business than last week, and mail orders from country districts were nearly doubled in some instances. Volume for the week ranged from 60 to 80 per cent ahead of last year's, with more lines sharing in the better percentage of gains recorded."

746,476 FARMERS GET $61,771,453 FOR WHEAT CONTROL

Washington, D. C., March 16.—(AP)—The farm administration announced today the mailing up to March 15 of 746,476 checks totaling $61,771,453 to wheat farmers coöperating in the acreage reduction program in 37 states.

Mailing of the first payments of 20 cents per bushel on the individual allotments of contract signers has virtually been completed, the administration said. The second payment of 8 cents per bushel, less administration costs of county associations, will be made during the summer after farmers have given proof of compliance with the terms of their contracts.

The total of the first payments is expected to reach $66,000,000 and of the second about $15,000,000.

Chicago Great Western Orders Rails, Fastenings

The Chicago Great Western railroad yesterday ordered 3,400 tons of steel rail and 3,000 tons of rail fastenings, Patrick H. Joyce, president, announced. Illinois Steel got 2,700 tons of rails and 700 tons were ordered from Inland Steel.

ALLIED CHEMICAL-DYE LETS STOCKHOLDERS KNOW ABOUT HOLDINGS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 16.—Complying with its aggreement with the New York stock exchange last July, which ended a controversy of long standing over the policy used in its accounting practices, the Allied Chemical and Dye corporation released today its annual report in a more amplified fashion, introducing important changes in the balance sheet, particularly as to the current assets and investments.

The most striking change lies in the elaboration of an accounting item which was carried a year ago on the balance sheet as "United States government securities and other marketable securities" at a cost of $92,404,341 with the market value disregarded.

In this year's report the entry is broken up into two items. United States government securities are listed in current assets at a cost of $21,263,318 and a market value of $20,394,288 at the end of 1933. Marketable securities costing $70,642,881 are carried separately under investments and not as current assets at a market value of $66,171,532.

Due largely to the above change in bookkeeping, current assets as of Dec. 31, 1933, amounted to $85,157,024, compared with $150,654,669 a year earlier. Current liabilities were $7,250,439, against $8,029,543.

Another change in the current report consists in the information of the number of common shares held by the public, which was lacking in the 1932 report, although it was revealed last July that the company held 187,189 common and 47,309 preferred shares, which amount stood unchanged in the latest report.

The report reveals a net income after depreciation, obsolescence and taxes of $14,595,521, equivalent after preferred dividends to $6.50 a share on 2,214,099 common shares held by the public.

10 MILLION GOLD ARRIVES IN U. S.; DOLLAR FIRMER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 16.—Further gold imports of $10,202,900 were reported today by the Federal Reserve bank of New York. Imports of $7,184,300 from England were listed as of today and imports of $2,553,500 from India, $245,800 from Holland, and $219,300 from England as additional for Thursday.

Today's imports came on the Europe, which carried about $8,000,000 bullion. Some additional gold is due today on the Deutschland, about $500,000 will arrive Monday on the Pennland, and about $1,500,000 on Tuesday on the Ile de France. The Hamburg sailed today from Cherbourg, France, with gold aboard valued at 10,500,000 francs [approximately $682,500].

The dollar advanced, in terms of nongold currencies, in foreign exchange markets today. The British pound sterling yielded ⅞ of a cent to end at $5.09⅛. French francs were unchanged at 6.58 cents. Based on the franc at its final rate, the dollar was valued at approximately 59.54 per cent of its former parity, the same as yesterday.

Gold was again in demand in the London open market, $2,265,050 worth of the metal being purchased at an equivalent of $34.77 a fine ounce, 1 penny an ounce higher than yesterday.

LOOP LANDMARK WILL BE RAZED TO SAVE TAXES

Another loop landmark, the old eight story Union Bank building at 25 North Dearborn street, erected in 1880, is to be turned over to the wreckers in an effort to cut down taxes and operating expenses and bring the property out of the red. Tenants have been notified to move by May 1 and shortly thereafter it is expected demolition will be started.

According to Leo Varty, vice president of the owner, Mrs. Anna L. Sears, widow of Richard Sears, one of the founders of Sears, Roebuck Co., it has not yet been decided how to improve the property. It is considered possible that Mrs. Sears will erect a building similar to the two story Washington-Dearborn building which she recently built just north of the Union Bank building.

Whisky While You Wait—if You Wait for It

Custom made whisky is the latest wrinkle. A distillery in the vicinity of Chicago is selling contracts [for cash, of course] for the delivery of whisky. When the whisky is made the contract holder will receive a warehouse receipt covering the whisky for his contract. The firm, however, has not started production.

Alfred P. Leyburn, former chief national bank examiner in the Chicago district and now occupying the same position in the Cleveland district, is being urged as successor to Chief Examiner William Taylor of the Chicago district, who goes to Milwaukee soon to take a bank job.

Leyburn is reported to have boosters not only in Chicago, but in Washington, where he recently attracted favorable congressional attention for his testimony in the senate banking committee's hearings on the history of the Michigan moratorium.

Leyburn, whose home is in Evanston, is understood to favor a return to this district, but political opposition is expected from Indiana and Michigan. Leyburn's transfer from Chicago to Cleveland was reported at the time to have been the result of political influence.

Here is how one quick thinking New York broker maintained himself in an expensive Manhattan apartment during the depression with little cost to himself. Receivership threatened for the apartment house, a de luxe affair, and the prices of the bonds outstanding against it fell sharply. The broker, because of his position, was able to shop around for the bonds and buy them at 15 cents on the dollar. He turned them in against his rent at from 25 to 35 cents on the dollar. As it turned out the affair proved a good transaction for the building since it was able to retire some of its bonds at greatly reduced cost through the return from an apartment that otherwise would not have been occupied.

Guessing what "inside information" from Washington another trader may have seems to be the popular pastime of operators in speculative markets. As a result some peculiar price changes take place. A trader in stocks, seeing unusual activity in the wheat pit, guesses "somebody knows something" of what is to take place at the capital and accordingly acts on information which the other fellow probably doesn't have. A cotton speculator may take stocks' action as a "hot tip" and, to complete the cycle, the stock trader sometimes reads into the cotton markets' movements a hint as to the next move of the politicians. The long term result is negligible, but it causes a lot of confusion.

VAST SHORTAGE IN HOMES SEEN BY CEMENT MEN

Forty to fifty million persons are living in inadequate houses and the housing shortage is now more than double that at the close of the world war, W. D. M. Allan, director of promotion of the Portland Cement association, told a meeting of midwestern cement men yesterday at the Palmer house.

The session, attended by several hundred salesmen, was one of several promotional events held throughout the United States and Canada, the purpose of which is to increase sales through acquainting salesmen with expanding uses of the product.

Speakers included E. J. Mehren, president of the association; T. L. Hughes, Lehigh Portland Cement company; F. T. Sheets, A. J. Boase, C. D. Franks, and H. J. McDargh of the association; B. F. Affleck, president of the Universal Atlas Cement company, and A. M. Fellows, Alpha Portland Cement company.

R. H. MACY DROPS BERLIN OFFICE; BOYCOTT FELT

New York, March 16.—(AP)—Discontinuance of its Berlin office because of "consumer resistance to goods of German origin" was announced today by R. H. Macy & Co., one of the largest department stores in the country.

According to Macy officials, sales of German made goods in their store showed a 98 per cent drop during the six months ended Feb. 28, 1934.

A new office will be opened at Prague, Czechoslovakia, which will make purchases in the same territory as the Berlin office, with the exception of Germany.

Waltham Watch Increases Wages Another 10 Pct.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Waltham, Mass., March 16.—The Waltham Watch company today announced it has increased the wages of its employés 10 per cent. The raise affects more than 2,000. It is the second increase granted by the company since the NRA came into existence. The first increase was 20 per cent.

Report Russ Trade Agent Will Not Return to U. S.

New York, March 16.—(AP)—Peter A. Bogdanov, chairman of the board of the Amtorg Trading corporation, sailed tonight for Moscow. While a statement from the Soviet trading agency said Bogdanov is returning to Russia to "confer with various officials on matters connected with the development of trade relations between the United States and the U. S. S. R." there have been frequent rumors of late that the Amtorg official would not return to the United States.

FREIGHT TOTAL, AT 1934 PEAK, EXCEEDS 1932

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 16.—Car loadings last week mounted to a new high mark for the year and exceeded the totals of the corresponding weeks of 1933 and 1932 by substantial margins, the American Railway association reported today.

The figures indicated that the movement of freight traffic last week aggregated 612,402 cars, compared with 604,137 cars reported the week before.

In comparison with a year ago loadings represented a rise of 38.8 per cent. Such a comparison, however, was not considered significant in view of the fact that the corresponding week of 1933 marked the first full week of the country-wide banking moritorium. In that week loadings fell 8.4 per cent below the total for the week ended March 4, 1933.

36,921 Above 2 Years Ago.

Coal Under Preceding Week.

All districts reported increases compared with the corresponding week in 1933, and all except the central western district reported increases over 1932.

HEAR EVIDENCE OF RETAIL CODE VIOLATIONS HERE

Evidence on seven alleged violations of the retail code was presented yesterday to the Chicago code authority at a secret session in the Palmer House. Action on the group was not disclosed but it was said four cases were adjudicated and three postponed to March 23.

E. F. Wieboldt heads the local code authority as chairman. Others are Bruce MacLeish, who was represented by E. T. Stevens, Manford K. Allyn, Carl Burgetahler, Raymond E. Durham, Milton Fish, Donald M. Nelson, W. J. Rand Jr., Maurice L. Rothschild and E. G. Lindquist.

At another meeting in the hotel, several hundred hotel representatives, who have not indicated whether they are complying with provisions of the hotel code, attended a meeting called by the code authority of that division. Walter L. Gregory, a member of the national code authority, explained provisions of the code to the group.

Silver Futures Rally, but Bar Metal Declines

New York, March 16.—(AP)—Silver futures rallied today, gaining nearly half a cent an ounce. The market had broken sharply yesterday when it bearishly interpreted Secretary Morgenthau's comments regarding further legislation for the metal. Bar metal, however, was quoted ⅜ cent lower at 45½ cents an ounce.

Chicago City Railways Net Gains Sharply

Sharp improvement in earnings of the Chicago City Railways company, which is in receivership, was registered in the year ended Jan. 31, according to the annual report sent yesterday to stockholders.

Net income after charges and taxes amounted to $1,056,758 for the year, against $81,770 in the preceding twelve months. Of the $45,601,782 gross income of the Chicago Surface lines, residue receipts amounted to $8,071,565, of which Chicago City Railway received 40 per cent, or $3,228,026, against $2,677,677 in the same 1932-'33 period.

The company supplies street car transportation on Chicago's south side and includes the Southern Street Railway company and the Calumet and South Chicago Railway companies.

Surplus Is Increased.

Surplus was increased from $11,654,545 on Jan. 31, 1933, to $12,711,303 at the close of the latest fiscal year. Current position also was improved, quick assets standing at $4,493,641, against $3,453,410 a year previous, and current liabilities at $764,008, against $764,335.

Percentage of net income to capital stock at par amounted to 5.87 per cent, compared with .45 per cent in the preceding year.

The report, which is signed by Harvey B. Fleming, president, reveals that the renewal and depreciation fund at the close of the year amounted to $6,567,875, and special renewal and equipment funds aggregated $184,130.

Trackage Figures.

During the year 14.61 miles of single track were renewed and three single track grade crossings of steam railroads were eliminated. Total single track mileage at the end of the year was 359.51, while miles of single way gasoline bus lines stood at 2.59. These figures compare with 357.94 and 2.59 on Jan. 31, 1933.

A table in the report, captioned "public benefits," showing expenditures from Feb. 1, 1907, to Jan. 31, 1934, reveals that taxes formed the major item of expense. Of the total of $149,337,801, $55,272,014 was utilized for this purpose. The city's 55 per cent share amounted to $47,214,573, street paving accounted for $20,295,147, cleaning right of way $15,832,130, maintenance of way paving aggregated $8,690,455 and track removals $2,030,482.

AURORA-ELGIN REPORTS LARGER LOSS FOR 1933

Operations of the Chicago, Aurora and Elgin railroad in 1933 resulted in a net loss of $656,926, which was $11,670 larger than the loss of the preceding year.

This was revealed in the company's annual report, sent yesterday to stockholders. Britton I. Budd, president, attributed the record to continued unfavorable business conditions during the year. Gross amounted to $1,537,721 and operating expenses and taxes to $1,832,000, respective declines from 1932 of $156,477 and $133,814.

No interest was paid on securities except on equipment notes, real estate mortgages and special assessments for public improvements.

Despite an increase in passengers to 3,748,494, or 6.39 per cent, passenger revenues fell 4.15 per cent to $45,549, due to a reduction in fares, Mr. Budd said. There was a 20 per cent increase in traffic of this class in the last six months of the year over 1932, which produced a gain in passenger revenues of 10 per cent.

At the annual meeting yesterday Theodore S. Roehm, Aurora; Marion J. Pittsford, Wheaton, and C. A. Whonsetler, secretary and treasurer, were elected directors, two of which fill places formerly held by John H. Gulick and Mr. Budd. Directors later named Frank W. Renwick of Elgin, a member of the board, a vice president of the company.

INSURANCE HEAD SAYS MORTGAGES RETURN TO FAVOR

Real estate mortgages are returning to favor as the most desirable form of investment for life insurance companies, according to L. J. Dougherty, president of the Guaranty Life company, who addressed the financial section of the American Life convention at the Palmer house yesterday. Sixty officers of the 129 member companies in the United States and Canada were in attendance to discuss recent trends in insurance finance.

"Life companies feel that interest payments are steadily improving and are comparable to 1929 returns," said Mr. Dougherty. "Distressed securities are working out very satisfactorily and the companies are finding conditions much better than in 1933. Real estate in the middle west has advanced an average of $25 an acre since the middle of last year."

O. J. Lacy, executive vice president of the Minnesota Mutual Life Insurance company, St. Paul, Minn., presided at the meeting, much of which was devoted to informal discussion.

ICKES APPEALS NRA OIL RULING TO HIGH COURT

Washington, D. C., March 16.—(AP)—The appeal of the oil administration against recent decisions in Texas courts holding unconstitutional the NRA oil code and orders curtailing the production of crude oil was filed in the Supreme court today by attorneys for Secretary Ickes.

Oil men thought the court would decide early in April whether it had jurisdiction.

The appeal was the first in which the national industrial recovery act and codes formulated under it were presented to the Supreme court.

MOTOR CHIEFS, NRA HEAD SEEK TO AVERT STRIKE

Propose New Boards to Review Disputes.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 16.—Strikes in automobile and accessories plants in Detroit, Pontiac, Flint, Cleveland, and St. Louis next Wednesday morning will depend upon the outcome of a conference of the executive committee of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce in New York on Monday, The committee, which is the code authority in the automobile industry, will confer on Recovery Administrator Johnson's proposal for a solution of the dispute that threatens to work havoc with the recovery program and which, as one union leader put it today, "may spread heaven knows where."

W. S. KNUDSEN.

Includes Entire Industry.

Gen. Johnson, in a determined effort to bring about industrial peace, enlarged the scope of the dispute which up to this morning, had been between American Federation of Labor unions on one side and the General Motors corporation and a group of accessories companies on the other, to cover the entire automobile manufacturing industry.

He proposed to the National Automobile Chamber:

1. A board of review be created to determine in its own way whether the claims made by the union leaders that they have been delegated by a majority of employés as spokesmen for collective bargaining are correct.

2. An industrial relations board be established by the industry comprising an equal number of employers and employés with an impartial chairman to pass upon cases of alleged discrimination and discharge of employés for joining other than company unions.

Supported by President.

Acting with the full cognizance of President Roosevelt and after telephonic communication with the chief executive, Gen. Johnson presented his plan to W. S. Knudsen, executive vice president of General Motors, who promised a reply by Tuesday morning.

As soon as Gen. Johnson receives the reply he will communicate with the union leaders in Detroit, who will by that time be empowered to order the strike for Wednesday morning if they feel that the answer to their demands is unsatisfactory.

Direct presidential intervention and a possible summoning of both sides to the White House next week was indicated as one possibility that may prolong the controversy beyond Wednesday. But when the union committee of nearly 100 men, led by William Collins, Detroit representative of the American Federation of Labor, left here this afternoon for Detroit, members declared that the "showdown" was imminent.

Want "Law Enforced."

It was emphasized by the union spokesmen that they were not looking to the companies any longer to comply with section 7-A of the recovery act, but that they would recommend that their men "down tools" on Wednesday, "until such a time as the government enforces the law." They maintained that the issue revolved on the question as to whether the government could obtain compliance with the law.

In a resolution, the union leaders said they appreciated the responsibility resting on their shoulders "in this great crisis," and declared they had no other alternative, as the law had been "openly defied by these modern overlords." They issued an appeal to the public "to understand that their struggle is but the struggle of poor men and women to protect and preserve the free institutions of our dear republic."

Mr. Knudsen maintained that there had been no perceptible discrimination by his company against members of independent unions. He deplored the possibility of a strike and said he saw no reason for it, especially since employment had risen to such great proportions in the five divisions under his direction.

Tells of Employment Gain.

He pointed out that from 59,571 employés in October, the Chevrolet, Buick, Pontiac, Oldsmobile, and Cadillac companies had increased employment to cover 154,234 men and women as of Feb. 24.

He refused to go into detail in discussing the proposals of Gen. Johnson and said that the entire matter would be taken up by the code committee of the automobile chamber which consists of Walter Chrysler, George Sloan, and Alvan Macauley.

In union circles it was asserted that the strike would at the beginning affect 60,000 workers in American Federation of Labor unions and 14,000 in the Mechanics Educational society, an independent organization, and that it would spread to other plants.

STOCKS EDGE UP IN QUIET TRADE; NEWS IS BETTER

Expect Auto Plant Strike Will Be Averted.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 16.—The stock market rested on its oars today waiting for the eddies and whirlpools stirred up by the automobile labor strike threat, exchange regulation, silver, and the like to settle. Trading sloughed off to around 1,177,000 shares and prices fluctuated lazily within narrow limits without special impulse from any source. Minor gains predominated in the net changes.

Sentiment on the whole was somewhat better, what with the passing of the tax date, the optimistic tenor of the week-end trade reviews and such morsels of favorable industrial news as the day brought forth. There was a disposition to believe that the motor strike will be averted.

Motor Group Firmer.

Traders did come forward with enough buying orders to tip the beam to the bull side of the automobile group. Chrysler was bid up more than a point and General Motors and Hudson, the two companies most affected by the strike threat, were both acquitted with modest plus signs.

Silver stocks recovered a little with the metal after its sharp fall yesterday when Secretary Morgenthau doused the hopes for silver legislation at this session of congress. U. S. Smelting, the chief victim of the secretary's statement, got back some three points of its Thursday loss and moderate recoveries were made by American Smelting, Cerro de Pasco, and others. Gold stocks were likewise strong. Homestake rebounded 12 points on one sale and then rose five points higher. Alaska Juneau and McIntyre advanced 1 and 2 points, respectively.

Alcohol Shares Rally.

Another group to bid for more favorable consideration was the alcohol shares. National Distillers and American Commercial Alcohol made the best showing, athough neither managed to get more than a point ahead in the procession.

Stocks of chain retail stores, regardless of present financial status, were liked. McClellan was prominent and the three class of stock of McCrory Stores pushed along, the preferred for 4 points. National Bellas Hess preferred and National Department Stores preferred climbed 1 and 2 points, respectively.

Col. Lindbergh's criticism of the air mail contract legislation in his appearance before a senate committee at Washington stimulated some late buying in aircraft issues. Douglas was the best liked of the lot.

DEALERS PLAN TO TELL WOMEN OF GAS APPLIANCES

Charles S. Maginnis, vice president of The Fair, yesterday announced the formation of the Gas Appliance Society of Metropolitan Chicago, a cooperative organization of wholesalers and retailers.

The purpose of the society is to inform women of this area of developments in household appliances, particularly gas ranges. Mr. Maginnis has been elected president of the society. The organization has a laboratory at 700 North Sacramento boulevard, where 35 models of gas ranges have been tested and approved.

Other members of the society include James Parker, vice president; C. A. Luther, secretary; T. V. Purcell, managing director; J. A. Fry, managing director; L. H. Ashbach, L. Blumberg, G. H. Brown, W. M. Dierkes, J. M. Greenhut, G. C. Klopf, S. J. Lukina, R. L. Metsker, M. Millman, Jurgen Petersen, S. C. Pirie Jr., R. A. Ruhl, Adolph Schinagl, B. B. Schwartz, E. W. Shaw, F. J. Wagner, L. R. Walker.

COTTON DULL AND LOWER; TRADERS EYE CONGRESS

With scattered liquidation and indifferent buying support yesterday in the cotton market the close was around a few points from the bottom. There were net losses of 5 to 10 points on futures in Chicago and 7 to 15 points at other markets, New York being the weakest. Spots were 10 points lower at all markets with New York 12.35 cents, and New Orleans, Houston, and Galveston, 12.25 cents.

Traders continue to await the disposition of the Bankhead bill by congress. Spinners' takings for the week were 253,000 bales, compared with 298,000 bales for the previous week. The into-sight movement was 143,000 bales, compared with 99,000 bales last week. Prices:

WOOD REVEALS HE MADE SEARS TIRE STOCK DEAL

Testifies at Hearing on Goodyear Contract.

Gen. Robert E. Wood, president of Sears, Roebuck & Co., yesterday testified before the federal trade commission hearing here that he had suggested the agreement to the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company whereby it turned over 50,000 shares of Goodyear stock to Sears in return for a ten year noncancelable contract.

The hearings, which have been going on for several weeks in various cities, are being held on the charges that the Goodyear company violated the anti-trust laws by selling tires to the Chicago mail order and chain store concern at discriminatory prices which stifled competition. It was Gen. Wood's first appearance before the federal hearings which are being held in the new postoffice building.

Directs 1931 Contract.

Under examination by E. F. Hayecraft, chief counsel for the commission, Gen. Wood said that the 1928 contract with the Goodyear company was being drawn when he became president of Sears. He added, however, that he actively directed the 1931 contract and the contract providing for the transfer of stock. He described the previous testimony of P. W. Litchfield, president of Goodyear, as "substantially correct."

Litchfield told the commission several weeks ago that Gen. Wood told him in 1931 that the Sears company could get better terms from other tire manufacturers and said he would cancel the contract they had unless better terms were offered. Wood said that Litchfield was correct in saying that he had suggested the giving of the 50,000 shares of stock in the interests of both concerns. Under the 1928 contract Goodyear sold tires to Sears at cost plus 6½ per cent.

Could Get Tires Elsewhere.

"I told Mr. Litchfield," Gen. Wood said, "that it would be easy for us to get another big company to make our tires at cost plus 4 per cent, or that we could get a number of smaller companies to make our supply at even less.

"I told him that it was a buyers' market and that he must recognize conditions. I suggested that he cut the price to us to cost plus 4 per cent, or that he keep the price at 6½ per cent and give us the 50,000 shares."

C. L. Schenk, auditor of Sears, Roebuck & Co., presented statistics setting gross profits on tire sales in the retail stores at 21.20 to 35.04 per cent.

EASTMAN KODAK PROFITS RISE 83% TO $4.76 A SHARE

Profits of the Eastman Kodak company increased more than 83 per cent in 1933 as a result of a substantial rise in business in the last six months of the year, according to the annual report issued yesterday. The improvement, started last year, has continued into 1934, William G. Stuber, president, told stockholders.

Combined profits of the company and wholly owned subsidiaries were $11,119,044 last year, equivalent to $4.76 a share on the common stock after provision for preferred dividends. In 1932 the company earned net profit of $6,058,749, or $2.52 a share on common.

Profits arising through the improvement in foreign exchange in relation to the American dollar combined to lift the company's earnings. The better showing was also attributable in part to the lower wage dividend paid to employes. This dividend is calculated on the basis of the common stock dividends paid during the preceding year.

The $3,140,783 shrinkage in foreign net current assets suffered in 1931 and 1932 was more than made up and an additional appreciation of $2,759,631 was shown as a result of the rise in foreign exchange. This appreciation was transferred to general and contingent reserves.

The excess of profits over dividends paid resulted in an increase in surplus to $76,595,941 from $72,599,602 a year earlier.

Shipments of Kelvinator Company Exceed Year Ago

Shipments of the Kelvinator corporation are running considerably ahead of those of the same time last year. H. W. Burritt, vice president, told dealers who met yesterday at the Stevens hotel under the auspices of the L. C. Wiswell company, local distributor. Business of the L. C. Wiswell company during February was 150 per cent over that of February, 1933, said Mr. Wiswell.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, March 16.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw was easier today, and prices declined 5 points under continued liberal offerings of duty frees. Sales reported were 36,000 bags of Philippines for April arrival at 3.12 cents and 10,000 bags of Puerto Rican for March shipment at 3.10 cent to local refiners. Futures were easy in sympathy with the decline in the spot market, but after declining 3 to 4 points in early trading prices rallied on Washington reports that discussions on the administration's sugar bill will be resumed on Monday and that opposition from beet interests appeared to be tapering off. The market closed net unchanged to 1 point higher. Sales were 15,450 tons. Prices follow:

WHEAT RALLIES AFTER 4 DAYS; SHORTS COVER

Strength in Stock Prices and Silver Helps.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Short covering in wheat following four days of declining prices which carried the May off from nearly 3 cents per bushel was largely responsible for the market executing an about face movement yesterday. The opening was at the bottom, and the close at the top, after a range of around 1¼ cents for the day.

Strength in the stock market and in silver prices, and also a report that the Grain Futures administration had recommended to congress a reduction in the tax on trades in grain futures from 5 cents to 1 cent per $100 valuation had much to do with making sentiment more favorable to the buying side. Wheat advanced despite a weather forecast of rain or snow over the winter and spring wheat belts. Blizzards were reported in the northwest before the market closed yesterday. The finish was at net gains of ⅝ to ½ cent.

Winnipeg Market Rallies.

The Winnipeg wheat market, which had declined for five days, rallied along with Chicago and a letup in selling pressure, and closed ⅝ to ½ cent higher. Liverpool was off ½ to ⅝ cent, with pressure to sell nearby Argentine grain again the main depressing influence.

Much talk was heard regarding the clearance of 18,000 bushels of Argentine wheat for the United States, but it was the general impression that the unusual development was a special transaction and did not foretell an impending heavy movement of grain from Argentina to the United States, such as occured in rye late last year. It is estimated Argentine wheat is well above an import basis, based on prices prevailing in Buenos Aires.

Corn Holds Steady.

Corn was little affected by the action of wheat and closed unchanged from Thursday's finish. Oats gained ⅜ to ¼ cent. Rye was ½ to ⅝ cent higher. Barley gained ¼ cent.

Reports from the seaboard indicated American corn was close to an export basis with Europe. Cash corn in both Liverpool and Rotterdam is quoted at a premium over wheat, except for high grade Manitobas.

Farmers in parts of Ohio and Indiana are said to be securing around 50 cents a bushel for cash corn at present, the grain being taken by truck owners who are hauling it into Kentucky and other southern states.

March corn in Buenos Aires advanced to 53¾ cents yesterday, about 3 cents over Chicago May. This is one of the most unusual features, as Argentine corn with few exceptions has been at a heavy discount at Chicago. Exports from Argentina for the week were 862,000 bushels.

Washington, D. C., March 16.—(AP)—Interest on new farm loans by federal intermediate credit banks was reduced today from 3 to 2½ per cent, effective immediately. William I. Myers, farm credit administration governor, said the reduction will continue until the money market stiffens.

All credit organizations operating through the intermediate banks will benefit by the cut.

Production credit associations will lower their rates from 6 to 5½ per cent, rates on loans to cooperatives on stored farm commodities will be reduced from 3 to 2½ per cent, and the rate on merchandising loans to cooperatives will drop from 4 to 3½ per cent.

U. S. TO RE-ENTER HOG MARKETS NEXT MONDAY

Plans to Purchase 7,500 Daily; Prices Sag.

Apparently dissatisfied with the trend of hog prices lately, the government is preparing to reënter the market. Packing houses who bought for the account of the relief corporation on the last order which was canceled last week received instructions from Washington yesterday to begin buying Monday at the rate of 7,500 hogs daily. The Chicago quota is to be about 2,300.

This new order calls for approximately 75,000 to be bought on ten market days, and it was learned that buying orders for April also are being prepared by the government. It was specified again, however, that the government could at any time reduce or cancel these buying orders on a few hours' notice.

Change in Quality.

Buying is to be carried on along the same lines as heretofore, with the exception that a portion of the orders will call for medium quality, preferably lighter weights, because of the larger proportion of these kinds in the receipts. The only objection to the change voiced by local packing houses is the fact that the light medium quality hogs may sell relatively high in comparison to the good grades.

It was learned yesterday that the government is buying pork and lard for April delivery. According to reliable information, the federal buying of pork and lard will be equivalent in quantity to the product they obtain through the hog buying program. Federal hog orders were recently cut in half.

Prices Forced Lower.

A heavier run of hogs yesterday forced prices down 10 to 15 cents, with underweights and plain quality lights off 25 cents. One load of prime 266 pound butchers topped the market, while 200 to 300 pound averages sold up to $4.50 and most of the 140 to 160 pound lights brought $3.75 to $4.15. The general average for the day at $4.30 was off 10 cents, showing 20 cents decline compared with the previous Friday.

The sweeping decline in the lamb market was halted yesterday and at the close a mild rally was scored in the better grades of wooled lambs. A bigger share of the choice grades sold at $9.40, all interests paying this figure for desirable 85 to 95 pound averages.

Cattle have apparently hit a rut after reacting from the highest price levels in 15 months in midweek. Yesterday's trade was slow and prices for the meager supply offered showed the full reduction of 25 to 50 cents compared with the high spot of the week. Nothing of exceptional quality was available, the best full carload of steers in the run selling at $6.75. They averaged 1,108 pounds.

HOUSEHOLD'S LOW RATE POLICY HAS SAVED
Chicago Borrowers
HUNDREDS OF THOUSANDS OF DOLLARS

For over 50 years we have given our customers a square deal. We were the first to reduce our charges below the legal maximum and we intend to continue lending money to worthy people at the lowest possible rate and to give them fair, courteous, businesslike treatment.

The charge for a Household Loan of $300 is 2½% per month on the unpaid balance throughout the life of the loan. Rate on loans less than $300 is 2½% a month on that part of a loan over $100 plus 3½% a month on the first $100. All charges figured on unpaid balances only.

Amount of Loan.	Monthly Rate.	Repaid in 3 mos.	Repaid in 12 mos.	Repaid in 20 mos.
150	3½-2½%	3.51	2.89	2.81
200	3½-2½%	4.22	3.50	3.40
300	2½%	5.00	4.06	3.94
